THE TIDE IS ON.

Saturday my store resembled nothing quite as much as a hive of bees at swarming time. I will have extra clerks from now on, and will endeavor to give the best service possible for the Christmas rush. My display tables with everything plainly marked makes it so very convenient for the trade to select from for themselves. Another lot of silver pin cushions, trays, mirrors and small wares expected in this week.

THOSE HANDKERCHIEFS.—"I want to see those you've advertised" is the cry over and over again, and when once seen it would do you good to hear the complimentary expressions. Positively it's a revelation to meet folks to see the values I can produce for 10, 12, 15, 18 and 25c. Lots of pure linen embroidered at 15c and up. It's that simple line bought at a discount and selling cheap. No two alike. SEE FRONT SHOW CASE.

MY DOLLS.—I have arranged in lots according to price. It's easy for you and convenient for us. 5 cents and up.

A FEARFUL FALL.

Geo. Lawton Walks Out of an Open Window This Morning.

Between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning Geo. Lawton, a well-known local character, walked out of a window on the second floor in the Western Station building, corner State and Commercial streets, falling to the cement pavement beneath, a distance of about 18 feet, breaking his left hip, also the left ankle besides very severely spraining his right ankle and sustaining numerous ugly gashes on his head.

Lawton was found laying on the pavement about 6:30 o'clock by Police Officer Frank Ferrell who immediately removed him to the Red Front Drug Store and summoned medical aid. At 8 o'clock Lawton was removed to the hospital where a careful examination disclosed the fact that his injuries were quite serious. Besides a serious fracture of the left hip, the man's left ankle was also broken. The right ankle was very severely sprained and his head was almost covered with ugly gashes. He was otherwise badly bruised up.

The supposition is that the man while in an intoxicated condition, mistaking the window for a door, French design extending to the floor, for a door, walked out and fell to the pavement beneath. The theory that Lawton was in a somnolent condition is exploded, the frequency with which the man indulged in alcoholic drinks making the former conclusion more probable.

It is not thought Lawton sustained any internal injuries but what he lacked in that way is more than made up to external bruises. He was reported resting very comfortably this afternoon, having had the fractures reduced and his wounds properly dressed.

STATE HOUSE NEWS.

Messrs N. W. Hountree, Robert Giens and A. H. Ballard, all of Portland, have incorporated the Tribune Printing Company, of Portland, with a capital stock of $10,000. On the 25th of March 1897 "The Tribune Publishing Co." was incorporated by Robert Giens, Fred A. Durham and a gentleman by the name of Joyce but whether this is to be succeeded by the new corporation is not known.

M. A. Harrison, Island City, Union Co., E. D. Boyd, Pendleton and Milton W. Sells were the notarial appointments today.

The Clackamas county tax roll was received today; the Marion roll alone is wanting.

The state board of equalization went through the formalities of meeting and adjourning in Salem, the other day. The board, with a job how to procure a copy of a certain decision that it wished to consider, and after finding out that there was no money appropriated for purchasing decisions, D. P. Thompson was delegated to make a trip to Portland, and borrow, if he could, the book from Judge Justice. The decision has now been copied by a private stenographer for about $2.50. The daily expenses of the board, including mileage according to former charges is about $130. This would make an expenditure of $130 in order to save $2.50.—The Daily Times Mountain-Center.

The above was shown to the state board today and D. P. Thompson said he procured a copy of the opinion at Portland at his own expense, several teen pages at 25 cents a page. Still this does not explain why they did not send, right up stairs, to the clerk of the supreme court and get a copy of the opinion. The state board is today considering the opinion.

An Operatic Treat.
The Calhoun opera company of 55 people, which will appear at Reed's opera house next Monday night, come better equipped for another opera to suit the tastes of the most exacting public. Larger in number and stronger in voices, with special scenery, painted by the artist of the day, with new and elegant costumes, with calcium and electrical effects and an excellent orchestra of ten solo musicians under the leadership of Mr. Richard F. Lindsay, gives assurance that a musical treat of unusual excellence is in store for all lovers of that which is best in musical entertainments. Secure your seats at once.

Good Books.—The Getton Reading Circle held a large gathering at the home of Mrs. Amelia Miller, South Commercial street Saturday night. A fine collection of Walker Scott's historical novels, as well as poems and Scott's life of Napoleon were donated, by members and friends. This will be increased by gifts from several gentlemen in this city, making a fine addition of good books to the Lincoln school library.

To Wed.—Late Saturday afternoon a marriage license was issued by County Clerk L. E. Linn to Geo. H. Colgan and Jennette Ranauge. This is the ninth marriage license issued for December.

W. B. Vitez, Waterburg, Conn., Hugh Roberts, Jasper; J. F. Mount, Cincinnati; O. L. B. Cornett and I. Ramey, Springfield; T. H. Rees and W. F. Aurora; C. F. Tooz, Wilsonville; E. E. Porter, Stayton; and A. C. Miles, Liberty, were among those registering at Hotel Salem Sunday.

Phil Metchan Jr., passed through Salem on his return from Matagalpa, Nicaragua. He will return to Salem this evening. Phil was accompanied by Dr. C. W. Cusick who stopped at Albany where he has relatives.

AT UNITY CHURCH.

Rev. Copeland Defends the Theater as Innocent Amusement.

"The theater is an institution of God and a helping agent to advancing civilization," Rev. Copeland, in a very able lecture at the Unity church last evening. He was earnest in his praise for the theater and other harmless amusements as he called them. He said that several hundred years ago the theater in Greece was an institution of the old church; when the new Christian church came into power it condemned everything sanctioned by the old church, regardless of merit, and superstitiously believed that the devil was in the theater. He said that nearly all the more intelligent and enlightened people and churches and ministers had now laid aside this old, old prejudice and accepted good theaters as harmless institutions. The Puritans were consistent in their religion. They believed it was sinful to have any amusement of any kind or to smile or to laugh and hence they condemned the theater and rightfully too. If the anti-theater Christians of today condemn the theater they must condemn every kind of amusement, and must be consistent. "I had as soon make an earnest prayer before the raising of the curtain for one of Soli Russell's plays as I did last winter, offered up a prayer before the gathering called the Oregon Legislature."

There is something uplifting, some moral, some beautiful story taught by almost every play. The villain nearly always is pictured as suffering what he deserves and the persons possessing the virtues are rewarded. Virtues and honesty and morality are exalted by the stage as much as by the church. There are some bad men on the stage; there are some hypocrites in the church. But for the reason of the theater, the great literary world would not have been preserved; some of the most heavenly music would never have been composed and first given in the theaters. The learned divine was amazed that it required so many hundred years to entirely stamp out the old foolish prejudices and superstitions. He also paid a tribute to the social order known as the Elks, the order to which nearly all actors belong.

The sermon was a very interesting one and listened to by a large congregation. Mrs. Holland and Mrs. Carey Martin were heard in one of their beautiful duets.

Talked About Cuba.
A small but thoroughly appreciative and enthusiastic audience gathered at Reed's opera house Saturday evening to hear Capt. E. P. Mahoney, of the Cuban Army, make an address. The speaker related his personal experiences and observations while on the island. At the close of the meeting a rising vote was taken upon the proposition of the bell ringers of the struggling patriots by the United States government, and every patriot in the audience rose to attest his favor of the proposition. Captain Mahoney went to Albany Sunday morning where he delivered an address at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. He will last night for St. Francois, thence to rejoin the Cuban patriots.
