JOURNAL "X-RAYS."

Old Indian John was a young man when the first white men landed on Chemeketa bottoms, and he knows all the old pioneers from the standpoint of an Indian's keen insight into character. He stood chatting in jargon with one who came among the early missionaries, when a prominent Oregon politician passed by. "You know him, John?" "Yes, me know him. Him Siwash."

Salem should be subjected to the outrage of a Bryan city treasurer who would be so outrageously honest as not to steal.

Life in Salem would lose all interest to a certain class of politicians if all the Salem city money couldn't be run through the milking process of a raffle-off of city warrants. The only way to put warrants to par and keep them there is to elect some man city treasurer who stands on a sound financial platform of common honesty—a Bryan man.

A great deal of stuff that people call thought, and it gets into print, is merely food for thought and the more you feed on it the nearer you come starving.

There is a great deal in politics that is respectable if not successful. There's Seth Low of New York, for instance.

The Republican party of New York City is in this predicament: It preferred to slaughter the welfare of Greater New York by slaughtering the machine. This means that Platt is to renounce McKinley.

With Mark Hanna alive and Platt's machine intact, McKinley is all right for the 1900 nomination.

It is sometimes hard to decide what to believe about a matter. It has been reported by good authority that the city dog-catcher has never fed the dogs in his charge and that is the reason they howl continually. If this is the case, the Salem Humane society should look after the authorities. A Salem man bought a dog at the pound the other day and says he was the fattest dog he ever saw and that the city pound master feeds them well.

A state institution and an infirmary for defunct politicians ought to be two different things.

Salem is to have a solid board of trade that will be a source of pride to the city. It will not be a pass-the-bat affair either.

Why, it is simply horrible to think what would happen if a Bryan city treasurer were elected, who would put Salem finances on an honest basis and make the mayor's bank put up.

The rooms of the McNary home were beautifully decorated with geraniums, carnations, palms and ivy. The wedding ceremony was witnessed by about forty of the immediate relatives and intimate friends of the principals. The bride was accompanied by her brother Chas. L. McNary, by whom she was given away and supported by Miss Lenor Kay as bridesmaid. Mr. Stolz was supported by Harry Olinger as best man.

Following the ceremony congratulations were extended the newly wedded couple after which a wedding supper was discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Stolz have begun house-keeping at No. 102 center street, where they will be "at home" after the 25th inst.
