

Pres. Hawley Writes, Explains His Point of View of Old John Brown.

Controversy Somewhat Involved the Lecturer—“Sense versus Sentiment.”

SALEM, Or., March 16, 1898. EDITOR REGISTER. DEAR SIR:—In my lecture in Eugene recently the plan was to outline and discuss the important movements by which the slave power arose and grew into a controlling party of our national affairs; to point out its economic and social evils and its corrupting influences on politics; to indicate its method of growth by acquisition of territory and by legislation in its favor; and to explain the constitutional and lawful means by which it could be restricted, robbed of its vitality, and finally extirpated. The plan included also some extended inquiry into the Dred Scott decision. For four years I have been systematically studying the rise and fall of the slave power in America as told by northern and anti-slavery men, and in Salem and elsewhere have delivered series of lectures from a standpoint hostile to that institution. The Kansas-Nebraska act repealing the Missouri Compromise was a most momentous legislative act and the Dred Scott decision a decision as lawyers say acting with it, made slavery national and freedom sectional. The great problem was to defeat both of these in a constitutional and lawful way.

I am an Anglo-Saxon and a lover of constitutional liberty, in defense of it one of my ancestors died with Warren on Bunker Hill and another aided in rescuing Warren's body from the British. I was reared in a neighborhood where Lincoln was revered and his teachings of the constitutional and the union implicitly believed. This explanation is pardonable, I hope, to explain an engagemment of the situation in 1854-1859, as resistance to the extension and existence of slavery by all constitutional and lawful means. The reference to John Brown was incidental and arose in connection with the operation of the free-state party in Kansas who were trying to secure their success by not unlawful methods and means, while those of Brown according to the histories (which I submit below) were different. It was without personal feeling or malice for being born about the close of the rebellion, I have lived in cooler times and without intent to injure the feelings of others for I was not aware of any special feelings although having enjoyed the friendship of many loyal men who braved the dangers of war in defense of the constitution and the union. I treated the question on the same basis that I would discuss the private life of Queen Elizabeth or the administration of Columbus in a general discussion, as some facts not generally known, but which ought to be known, if history is not to be a "fable agreed upon." Must it be regarded as wrong if one speaks what is found in history, following the great Lincoln, John Brown's career has three phases:—his quiet and commendable life previous to the Kansas events; his work in Kansas and at Harper's Ferry; his trial during which his puritanical spirit flamed up in great brightness. If laying aside any inquiry into his methods and means, the question had arisen on what he hoped to accomplish the restriction and extirpation of slavery,—being the same that aroused that greater, mightier and nobler man Lincoln to accomplish in a constitutional and lawful way, an oration could be pronounced that would make the dead fall into line. But the only matter referred to that night was his connection with Kansas and Harper's Ferry and probably unfortunate by its isolation from the rest of his life. The purpose was not to critically ascribe blame or place in history but to disapprove of unconstitutional and unlawful means and methods, as stated in Lincoln's First Inaugural address.

Wilson's "Division and Reunion," 203; Schouler's "History of the United States," V, 437-447; Robinson's "Kansas Conflict," 263-294, 328-9, 482-7; Von Holst's "Polit. and Const. History of V. U. S.," VII see pages 309-310 of vol. VII, and page 20 footnote of vol. VII; Springer's "Kansas," 137-153, 251-2; Hinton's "John Brown and his Men," 60-65; and elsewhere. Thayer's "Kansas Crusade," 189-201; Rhodes, "History of the United States from 1850," 440-2, 473-4; Sanborn's "Life and Letters of John Brown," 233-4 and elsewhere; Nicolay and Hays "Abraham Lincoln," II, 190-213.

I can make topical studies out of these, if necessary, covering matters in question. I stated nothing on my own authority, and if the facts do not contain the facts, books ought immediately to be written giving facts. Lastly I based my remarks on Lincoln, beginning with the Cooper Institute Speech Feb. 27, 1860, (Nicolay and Hays, II, 213) and taking the Republican Platform of 1860 (and in this connection Seward's speech in the senate, Feb. 29, 1860, see vol. IV, 636, of his works) then Lincoln's first act of acceptance and finally his First Inaugural Address (Nicolay and Hays, II, 327-328, in which he quotes the fourth plank of platform in full, saying "and we denounce the lawless invasion by armed forces of the soil of any state or territory, no matter under what pretext, as among the gravest of crimes." I can now reiterate these sentiments. Is Lincoln wrong? If a man desirous of knowing the history of his country cannot trust Lincoln who can he trust? I stood with Lincoln and I never knew before that it was wrong to do so, and I do not believe it is. I hope it will be remembered that my lecture was for the constitution and the union, that my reference to John Brown was incidental and brief, that the lecture was not complete for lack of time, thus giving such reference an undue prominence, and that as to Harper's Ferry Raid I stated only the opinion of Lincoln. Thanking you for this space and regretting the complication that leads me to meet I am, Truly Yours, W. C. HAWLEY.

Cruelty at Sea. NEW YORK, March 21.—The sorrowful crew that ever sailed into the harbor of New York came in on the British bark Ancyra, 126 days from Hong Hong. Bruised, blackened, weak from lack of food, some having broken bones and others touched by scurvy, they tell a story of hardship and brutality. A reporter who went on board the vessel found several births in the forecabin occupied by men who called pitiously for the doctor. Most of them were covered with unhealed wounds and running sores and several with signs of scurvy. The men charged this state of affairs to Captain Morris, First Mate Robinson, Second Mate Cuno and Boatswain Shellner. Alex McCausland said: "From the day we left Hong Kong we have been strapped and beaten. I have without provocation been struck again and again by captain and second mate. We have no fresh vegetables, our daily rations being two sea biscuit and all the meat. If we asked for better food we were clubbed. "I have seen every sailor on the ship struck by one officer or another. The implements used were a chain, long bamboo club, a bucket, an oak club, and the handle of a mop or broom. I have seen as many as five men with black eyes at the same time. We did not dare strike back lest we be shot." Edward Simpson said: "Peter Hanson was killed by brutality and starvation. The second mate seemed to have a particular grudge against him and so did the captain. They used to take turns in knocking him down, and then they would do it together. Hanson finally got sick and feverish. He was covered with black and blue marks and was weak from the lack of food. Last Sunday they went to his bunk and called him, but he was too weak to get up. Then the captain slammed him down on the deck. This he repeated three times, cursing violently all the while. Hanson groaned but made no answer. In half an hour he was dead." The truthfulness of his narrative was vouched for by Sailors Smith, Thompson, Daniel, Landstrom and Stretch, all of whom declared they would swear to the facts as soon as they had an opportunity.

Sale of the Varez. ROME, March 21.—Arrangements have been made by the Argentine & Orlando Shipbuilding Company, for the sale of the armored cruiser Varez. The name of the purchaser of the Varez is not stated.

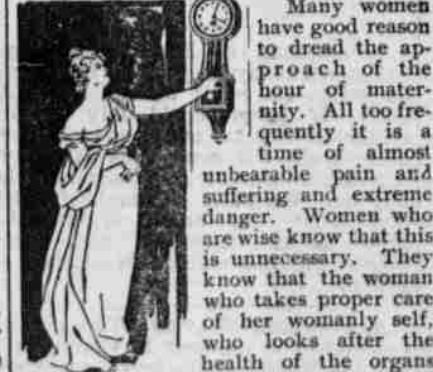

Miss Barton's Plan. HAVANA, via Key West, March 21.—Troops left Matanzas City to make a reconnaissance of the Cuban posts at the eastern extremity of the island. Miss Clara Barton, after calling upon Captain General Blanco, at his suggestion, visited the heads of the colonial government. The autonomists treated her with such courtesy that she broached to them the subject of the allotment of lands to poor Cubans, engaging to furnish their houses from America, and also to superintend any colonies formed. Miss Barton was told that the matter would be carefully considered. After she had left, the officials said: "We are Spanish, and does she think she can make Yankees of us? Her desire must be Americanize the creoles." In a semiradical editorial entitled "All Humanity," La Lucha today refers to the fact that Spain is entertaining the people with a carnival and Madrid is deeply interested in the coming elections, while the United States seems to be entirely devoted to humanity. The editor says the relief work is so wide-spread and so greatly varied here that it is impossible not to suspect that there is some other motive for its charity, and hints at a desire to Americanize Cuba. The paper says Miss Barton has offered to build houses for the sufferers, that "in time they might grow into Yankee colonies, with the Stars and Stripes floating from each house."

At a meeting held at the place by the committee appointed to secure funds for the Spanish navy, Captain-General Blanco said he would use all his influence to induce the officials, military, civil and municipal, to make monthly contributions to augment the naval fund. The function in aid of the navy, which took place at the Tacon theater, will, it is believed, realize $100,000 in gold. For a single admission to the gallery, cigar manufacturer of Havana paid $1200. The smallest price for general admission is $10 in gold. Tickets for the evening's performance costing $400 were given by the naval committee to the commander of the Austrian warship now here, as the representative of a great and friendly nation, and in the admiration and love for the queen regent, who is of Austrian origin.

Fruit Killed by Frost. SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Reports from the central part of the state say that apricots, plums, almonds and cherries have been completely ruined by the heavy frosts of the past few nights. It has burned the pits till they have turned black and will commence dropping off the trees in a day or two. The fruit which holds on the trees will not mature, as it has been frozen till it will eventually shrivel up. Orchids in the vicinity of Linden Lodi and Acampo will not produce sufficient early fruit for the families of the owners. The apricots in these particular sections are very fine usually and command a good price, so the loss to the orchardists will run up into the thousands of dollars. The late fruit is not affected.

Blew Up. JACKSONVILLE, Ill., March 21.—Burglars entered the Bank of Franklin, near here, Saturday night, and blew up the safe, securing between $5000 and $8000. They stole a hand car and escaped.

Many women have good reason to dread the approach of the hour of maternity. All too frequently it is a time of almost unbearable pain and suffering and extreme danger. Women who are wise know that this is unnecessary. They know that the woman who takes proper care of her womanly self, who looks after the health of the organs that make motherhood possible, need have no fear of approaching maternity. They know that there is a sure and safe cure for all weakness and disease of these organs. Over 90,000 of these women have testified in writing to the virtues of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the discovery of Dr. R. V. Pierce, a regularly graduated physician and an eminent and skillful specialist, who is and for thirty years has been chief consulting physician to the Javalisco Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. The "Favorite Prescription" makes the organs of womanhood strong and healthy. It cures all weakness and disease. It prepares for approaching maternity. It does away with the discomforts of the expectant period. It alleviates the pains of parturition and makes baby's advent easy and safe. Druggists sell more of it than of all other remedies for these troubles combined. Woman should know herself. She should not be dependent in every emergency, great and small, upon a physician's take-up. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice will reveal a world of important truths to the woman who is ignorant upon these points. It contains many chapters and illustrations devoted to the reproductive physiology of woman. It is written in plain, straightforward language. The book contains over 1,000 pages. A paper-covered copy will be mailed absolutely free to any one who sends twenty-one one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 565 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y. If cloth binding is desired, send ten cents extra, thirty-one cents in all.

MARRIED. SEELY-NEAL.—In the parlors of the Palace Hotel, Heppner, Or., March 18, 1898, Miss Laura E. Snell, of Albany, to Oscar F. Neal, of Heppner, Justice of the Peace Walter Richardson officiating. The groom is a native Salemite and the bride is one of Albany's fair daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Neal will reside in Heppner, where Mr. Neal expects to engage in the sheep raising business.

A CHANGE AT "CENTRAL."—Miss Alice Steiner, who for the past eight years has so faithfully served as "central" at the local telephone station, has resigned that position, the resignation to take effect April 1. Miss Steiner will be succeeded by Miss Leone Payne. Miss Steiner proved a most efficient and popular employe in the company's service and the loss sustained to the company by her resignation it is said will be another gain. Miss Payne is acquainting herself with the switch-board and will soon be able to expeditiously answer the numerous calls for "central."

TWO ACCIDENTS.—Sunday while riding a horse at his farm home south of this city, John Savage sustained a very painful dislocation of the ankle. The horse slipped and fell upon Mr. Savage dislocating the ankle and very badly smashing the ligaments. Mr. Savage, is a son of Henry H. Savage of this city, and was attended by Dr. W. H. Byrd. Saturday the year old son of D. Gibson fell from the fence at the family home in Polk county and fractured one of the bones in the right fore-arm just below the elbow. The fracture was reduced by Dr. J. N. Smith.

"Saved Her Life."

MRS. JOHN WALLEY, of Jefferson, Wis., than whom none is more highly esteemed or widely known, writes: "In 1890 I had a severe attack of LaGrippe and at the end of four months, in spite of all physicians, friends and good nursing could do, my lungs heart and nervous system were so completely wrecked, my life was despaired of, my friends giving me up. I could only sleep by the use of opium. My lungs and heart pained me terribly and my cough was most aggravating. I could not lie in one position but a short time and not on my left side at all. My husband brought me Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure and I began taking them. When I had taken a half bottle of each I was much better and continuing persistently I took about a dozen bottles and was completely restored to health to the surprise of all." Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee. First bottle 60 cents, second bottle 50 cents, rest of the money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address, DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.
