SALEM SOCIETY NEWS.

Personal and Social Events at the Capital City and Other Towns

[Readers at Salem and other Oregon towns are requested to send in items of personal and social news to appear in THE DAILY and WEEKLY JOURNAL.—ED.]

Mr. and Mrs. Mobley, of Morning-side, left Tuesday for a visit to old neighborhoods in Iowa and Indiana.

The members of the United Artisan's lodge of this city will meet at their hall this evening at 7:30 o'clock, to bid farewell to Brother George W. Grannis.

Mr. H. Lucky, of Portland, who has been visiting in Eugene, stopped off in this city yesterday afternoon for a sojourn with her brother, B. C. Shelton.

A marriage of much local interest was celebrated at St. Joseph's Catholic church in this city, at 9 o'clock a. m. Tuesday, September 20 1898, uniting Miss Margaret Murray and Mr. Thomas E. Caudfield, Rev. William Daly officiating.

Mr. Mark Montgomery, assistant freight agent at Salem, of the Southern Pacific Co., left last night for Looking Glass, near Roseburg, where this evening, he will wed Miss Naomi A. Strickland.

leaves for Portland Monday Wednesday and Friday at 7 a. m.

Albany college was opened Tuesday, with an address by Dr. Ketchum, of Salem, and other exercises.

It is said in social circles that one of the state University professors has rented a residence and is having the same renovated and will soon take up himself a wife and occupy the same.

Mrs. Gertrude Conser, of Portland, is visiting at the home of Miss Oda Chapman.

While his friends and admirers at Salem will regret to have him leave, Rev. Grannis is sure of a warm welcome in his new charge.

The Methodist brethren of this place are fortunate in securing G. W. Grannis, D. D. as their pastor—the conference having appointed him to this charge.

prices are fair, and the farmer, hop-grower and orchardist feels as though he could afford to take in the fair.

Salem will turn out in force. The work of the canvassing committees proves that Salem business men generally are alive to the advantages of having a good fair here every year.

which will draw crowds from all over the state. While these committees have not, of course, sold their quota of two hundred tickets apiece, they have done good work for the fair, and have sold many season tickets to parties who otherwise would have contented themselves with a single visit.

The association treasury will be several hundred dollars better off for the work of these gentlemen.

Out at the grounds, the track is well occupied during the forenoon, with trotters, pacers and gallopers, and the races promise to be faster than have been seen here before.

Del Norte went around a couple of times this morning in great shape. He will give an exhibition mile tomorrow, the first day of the fair, and another on Saturday.

Another side-show tent has been put up north east of the pavilion. Wagon loads of flowers and shrubbery are being placed in position at the south end of the pavilion.

It is understood that one of the exhibitors making entries in this department has withdrawn, fearing contagion to her stock from, mould and insects, which she claims are prevalent among some of the plants admitted.

This is probably a false alarm. In any case, the three remaining competitors could each furnish an extensive display, and they are all putting forth their best efforts.

No lover of flowers should miss this opportunity to see the best that can be produced in the northwest.

The pavilion is a scene of bustle and apparent confusion, but order will be brought out of chaos before the crowds arrive tomorrow.

The poultry building has had four large ventilators put in the roof, which will tend to enhance the sweetness of the atmosphere therein.

Blooded cattle are now arriving at the grounds in large numbers and being assigned to the stalls set apart for them.

This fine stock receives nearly as much attention as the race horses, being washed, brushed and curried until they shine.

A little Jersey bull was taking his first sponge bath this morning, so much against his will that it took several ropes to keep him on the ground.

Mac Porter, a Benton county pioneer of 1852, arrived yesterday with a carload of black polled cattle for the state fair.

There has been little variation in the temperature during the past seven days, as compared with the preceding seven.

The mean temperature for the week averaged 66 degrees, the same as for the preceding week, and 1 degree higher than for the corresponding week of last year.

The highest temperature during the week was 83 degrees, on Friday, and the lowest was 46 degrees, on Tuesday morning.

The weather was generally calm, with more or less smoke. No rain fell until Sunday night and today, when from thunderstorms from .01 to .25 of an inch fell.

The thunderstorm of today was the first this year, which was more than purely local in its extent; it was free from wind, but little thunder was heard, and only a few flashes of sheet lightning were seen.

Such, however, is the character of the thunderstorms in Oregon.

Topographers have been picked cleaner this year than for several years. The hops are invariably reported to be clean and the yield satisfactory.

Pruning continues to be active. Complaints continue as to the lack of driers.

The grain crop has been secured and working summer fallow, plowing and seeding has commenced.

Plowing will not be general. It is generally conceded that the aphid did considerable damage to spring grain and that it was further injured by the hot weather in the first half of August.

Weather.—The temperature for the week averaged 68 degrees, which was 3 degrees lower than for the preceding week and 6 degrees higher than for the corresponding week of last year.

The highest temperature was 92 degrees, on Saturday and Sunday, and the lowest 44 degrees, on Wednesday morning. No rain fell during the week.

Threshing is completed throughout the Columbia River valley, but it yet continues in portions of Union, Wallawa, Baker and interior counties.

There are no adverse reports as to the quality and yield of grain.

Prune pear and apple drying is under way. The fruit crop is very large and of good quality.

A steady rain fell all night at Salem and showers continue today.

Southern plantation scene with real live darkies and lots of other attract STAYTON. H. Barchard was a Salem visitor Monday.

Miss Ella Emmitt arrived from Monmouth Wednesday.

Miss Alice Davie has accepted a position at J. C. Trother's mercantile house.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. A. Mayer, of Salem, were visiting in Stayton yesterday.

Moses Stayton was taken suddenly ill Thursday while at work on the Gardner residence, but was all right at last account.

A. L. Shrieves went over to Dallas Friday, to see his father who is in ill health.

Miss Helen McCoy and Grace Gardner of Mehama, were guests of friends in town Thursday.
