

Daily, One Year $3.00, in Advance... Weekly, One Year $1.00, in Advance

UNION TICKET.

State Ticket: Governor—W. R. KING... Union Ticket: Justice—JOHN M. PAYNE... Constable—C. M. CHARLTON.

UNION IN WASHINGTON.

[Continued from first page.]... Adams, who sometimes prefaces a "J" to his name for the sake of euphony and ballast, admitted when introduced that he had hallucinations and that at lucid intervals he had been a Democrat.

A DIFFERENCE OF $2240 A DAY in favor of the Fusion administration is an eye-opener to any man, whose only connection with politics is to vote and pay taxes.

The Fusionists, those who united in Washington to stop this waste, to rescue the state from the misrule, extravagance and profligacy, which were not alone sorely oppressing the people, but wrecking the credit of the Commonwealth by a debt so rapidly increasing and an enormous interest charge, were successful in the elections of 1896, and their selected officers assumed administration of public affairs at the beginning of 1897.

Fun and Music

At Old Armory Hall Saturday Night.

Appreciative Audience Entertained by A'lam Bode, a Young Humorist From Duluth, Minnesota.

SOCIETY NOTE BOOK.

The High Five Club, only recently organized in this city, gave its initial party in Hogue's hall, Friday evening.

The ball was very prettily decorated, principally with the national colors and bunting. Prominent among the decorations was the figure "five," symbolic of the club, formed with choice roses, for which the Webfoot state is celebrated.

The popular game of "High Five" was played until a seasonable hour when delicious refreshments were partaken of.

When it was first arranged to bring Adam to Salem, the discovery was made that it would cost money, because good things like Adam come high.

The different Republican committees were appealed to, but they declined to dig up. The money, Chairman Bob thought, could be used more advantageously in paying off some of the employes back wages.

At the Armory several Chinese fire crackers were exploded, more music ground out and Hon. Claud Gatch, lined out in Grannis style, what he called a Republican hymn, America, which the entire audience, which at first consisted of nearly 500 people, joined in singing.

Adam, who sometimes prefaces a "J" to his name for the sake of euphony and ballast, admitted when introduced that he had hallucinations and that at lucid intervals he had been a Democrat.

Adam spoke of the war, and had a little speech, Adam did of placing all the coons in the front ranks. He said it would solve the race problem in the south.

He made many excuses for Spain and the Spaniards and vindicated the dilatory war policy of the old bags. Gold he said, was the poor man's money, but the corporations owned all the silver mines, the railroads, the steamboats, the docks, the smelters and in fact everything but the gold mines ("yes and the government too," said a voice in the crowd.)

Adam came to preach the gospel of peace. There was too much trouble he thought between the classes. The millionaires were very unhappy, therefore they ought to be pitted, but the poor people were all happy. Money was a bad thing to give to most people, therefore he was opposed to them having it.

He was best not only for the individual but for the nation at large. Great people wasn't happy after all, because they were all dead. Cleopatra died a suicide; Napoleon expired on St. Helena's isle; Garfield was shot, and even Adam himself wasn't feeling very well. He said it was a great mistake to send Mark Hanna to the senate, although Mark was the farmer's candidate, a kind of a granger anyway. Adam became serious for a little while, forgot that he had left the Democratic party and began to advocate the establishment of a postal saving bank.

that was done for the Republican ticket in Salem and the boys in the trenches deserve credit for engineering it through successfully, but they will probably not send for Adam again.

THE JOINT CANVASS.

Republican Discomfiture a Prominent Feature.

Union Successes at Scotts Mills, Monitor and Mt. Angel.

The Republicans opened the arguments and occupied one hour's time reiterating and emphasizing their former declarations with little modifications.

The ball was very prettily decorated, principally with the national colors and bunting. Prominent among the decorations was the figure "five," symbolic of the club, formed with choice roses, for which the Webfoot state is celebrated.

The popular game of "High Five" was played until a seasonable hour when delicious refreshments were partaken of.

When it was first arranged to bring Adam to Salem, the discovery was made that it would cost money, because good things like Adam come high.

The different Republican committees were appealed to, but they declined to dig up. The money, Chairman Bob thought, could be used more advantageously in paying off some of the employes back wages.

At the Armory several Chinese fire crackers were exploded, more music ground out and Hon. Claud Gatch, lined out in Grannis style, what he called a Republican hymn, America, which the entire audience, which at first consisted of nearly 500 people, joined in singing.

Adam, who sometimes prefaces a "J" to his name for the sake of euphony and ballast, admitted when introduced that he had hallucinations and that at lucid intervals he had been a Democrat.

Adam spoke of the war, and had a little speech, Adam did of placing all the coons in the front ranks. He said it would solve the race problem in the south.

He made many excuses for Spain and the Spaniards and vindicated the dilatory war policy of the old bags. Gold he said, was the poor man's money, but the corporations owned all the silver mines, the railroads, the steamboats, the docks, the smelters and in fact everything but the gold mines ("yes and the government too," said a voice in the crowd.)

Adam came to preach the gospel of peace. There was too much trouble he thought between the classes. The millionaires were very unhappy, therefore they ought to be pitted, but the poor people were all happy. Money was a bad thing to give to most people, therefore he was opposed to them having it.

He was best not only for the individual but for the nation at large. Great people wasn't happy after all, because they were all dead. Cleopatra died a suicide; Napoleon expired on St. Helena's isle; Garfield was shot, and even Adam himself wasn't feeling very well. He said it was a great mistake to send Mark Hanna to the senate, although Mark was the farmer's candidate, a kind of a granger anyway. Adam became serious for a little while, forgot that he had left the Democratic party and began to advocate the establishment of a postal saving bank.

He was best not only for the individual but for the nation at large. Great people wasn't happy after all, because they were all dead. Cleopatra died a suicide; Napoleon expired on St. Helena's isle; Garfield was shot, and even Adam himself wasn't feeling very well. He said it was a great mistake to send Mark Hanna to the senate, although Mark was the farmer's candidate, a kind of a granger anyway. Adam became serious for a little while, forgot that he had left the Democratic party and began to advocate the establishment of a postal saving bank.

THE JOINT CANVASS.

Republican Discomfiture a Prominent Feature.

Union Successes at Scotts Mills, Monitor and Mt. Angel.

The Republicans opened the arguments and occupied one hour's time reiterating and emphasizing their former declarations with little modifications.

The ball was very prettily decorated, principally with the national colors and bunting. Prominent among the decorations was the figure "five," symbolic of the club, formed with choice roses, for which the Webfoot state is celebrated.

The popular game of "High Five" was played until a seasonable hour when delicious refreshments were partaken of.

When it was first arranged to bring Adam to Salem, the discovery was made that it would cost money, because good things like Adam come high.

The different Republican committees were appealed to, but they declined to dig up. The money, Chairman Bob thought, could be used more advantageously in paying off some of the employes back wages.

At the Armory several Chinese fire crackers were exploded, more music ground out and Hon. Claud Gatch, lined out in Grannis style, what he called a Republican hymn, America, which the entire audience, which at first consisted of nearly 500 people, joined in singing.

Adam, who sometimes prefaces a "J" to his name for the sake of euphony and ballast, admitted when introduced that he had hallucinations and that at lucid intervals he had been a Democrat.

Adam spoke of the war, and had a little speech, Adam did of placing all the coons in the front ranks. He said it would solve the race problem in the south.

He made many excuses for Spain and the Spaniards and vindicated the dilatory war policy of the old bags. Gold he said, was the poor man's money, but the corporations owned all the silver mines, the railroads, the steamboats, the docks, the smelters and in fact everything but the gold mines ("yes and the government too," said a voice in the crowd.)

Adam came to preach the gospel of peace. There was too much trouble he thought between the classes. The millionaires were very unhappy, therefore they ought to be pitted, but the poor people were all happy. Money was a bad thing to give to most people, therefore he was opposed to them having it.

He was best not only for the individual but for the nation at large. Great people wasn't happy after all, because they were all dead. Cleopatra died a suicide; Napoleon expired on St. Helena's isle; Garfield was shot, and even Adam himself wasn't feeling very well. He said it was a great mistake to send Mark Hanna to the senate, although Mark was the farmer's candidate, a kind of a granger anyway. Adam became serious for a little while, forgot that he had left the Democratic party and began to advocate the establishment of a postal saving bank.

He was best not only for the individual but for the nation at large. Great people wasn't happy after all, because they were all dead. Cleopatra died a suicide; Napoleon expired on St. Helena's isle; Garfield was shot, and even Adam himself wasn't feeling very well. He said it was a great mistake to send Mark Hanna to the senate, although Mark was the farmer's candidate, a kind of a granger anyway. Adam became serious for a little while, forgot that he had left the Democratic party and began to advocate the establishment of a postal saving bank.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

A REMEDY FOR THE Effects of Tobacco.

THE excessive use of tobacco, especially by young men is always injurious and undoubtedly shortens life material.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is a powerful medicine, and has been used by thousands of men who have suffered from nervousness, dizziness, and other ailments caused by the use of tobacco.

THE CAMPAIGN BILLS

Why Don't the Republicans Pay as They Go?

A SACK OF FIVE THOUSAND?

A Record of Repudiation and Dishonest Finances.

While admitting that there are a great many unpaid Republican campaign bills of two years ago, Chairman Hendricks says that he has no funds to pay those bills.

It has been charged by a Republican paper at Salem that Mr. Hendricks received the sum of $3000 from the national committee and has collected $2000 more by assessing officials, contractors, employes and candidates.

Now discount this one half and it would leave him $2500 to operate with and surely he could pay up his old campaign bills before contracting new ones.

The meeting at Gervais was not well attended. The Republicans made a serious mistake by not holding young McCourt until the last.

At Woodburn the large hall was reasonably well filled with the people of the thrifty little town and surrounding country.

At Mt. Angel, Friday evening the candidates had the biggest audience since starting out. Those thrifty German Americans turned out with a large-hearted enthusiasm that showed their patriotism for the welfare of their country.

Mr. Flagz was the only speaker for the Republicans, and many of the former subscribers of his Salem Democrat of yore are still wondering whether he was there as an object lesson or a living example of reincarnation by the gold cure.

Mr. Hendricks then introduced the other candidates in turn who made nice little speeches each in his own behalf.

The Union candidates were then introduced and as usual made brief speeches until the venerable G. W. Dimick candidate for state senator was called.

Mr. Dimick had but few minutes at his disposal, but those few minutes were sufficient to show the wild and rattling statements of brother Cummings, who never seems to get down to solid facts on any proposition.

Brother Cummings has never read Robert Burns, it is suggested that he carefully examine the following stanza:

"Oh was some flower the giftie gie us To see ourselves as others see us; 'T would frae some a blunder free us, An' foolish notion."

Extremely Weak. Deficient Blood Causes Loss of Appetite and Final Break Down—Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

Hood's Sarsaparilla. The best in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Sold by all druggists. Price, 25c per bottle.

AN OPEN LETTER TO MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "CASTORIA," the same medicine has borne and does now bear the fac-simile signature of Dr. H. Fletcher.

LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it has the kind you have always bought and has the signature of Dr. H. Fletcher.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC. Railroad still continues the popular route for eastern travel and now that spring is opening up it becomes more so than ever.

Two Transcontinental Routes. Via Spokane, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Omaha and Kansas City. Low rates for the summer season.

Oregon Short Line. The Dining car service operating in the cars of this line is the most elegant service ever inaugurated.

When Going East. Use a first-class line in traveling between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago, and the principal towns in Central Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin Central Lines. For all connections at Chicago and Milwaukee for eastern points.

Corvallis & Eastern R. R. Company. WILLAMETTE RIVER STEAMER "ALBANY". This company is now giving an exceptional service with the steamer Albany.

Canadian Pacific and Soo Pacific. Through tourist sleepers to St. Paul, Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Me., without change.

THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD. Cost over $100,000 to publish. Nearly 500 full page illustrations of our Saviour and the Mother by Great Masters.

MADE ME A MAN. J. E. COVILE, District Passenger Agent, Vancouver.

MADE ME A MAN. J. E. COVILE, District Passenger Agent, Vancouver.

MADE ME A MAN. J. E. COVILE, District Passenger Agent, Vancouver.

MADE ME A MAN. J. E. COVILE, District Passenger Agent, Vancouver.

MADE ME A MAN. J. E. COVILE, District Passenger Agent, Vancouver.