Steam Launches Have Engagements.

No Suitable Place Found for Landing Troops.

Transports Have Not Arrived With Troops.

OFF SANTIAGO DE CUBA, June 18, 10 a. m., via Kingston, Jamaica, Sunday, 4 p. m.—Several attempts to find landing places for the United States troops within a distance of two miles west of Santiago have determined, with previous inquiries to the eastward, that the shore for fifteen miles is lined with Spaniards. While this will not prevent a landing close to Santiago, it may entail considerable delay, as the surrounding country must be thoroughly shelled and cleared before the troops can land in safety.

When Rear-Admiral Sampson received advices that upward of 30 transports would be here today (Saturday), he sent word that they should stand to the south 10 miles and lie there until a landing place had been secured.

Yesterday, at daylight, the launches of the New York and Massachusetts reconnoitered the shore between Cabanas, two miles westward of the entrance to Santiago harbor, and Guayanacoa, two miles further west, both of which points lie east of the range of mountains surrounding Santiago bay.

The launches pushed their noses into a hornet's nest. The brush was fairly alive with Spanish troops of infantry and cavalry, and the fire opened upon the launches was so fierce that their retreat had to be covered by the Vixen and Texas.

When the Texas asked permission of Commodore Schley to take a hand, the commodore shouted to Captain Phillips: "Yes, go in and give 'em—Jack."

The Texas landed four 12-inch shells on the battery at Cabanas, completely demolishing it.

Lieutenant Sharpe, of the Vixen, and Harlow, in command of the launches, were both complimented by Admiral Sampson for gallantry.

It is believed the insurgents, who are in force and under the command of General Garcia about 15 miles distant, will render effective aid in driving the Spanish off shore.

The following is the abstract of Lieutenant Harlow's report to the commander of the Vixen, dated June 18:

"The expedition consisted of a steam launch from the Massachusetts, in charge of Cadet Hart, and a launch from the New York, in charge of Cadet Powell. I took passage on the Massachusetts' launch, leading the way. Soundings were taken on entering the bay close under the old fort, and we were preparing to circumnavigate at full speed, when fire was opened from the fort and rocks on shore. The Massachusetts' launch was some distance ahead, and about 40 yards off the fort. There was no room to turn and our one-pounder could not be brought to bear. We backed and turned under a heavy fire.

"Cadet Hart operated the gun as soon as it could be brought to bear, sitting exposed in the bow and working the gun as coolly and as carefully as if at target practice. Cadet Powell had been firing since the Spaniards opened. He also was perfectly cool. Both launches ran out under heavy fire. The number of Spaniards along the shore was large. The launches, as soon as was practicable, sheered, to give the Vixen the range of the fort. The Vixen and Texas silenced the shore fire promptly.

"I strongly commend Cadet Hart and Cadet Powell for their cool management of the launches. One launch was struck several times. Nobody on either was hurt. A bullet struck a shell at Cadet Hart's feet, but failed to explode it.

"Coxtwin O'Donnell and Seaman Bloom are commended, as also is the coolness with which the marines and sailors withstood the Spanish fire.

"Nothing was learned at Cabanas bay, but at Guayanacoa it is evident a landing is practicable for ship's boats. The same is true of Rancho Cruz, a small bay to the eastward. I am informed that to the north and westward of Cabanas bay there is a large clearing, with plenty of ground, grass and water. I think a simultaneous landing at the three places named would be practicable, if the ships shell the adjacent woods. A junction would naturally follow at the clearing."

Movement of Troops.

A special train consisting of twelve coaches transporting 312 Minnesota troops to San Francisco, enroute to the Philippines, passed through Salem at 4 a. m. Sunday. Attached to the overland last evening was a Pullman tourist car containing 27 stalwart young volunteers, who are enroute to Manila, there to recruit the companies of the Second Regiment, Oregon Volunteers, to their maximum strength of 100 men each. The volunteers were easily distinguished from the other passengers by reason of the "fever caps" that were presented them by the Portland Emergency Corps and which they jokingly christened "government night-caps." The volunteers wore citizens clothing and will not receive their uniforms and accoutrements until they reach San Francisco. They were in charge of Privat John Toedale and were enjoying them selves very much. They were greeted by fully 200 Salermites at the depot and as the train pulled out they were lustily cheered. Portland's quota in the second call for troops was 128 and as soon as a company of them pass the medical examination they are immediately dispatched to San Francisco in squads. The recruiting officers in the metropolis expect to have the desired 128 recruits and have them enroute to Manila by Thursday this week. Among the recruits passing through Sunday evening was Ted Burton, of McCoy, well known in this city. He will join the Salem boys in Company K. As the train started one enthusiastic volunteer shouted "We'll all be with Dewey."

FIRE

Will Be the Doom of Caimanera.

Everything Now Ready to Burn.

Starvation Staring People in the Face.

Guerrillas Preparing to Attack the Marines.

ON BOARD THE ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH-BOAT DANDY, off Guantamo, Saturday, June 18, 5 p. m., via Kingston, Jamaica.—Cuban scouts report that the inhabitants of Caimanera have strown the streets with saw and oil, with the intention of destroying the city and fleeing to the hills. Caimanera lies four miles up the bay from Camp McCalla, under the guns of the American ships, and the situation is desperate. Starving and famine-stricken, convinced of the ultimate triumph of the American arms, and without faith in the Spanish soldiery, the people are believed to have determined to leave their houses in ashes behind them and seek safety in the hills of the north.

The scouts declare that the story is accurate, and say that every building of the town is being rapidly prepared for the torch.

The situation of the besieged is fearful. The people are eating horses and mules and are scouring the hills for fruits and herbs. Occasionally brief bombardments by the American fleet leave the helpless citizens terror-stricken, no preparations for defense being made. It is also stated that the Spanish gunboat at Caimanera has been loaded [with inflammables, and will be burned with the city, her commander declaring that she will never become an American prize.

The scouts also say the Spanish soldiers are in almost complete state of panic as are the civilians, and that they could easily be induced to surrender. Some of the prisoners taken by the marines say they believe the Spanish troops are on the verge of surrender, on account of the lack of food.

Captain McCalla, of the cruiser Marblehead, and Lieutenant-Colonel Huntington, in command of the marines, are not so sure, however, of the reported Spanish route. They received information that a general attack by a force of 350 Spanish soldiers and guerrillas on Camp McCalla is contemplated within a night or two. Preparation was made for an assault.

When the Associated Press dispatch boat Dandy arrived in Guantamo, the hills about the marine camp were brilliant under the shifting rays of the searchlights of the Marblehead, Dolphin and Scorpion, and the marines were lying in the rifle pits, at the guns, ready and anxious for battle, but the night passed without the firing of a shot.

The greatest care was exercised as Captain McCalla is convinced that an attack is likely to occur at any time.

The Iowa joined the fleet here this morning and later the admiral came over on the flagship to inspect the fortifications and confer with Captain McCalla and Lieutenant Colonel Huntington.

The coast in the vicinity of Guantamo is dotted with bright-hued Cuban flags. Numerous camps of insurgents have been established along the beach between Santiago and this place and are used by them for communication with the Cubans in the interior. The information which these men have given has proven highly valuable to the Americans.

General Parela, who is in command of the Spanish forces here, is undoubtedly desperate in regard to obtaining food for his men. The prisoners who have been captured appear to have been ill fed and apparently indifferent to their fate.

A batch of Spaniards was captured by Eosign Pratt, of the Marblehead. While cruising in a steam launch outside the bay, he picked up a 40-foot sloop, containing a Spanish captain and four sailors. They said they were on their way to Guantamo to get a supply of coal oil for the lighthouse at Cape Mayst, but the papers found on the sloop proved that had been sent to obtain information relative to the American forces. The crew of the sloop asserted that they had been ill-fed and ill-treated by the Spanish commander of the Cape Mayst.

There was a brief bombardment of a block-use up the bay by the battle ship Oregon Saturday, and it is believed that at least a score of Spanish were killed. Scouting parties report that the blockhouse was completely destroyed, but that they were unable to discover any bodies, the remains of the soldiers had probably been carried off by their comrades.

The marines are growing restless, owing to the delay in the arrival of the troops, but it is generally believed here that the transports will reach Santiago not later than Monday.

A rumor to the effect that Lieutenant Johnson and his fellow citizens had been seen on the walls of Morro castle under a Spanish guard caused much excitement among the fleet, but the story is discredited on Commodore Schley's flagship. The officers say that Spanish sentries were mistaken for the American prisoners.

WOODBURN TALLY-SHEET MISSING.

Work of Re-Canvassing Marion County Votes for Circuit Judge Handicapped. Justice Hayes of Woodburn, Justice H. A. Johnson, and Deputy County Clerk J. B. Giesy of this city, who constitute the Marion county canvassing board, this morning began the re-count of the Marion county vote for the judgeship. A re-count is necessary to determine the contest recently instituted by P. H. D'Arcy, one of the Union candidates for this office. From the returns at hand from the counties in this district Mr. Boise has a majority of 34 over Mr. D'Arcy. It is possible the official count may reveal some mistake that will alter the figures now at hand.

The board had not proceeded far until it was discovered that the tally-sheet from Woodburn precinct was missing. County Clerk L. V. Ehlen, having gone to Portland this morning, the whereabouts of the missing tally-sheet could not be ascertained, and the work of counting the votes was postponed until 9 o'clock this evening by which time County Clerk Ehlen will have returned from the metropolis.

Justice Hayes of Woodburn one of the board of canvassers, was seen this afternoon by a JOURNAL reporter and from him it was learned that when the board completed its labors last Tuesday morning and was ready for adjournment, the tally-sheets from all the county precincts had been placed in the office of County Clerk L. V. Ehlen. While in the county court room, Mr. Hayes claims that the Woodburn tally-sheet was brought into the room and looked over by Col. N. B. Knight, a Salem attorney, and W. T. Bigdon. While they were looking over the sheet, Mr. Hayes and Mr. H. A. Johnson, two of the members of the canvassing-board, left the room, leaving J. B. Giesy, N. B. Knight and W. T. Bigdon with two or three other parties in the room and in possession of the missing tally-sheet. This was the last seen of the sheet. Mr. Ehlen is expected home from Portland tonight when the whereabouts of the tally-sheet can probably be learned.

The Woodburn tally-sheet was the most poorly kept of the entire county. The canvassing board has already discovered about 20 mistakes in recounting the vote of that precinct. A mistake of 10 votes in favor of Bishop H. L. Barkley has been found. The vote in Woodburn precinct for circuit judge was as follows: Boise 144, Burnett 154, D'Arcy 139, Hewitt 98. These figures are those originally given out but a mistake of ten votes has been found in Mr. D'Arcy's vote reducing it from 139 to 129 votes. The contest begun by Mr. D'Arcy in this case cannot be kept until the missing tally-sheet is returned.
