A SCHOOL MEETING.

Held at the City Hall to Levy Taxes for 1918.

The meeting at the city hall Monday night was attended by a small body of representative tax payers.

Adam Ohmart called to order and School Clerk Flagg kept the minutes. His statement of the financial condition who read as it has been published in this paper and it was voted to levy a six mill tax.

A statement of the county clerk was read showing the assessed valuation of Salem district to be $2,005,665 for 1917, as against $2,708,191 for 1916. This shows a decrease of valuation for purposes of taxes of $702,526.

A six mill levy for 1917 produced a tax of $17,249.15, but of this only $13,827.07 was received by the district, the rest being delinquent. The six mill tax this year will levy $15,634, but at the above ratio may not yield over $12,000 revenue.

The JOURNAL Monday printed the following:

There is a bonded debt of $43,650, drawing $2839 a year interest. The floating debt before any tax becomes due will amount to $20,000 in round figures drawing seven per cent.

The annual interest burden will average about $4000. Running expenses for year is $21,882, or annual expenses in all of $25,882. Received from taxes and tuition last year $17,416.72.

We may not have been able to correctly determine the running expenses of the schools from Mr. Flagg's report, which is only nine months.

Mr. Flagg has not served a year and hence his report does not show the year's receipts and expenses. But we are unable to figure out that a six mill levy will meet running expenses. This matter ought to be more fully explained at the next meeting.

As nearly as we can figure it, the district is a year behind on current expenses, and because the warrants draw no interest the district must pay a bank seven per cent on from ten to twenty thousand dollars all the time.

The school board, without law or authority from the people, make these loans on their own notes, or the teachers would have to take discounted warrants. As the salaries of the teachers are not too high, and the board only does what it seems obliged to do in the matter, there is a change in school legislation necessary. Oregon has had notoriously bad school legislation. This district paid the past year 7, 8 or 9 per cent on its bonded debt and current expense account. The school board would be bidding that school warrants would draw 6 per cent interest and then anyone could buy them.

No more bonds should be issued unless payable on demand of the district and then all the idle capital at home and abroad would be bidding to refund them at from three to four per cent interest. The school finances are not in a creditable business-like condition, and the matter of reforming them in the interest of the taxpayer, and not of the money lender should create the earnest attention of the people.

AMUSEMENTS.

Janet Waldorf at the Reed in "The Hunchback."

A rare treat is in store for all lovers of the legitimate drama, tomorrow evening Miss Janet Waldorf will commence a two nights engagement at the opera house, presenting Sheridan Knowles celebrated comedy "The Hunchback," as the opening bill, and "Ingomar" on the next evening.

Speaking of a recent performance given by Miss Waldorf as Juliet and the Mantoba Free Press, December 15, 1917, says: "The performance commenced with the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet" as a prologue, with Miss Waldorf as Juliet and Mr. J. H. Burford as Romeo. In this scene Miss Waldorf was particularly effective and showed talent that justifies the statements of the Eastern critics that she is in the same rank with the celebrated Julia Marlowe. As Hortense, the French maid, Miss Waldorf exhibited wonderful versatility and resource, all of which is required in this somewhat minor but difficult part.

"The scene between Hortense and Tullington, in which the former haughtily returns the money given as a bribe, and courageously refuses to be moved by the threats of prison or the assumed indifference of the crafty lawyer, was acted with great power and certainly deserved the hearty recall given.

"Tomorrow evening Sheridan Knowles' celebrated "Hunchback" will be presented, with Miss Waldorf as Julia, and the costume is said to be of the finest. The company deserves the support of all lovers of the legitimate drama.

Jolly Nelly McHenry comes along on February 16, with "A Night in New York."
