WILL SOON START FOR SPAIN.

The Oregon Will Lead Watson's Formidable Fleet.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Commander Brownson, of the auxiliary cruiser Yankee, has a full cargo of ammunition in readiness for Commodore Watson's squadron for its attack on the coast of Spain. The Yankee loaded at Newport and sailed Sunday for Santiago. She will reach there some time tomorrow, and the big stock of ammunition will then be placed aboard the battleships and cruisers. This transfer of powder and shells is a delicate operation, requiring time, and it is probable that the week will be well along before this and the coaling of the Yankee will permit the squadron to actually get under way for Spain.

The unparalleled performance of the battleship Oregon, in cruising 15,000 miles to take an active part in the war against Spain, so speedily followed by her magnificent race past the American fleet in pursuit of the Cristobal Colon less than two weeks ago, now is to be rewarded by the flying of the commander-in-chief's flag during the transferring of the seat of hostilities to Spain itself.

Owing to the important mission of Commodore Watson's squadron and its possibility of long absence from an American port, every magazine on the ships will be full when the ships sail. Admiral Sampson recently made requisition for the ammunition supplies, as these had run low, as a result of the engagement with Cervera's squadron and the frequent shelling of Santiago. One load has already been taken down on a supply ship, and the Yankee now fills up the full quota.

Each battle ship will have 200 tons of powder with 50 or 70 of the largest 12-inch or 13-inch shells, according to the size of the big guns; 70 to 80 8-inch shells; 200 to 300 shells for 6-pounders, and other medium-sized guns, and 500 to 800 rounds for the small rapid-fire guns. The cruisers carry approximately the same allowance, without the shells for the 12 and 13-inch guns.

Aside from this equipment of shells, the squadron is well provided with solid armor-piercing steel shot. There has been no call for a renewal of the supplies of the armor piercers, as Admiral Sampson's fleet seems to have used very few of them thus far, confining their work to the big explosive shells. The latter, although not made for armor piercing, are tested by the navy department to pass through four inches of solid steel, not exploding until through the steel. They have done such execution that Admiral Sampson has reserved almost his entire stock of armor-piercing shells.

The navy department will not set a time for the departure of Commodore Watson's squadron, but with the delivery of the Yankee's supplies of ammunition, very few days will be lost before this formidable squadron will be headed for Spain.

It is expected that Watson's fleet will reach the Canaries about August 1, after which he will spend two days under the lee of one of the unfortified Canaries replenishing the bunkers of his fighting ships with coal, the final assault on Spain, scarcely two days distant, will probably be made, and if the last Spanish naval resource represented by Canara's fleet cannot be enticed from Cartagena to protect Cadiz, the American battle ships will quickly be displayed in the Mediterranean.

The fleet as at present formed includes the Oregon and the Massachusetts, the protected cruiser Newark, the auxiliaries Yankee, Dixie and Yosemite, with six colliers and a supply ship. The Oregon has become the flagship, and the Yankee is now at Hampton Roads prepared to start with final orders on Sunday to meet the rest of the squadron on July 20 of St. Thomas.

The departure of Watson's squadrons will leave the Iowa, Indiana, Brooklyn, New York, Texas and Puritan as the armored vessels to batter down the fortifications at Porto Rico, and the cruiser Columbia, Minneapolis, San Francisco, New Orleans, Montgomery and Marblehead to shell a landing place for the debarkation of the army of occupation under General Miles.

A large number of gunboats and other auxiliary vessels will be available to convoy the transports of the Porto Rican expedition without impairing the efficiency of the the Cuban blockade by withdrawing any of the vessels now on that duty.

RETALIATING.

Germany Is Excluding American Boneless Hams.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The fact that our government has been engaged in a vigorous correspondence with the German government, through Ambassador White, has given rise to the assumption that the state department had been making representations to Germany on the conduct of the German naval commanders in the Philippines. This, however, is erroneous. The correspondence in question related to the old issue—the exclusion decrees of the German government directed against the United States hog products. It appears that, acting on very scant evidence, as it was regarded by our officials, the German customs' officers have denied admission into Germany of a large and valuable consignment of bonded hams from a Chicago packing establishment of the highest reputation. The matter has been placed in the hands of Ambassador White to deal with, he being thoroughly familiar with all the aspect of the meat exclusion decrees.

CORBETT-MCCOY MATCH.

The Purse Will Be Twenty Thousand Dollars.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Articles of agreement which will govern a 20-round glove contest between J. J. Corbett and Kid McCoy were signed at Conside's hotel. According to the agreement, the men will fight for a purse of $20,000, the winner to take all, before the Hawthorne Athletic Club, of Buffalo, N. Y., in the afternoon of September 10. If the weather be unfavorable, or if a postponement be desirable on some other grounds, the bout is to be brought off some time between September 10 and 19. The men who affixed their signatures were McGary, representing the club; George F. Conside, on behalf of Corbett, and W. B. Gray, for McCoy.

W. A. Brady was present when the articles were signed, and insisted that the words "for the heavy-weight championship of the world" should be inserted. This was done, although Gray said that Fitzsimmons was champion, and if McCoy won the com-
