West Side Change.

The Southern Pacific train on the S. P. Road, which leaves Portland at 4:30 p. m. for McMinnville, will hereafter continue its trip to Independence, arriving there at 8:30 p. m. Returning the train leaves Independence the next morning at 4:30.

This does not change the arriving and leaving time of this train at Stations between Portland and McMinnville, inclusive, being simply an extension of the run.

General Passenger Agent Markham in ordering this change says it is something in the nature of an experiment. If the train is liberally patronized, or even to an extent which will compensate his company for the increased expense, it will be continued indefinitely. The people of the West Side are to be congratulated upon this improved service.

The Iowa Evangelists. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler of Des Moines Iowa, who have spent two weeks at Salem in Evangelistic work, leave Monday morning for two weeks' work at Newburg. On Sunday evening they will give a special sermon at the East Salem Evangelical church, and all who have not heard them should avail themselves of this last opportunity. Mrs. Wheeler as a singer has few equals in her line of work.

A prophet is not without honor save in his own country, but picturesque California was enthusiastically received all through California, large and enthusiastic audiences greeted Miss Kelleher in all the principal cities. You will be surprised and pleased if you come to Unity church on Saturday night.

The Oregonian gives most hearty and extended praise to the entertainment which is to be given in Unity church next Saturday night and which was placed before the people of Portland a short time ago. Don't fail to travel through California with Miss Kelleher.

His Hands Were Tied. "Our little boy broke out with eczema. We were obliged to his hands to keep him from scratching and he suffered everything. We began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a short time his face cleared. He took five or six bottles and has not had a sick day since." Olney Soule, Placer, Idaho.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Easy and yet efficient.

ABOUT OREGON PEOPLE.

Thomas Kay, proprietor and manager of the Salem Woolen mills, has two spinning jacks on the way from the east and another set of cards. The mills are now running twenty looms by day and four by night. All the spinning and carding machinery is also run at night. The product of the twelve looms at the Waterloo mill is dyed and finished at the Salem works. This department is running each night until late hours. When the new machinery coming is all in place there will be employed fully 100 people at the Salem Woolen mills. Prices of woolen mill products have advanced some and the mills have orders far into the future. Wages have not been advanced, except in a few instances, and, like real estate, seem to be the last thing to feel the effect of upward tendencies. The cost of flour and nearly all the necessities of life have been advanced to the laborer and it is time wages went up a little. Still it is better for the laborer to be employed even at low wages than to have no employment. After years of depression all business men are breathing easier and are meeting improved conditions more than half way, and so Mr. Kay is enlarging his mill and expending considerable money on improvements. Those who took stock in the woolen mill when it was burned out may expect to get some dividends in a few years if there are no reverses or setbacks. The keen competition to which all business is subjected these days makes success in any line difficult, and THE JOURNAL feels that it is duty it owes this community to speak a good word for any legitimate business enterprise, and we are glad when there is an opportunity to do so.

McEwen, the hypnotist, has enjoyed a peculiarly happy incident in Salem in the meeting of his parents, whom he had not seen for seven years. He left them in Providence R. I. in 1890, when he left on an Australian tour, and from that time to the day of his arrival in Salem he had lost all track of them. It now turns out that his father and mother have lived in Salem going on three years. P. H. W. McEwen, the hypnotist's father, has during that time been boss fisher at the Thos. Kay Woolen Mills, and knew nothing of their famous son until he arrived in Salem. Last Monday at an early hour a loud knock was heard at the door of his room at the Salem hotel. The young man called out at once, as is his custom, "come in," when to his great astonishment the door opened, and he beheld his mother. This unexpected meeting was certainly a happy one, and will cause the great hypnotist to long remember Oregon's Capital. He immediately went to the mills with his mother, and the family reunion was complete. The son will undoubtedly make his home in Salem hereafter, especially during the summer seasons, when engagements will permit. He is afflicted with chronic catarrh, and is compelled to live in a cool dry climate, hence his summers in the Willamette valley will undoubtedly be most congenial, especially so, since the parents of the young man reside here. Mr. McEwen is accompanied by his wife, and they have a child at their home in Oskaloosa, Iowa. The parents of young McEwen are plain retiring people who pay little attention to public entertainments and consequently have never seen the publicity their son has attained.

Salem has a Shakespearean lecturer in the person of Mrs. Florence Cartwright, who recently addressed the teachers of the public schools on her favorite theme. Those who heard Mrs. Cartwright speak very highly of her work in this line. As a contributor to the journals of the day, both in prose and poetry, this lady has been known for some time, but her appearance in the lecture field is a distinct undertaking. Salem has several men who have graced the platform, but Mrs. Cartwright was not included in our list. There is not enough of attention paid in this city to distinctively literary matters and the formation of a club devoting its meetings entirely to literary culture would be a welcome addition to the mental equipment of a city of learning.

Rev. G. W. Grannis is always doing something that is interesting. He has just used his pulpit Sunday evening to organize an anti-saloon league, in which he hopes to interest all the other churches of the city to join him. Such an organization, if all the churches entered into it, would no doubt prove formidable. Rev. Grannis has never been satisfied to have saloons running in the same town where he preaches. Possibly owing to the disorganized condition of the A. P. A. organization, in which he was very prominent. Rev. Grannis feels the need of a new basis for organizing those he thinks ought to be under his political guidance. Rev. Grannis is a good man in many ways and can always be relied upon to cut quite a swath in one way or another.

About Humane Societies.
SODASVILLE, Ore., Nov. 10, 1897.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—I am in need of a bit of information, and naturally apply to my paper or some of my fellow-subscribers:

I desire membership in a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, and would like to know if the society one existing at Salem is still in existence. Is it necessary for one to be present to join the order and what is the expense? Any other information will be thankfully received.

Yours truly,

T. J. CHESNEY.

[Salem has a humane society but it does not hold regular meetings. Mr. A. Bush was president and still holds the office. The membership fee is $1. Mr. Thomas Stranahan is president of the humane society at Portland. If Mr. Chesney will write to Geo. T. Angell, 19 Milk street, Boston, Mass., he will receive all necessary information about organizing a branch of the American Humane Society.]

A Hop Broker on Hops.
A prominent hop broker has this to say of the hop situation:

"Our market has for the last week or two been quiet, dragging along with a sale here and there of no special interest or importance. If any change noticeable, at all, it is towards lower prices. Some of our growers have become tired waiting for the boom in hops that was sure to come this year, according to newspaper talk, which a farmer usually takes for granted, and feeling the indifference of the dealers, he seems finally to realize the gravity of the situation that confronts him, which forebodes a dull and steady declining market. A good many of the growers are now, therefore, anxious to sell their hops at a lower figure than was offered them two or three weeks ago, or at the beginning of the season. The few sales reported last week were at reduced prices: Choice, 13 to 14c; Prime, 11 to 12c.

Few dealers seem to have any orders on hand, and should the demand not be brisker or England fails to appear as a heavy buyer soon, a further decline in prices may be expected. From one section of Oregon there is reported as being a combination of growers with several thousand bales of hops, choice and prime, who will "plug" together and ship their entire crop to England on consignment, with an advance of 9 and 10c. If this is true and such shipments take place other growers may follow suit, thereby injuring their own interests and disturbing the natural development of a market that would, by not forcing matters, otherwise, sooner or later be available to themselves.

Respectfully,

HANS C. WAHLBERG.

Judge Frank Ives of District Court of Crookston, Minn., says: "For some time I have used Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with seeming great benefit, with exceptions. I have not been free from indigestion in twenty-five years. Geo. W. Roosevelt, U. S. Consul to Brussels, Belgium, Stuart's Tablets, safe, pleasant to take, convenient to carry, give keen appetite, perfect digestion. Mr. W. D. Tomlin, Mechanical Engineer, Duluth, Minn.: 'One box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets has done its work, and I am again gaining flesh and strength. O. E. Ransom, Hustonville, Ky.: 'I was distressed and annoyed for two years with throwing up food, often two or three times a day; had no certainty of retaining a meal if I ate one. Four boxes of the Tablets from my drug-gist have fully cured me. I find them pleasant to take, and convenient to carry. Rev. G. D. Brown, Mondovi, Wis.: 'The effect of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is simply marvelous; a quite hearty dinner of broiled beef steak causes no distress since I began their use. Over six thousand people in the state of Mich. alone in 1896, were cured of stomach troubles by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Full sized packages may be found at all druggists at 50 cents, or sent by mail on receipt of price from Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. Send for little book on stomach diseases, mailed free.

A Great many Pacific Coast people, when contemplating a trip east and when bringing friends west, know very little about the interior line, and the object of this article is to afford reliable information. In the first place for good time and service, select a route via St. Paul and Minneapolis, because the lines that way are continuous under one system without any change of cars, and every man from peanut agent up is a courteous, reliable and experienced officer, ready to aid and protect you in every emergency and capable of making you feel at home and comfortable during the long journey. Then see that your ticket reads via the Wisconsin Central Lines, because that thoroughfare affords strictly first class service, and the meals on its dining cars (always reasonable in price) are equalled by few and excelled by none. Geo. S.
