JOURNAL "X-RAYS."

Smash the old city ring is the talk on the streets. The people don't care how it's done.

* * *

Our webs are nicely started and it is to be hoped the rain will stop before Christmas.

* * *

THE JOURNAL'S Christmas edition will be the most practical thing of beauty ever put out in the Capital city.

* * *

The flax industry is more worthy of a bounty law than the sugar-beet business. The flax business is not in the hands of a trust.

* * *

The price of sugar has recently been advanced enough to give the growers of sugar beets more than a dollar a ton. Will they get it?

* * *

Capt. McBride's fate, and the loss of the unfortunate crew of the Atlanta off Alsea Bay teach a lesson: take no chances on a dangerous coast.

* * *

Why not be honest about it: Is the Republican city campaign a fight for anything but control of the city machine in the next state election? Of course, it is not.

* * *

From the top of his head down to his necktie, Congressman Cushman's picture in profile is a perfect outline of Mt. Tacoma, with the nose for the peak. He may be a very good man for all that, and the average newspaper picture is a libel anyhow.

* * *

The Oregon state printer is not in it. Recently the state printer of Pennsylvania, a man named Busch, put in a bill for $57,662.85 for printing a work on the "Diseases and enemies of poultry." A bulletin of 128 pages. Even Pennsylvanians kicked at such a bill.

* * *

There are scarcely enough McBrides to go around. There is a McBride with Collector of Customs Ivy in Alaska; a nephew Edmond has gone to join the senator at Washington; Benjamin Franklin still holds down his job at the state house; Dr. Richardson is still official state physician; and only one of the Marion county delegation voted for Simon.

* * *

The moss back council of Dallas passed an ordinance allowing milk cows to run at large in the city certain seasons of the year. The mayor in a very sensible up-to date message vetoed the ordinance. It is simply ridiculous for a county seat to allow cows to run at large inside the city limits, and if Dallas would be a city it should at once pass a strict ordinance absolutely stopping the nuisance

* * *

The advent of Miss Janet Waldorf in Romeo and Juliet, As You Like It and Twelth Night, in Albany, will be hailed by many as the event of our theatrical season. She is still fresh in our memories from playing at Salem last year. Her undoubted genius was recognized last season and has since been endorsed and certified by east and west alike. An American bred and born, we may well be proud of her. She has a number of dates at Portland.

* * *

THE JOURNAL says the fight of the Telegram to get the state fair from Salem to Portland is a dirty one, that he Oregonian itself does not dare to say anything on account of its big patronage in Portland, so saddles it on the Telegram, which is really all the same. It may be a dirty fight so far as Portland is concerned, but so far as the rest of the state is concerned, they are tired of a county fair being passed off as a state fair, and receiving aid from the state, and it is time there was a change. If Portland can make a real state fair out of it, let her have it, inasmuch as Salem cannot, at least does not.—Albany Democrat.—It wouldn't be a county fair at Portland. It would be a West Portland mercantile exhibit.

EDITORIAL SUGGESTIONS

In Regard to Legislation and Imperatively Needed Reforms.

Between the special session and the regular one is a good time for thoughtful legislators to study out what old laws should be repealed and what new ones enacted. The present laws regulating the boards of control of state institutions are nearly all bad. All the important state institutions, for which the state pays out annually thousands and tens of thousands of dollars, should be under non partisan boards of control or boards as nearly non-partisan as possible. This applies especially to the state educational institutions. One building could easily accommodate the blind and deaf mute children and they could all be taught more if kept at the building here in Salem. Supplies for all state institutions should be purchased upon bids and the lowest responsible bidder, who puts up security, should have the contracts regardless of his politics. Just the idea of the superintendent of the Mute school or the Blind school or one of the other institutions going to the grocery stores and buying at retail from day to day quantities of the finest brands of coffees and teas, the finest canned fruits, vegetables and meats and choice delicacies and all sorts of luxuries and just telling the grocerymen to send in their bills and they will O. K. them and see that they are paid. You cannot blame the the grocerymen or other merchants. They want to sell their wares and merchandise. They furnish good goods and can readily swear that they did so and the bills must be paid. Who is to blame? The law makers. The laws are bad. The whole field of state institutions needs badly to be covered by detailed legislation. Needs it immediately.

Farmers and real tax payers are sweating and laboring at $1. a day or less to get money to pay their taxes, ten or a dozen thousand dollars is quickly dumped out at a state school to educate a few dozen poor children and keep fat a few officers. Extended and careful laws should be drawn covering all these institutions.

The laws regulating notaries public should be amended and made more strict. The qualifications of notaries should be better tested. At present a very large percent of the notaries are incompetent. A representative of the JOURNAL upon investigating this question has ascertained that as nigh as four our of six applicants for notaries have failed to send in their bonds correctly executed. Just think of it, over sixty percent of the notaries cannot make out and execute correctly their own bonds. What can they do for other people? There should only be a limited number of notaries in each precinct and they should be appointed solely on account of merit and their legal and business ability should in some way be tested before they are appointed. The present law regulating notaries was enacted when conditions were different. Every notary should be required by law to have a petition of fifty householders for his appointment—should give a bond of one thousand dollars—should hold office for four years—should be compelled to have engraved upon his seal the date of the expirations of his commission—and should pay to the state treasurer a fee of ten dollars to be turned into the general fund of the state.

There should be some legislation looking towards permanent goods. Some provision whereby the road supervisor of each district should be compelled during his term of office to construct at least a certain number of rods or miles of permanent roads of suitable description. If each supervisor was compelled to construct one mile of real turnpike each year it would only be a short time till all the roads would be in a substantial condition. The present trouble is that the work is not continuous or of a permanent nature. One supervisor goes along and fills a hole here and dumps a load of gravel there and cuts out a root in another place and scatters his work all over the districts in such a manner that none of it does any good. Let each supervisor grade and gravel properly and well—one mile of the most traveled road in his district each year—the work to be inspected and approved by the court. In ten years the worst roads of the present would be the best roads. Some bright legislators could make his everlasting fame by devising some plan for continuous, consecutive and permanent improvement of country roads throughout the state—a plan that would work out a good system of roads within ten or fifteen years without sending all the counties hopelessly in debt for the improvements.

Good macadamized roads cost about $2,000 to the mile but they are permanent when once built. The convicts in many States are worked in building macadamized roads and there is no reason under the sun why the country roads around Salem should not be kept in tip top order by the 500 or 400 convicts at the penitentiary.

Perhaps the most apparent case of the necessity of repealing a law is the case of the one requiring all county clerks to send copies of their voluminous assessment rolls to the department of State. The last session intended to repeal the board of equalization and also the statute requiring the sending in of these certified copies. They did repeal the act creating the equalization board but not the other act. Without fail this section of the code should be amended at the regular session.

Some provision should be made for keeping the irreducible school fund of Oregon intact and perhaps there should be some law providing still other methods than those now in operation for the increasing of this fund. The number of children in the state is gradually increasing and the school fund should keep pace with the children. The lands which have from time to time been sold and the moneys turned into the school fund are now about all gone and there will soon be no further source of revenue from land sales. The state has been loaning the money out on mortgage security on farm lands but by the extraordinary depreciation of land values some cases of foreclosures have occurred, where the land did not bring the face of the mortgages and the fund has been depleted by the amount of the deficiency. Let our school men keep this in mind and be constantly devising ways of adding something to the school fund—the fund that is to educate the men and women who will govern this nation in the future.

Behind every great man you will find a great mother. Behind every great man you will find a healthy mother. A child's physical and mental welfare depend to a tremendous degree upon the mother's condition during the period of gestation. If, during these critical months, the mother suffers from weakness and disease of the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity, the chances are that her child will be weak, puny and sickly, with the seeds of serious disease already implanted in its little body at birth. If the mother, during the interesting period, suffers from the abnormal mental states which recur periodically with women who are weak in a womanly way, these conditions will impress themselves upon the mind of the child.

Every woman wants children who are both physically and mentally healthy. Every woman may have that kind of children if she will take proper care of herself in a womanly way. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all medicines for prospective mothers. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the brunt of maternity. It makes them strong, healthy, vigorous, virile and elastic. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones and builds up the shattered nerves. It banishes the usual discomforts of the critical period, and makes baby's introduction to the world easy and almost painless. It insures the little new comer's health and a bountiful supply of nourishment.

A book about keeping well. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. For paper-covered copy send at one-cent stamps to cover mailing only. Cloth binding, 21 stamps. Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

If You Can't Sleep the cause is pretty sure to be in the stomach. If that important organ be out of order, the nerves will be too, and disordered nerves keep you awake. Sound, refreshing, invigorating sleep is sure to follow the taking of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

It cures nervousness and dyspepsia in men and women.

THE PRUNE CROP.

Practical Prunegrowers' Remarks On the Industry.

Walter Lyon writes from Salem to a Portland paper: Prune-growing attracted considerable attention in this part of the valley during the past season. The crop was more than twice as large as that of any preceding year; the market has been very good, and growers generally report a profit from the bussiness. When asked if he considered the prune business permanently established on a paying basis, a practical grower referred to the remarks made on the subject by H. B. Miller, ex-president of the state agricultural college, who said in part:

"The market price of a thing is only one side of the law of value, and before we engage in the permanent production of anything like prunes we must examine the other, and more important as well as the more difficult side of the question; and that is the cost of production. The cost of production in this sense includes growing curing, preparing and sending to market.

"If the climatic and soil conditions in France, Austria or any other foreign country be better for the production of prunes than in this country; if the cost of labor is also permanently less, and the cost of transportation to market no greater than in this country, then it would be folly for us to engage in the business unless the government provides a protection by tariff legislation.

"The consumption of prunes in this country increased 20,000,000 pounds in the four years from 1891 to 1895, and the prune grower can look for a much greater consumption and a more certain and steady market in the future.

"It seems to be settled, for various reasons, that no other section of this country can compete with the Pacific coast in prune growing. The next problem is, can we compete with California? If their cost of production is from ½ to 1 cent a pound less than ours, then they will eventually kill the industry in Oregon, unless the market requires our crop in addition to theirs If it should cost 1 cent a pound more to produce prunes in California than in Oregon, and the market required the California product in addition to ours, there would be an assurance of profit to the Oregon producer.

"It is a grievous mistake to engage in production simply on an examination of market rates. If the elements at command insure the lowest cost of production, then there need be no hesitancy whatever in entering the field with confidence of success if proper attention is given.

"The question is constantly being asked, 'Is there not great danger of overproduction of prunes?' The question for the prunegrower to determine is not, 'Will there be an overproduction?' but, 'Can I produce at nearest the lowest cost?' If there is an overproduction, those laboring under the most expensive difficulties, and whose cost of production is along the higher margin, will be the ones who must discontinue the business. The whole question of prune producing in Oregon must be solved by those who undertake it, through the practical competition of cost of procuction."

That's a Fact.

The successful business man is one who gets all things of value for as little cost as possible.

The man who buys a ticket over the Northern Pacific R. R. gets good value for his money and is successful.

THE HAWAIIAN COMMISSION.

Favors a Liberal Government of the Islands.

A special to the Chicago Tribune from Washington says: It is probable that the report of the Hawaiian commission will favor a liberal form of government for the island toan has generally been expected. The members have favorably considered a proposition to give the islands a representative in the house with a vote in which regard he would rank with the representatives, and not with the delegates from Arizona. New Mexico and Oklahoma, who have the privelege of talking, but not the right of voting.

The government suggested for the island will in all probability be an advance on the present organized territories, but, of course, will not contemplate statehood. Several members of the commission go to the extent of believing that Hawaii should have representation in the senate, though probably without a vote. This feature, however, may not appear in the report.

The distance of the islands from the seat of government necessitates the granting of more power for local government than is given to the present organized territories, but the governor and other important officers will, of course, be appointed in Washington. Hawaii having come into the Union by treaty, and not by conquest, there will be no military government, as in the case of Porto Rico and the Philippines, but a civil power will be created from the start.

In a general way the courts and ordinary machinery of the federal government will be extended to the islands without much alteration, but provision will probably be made for a certain degree of local control of taxation and expenditures.

There will be a suffrage based upon education and property qualifications, and the members of the commission believe they have evolved a system of colonial government which will reserve full power to the president and congress, and at the same time prove sufficiently elastic to give the governing classes in the island control of local improvements and the direction of colonial affairs.

When the Hawaiian commission left this country the president instructed them to keep in mind the possessions acquired by the war, and the government which will be recommended for the Hawaiian islands will serve as a model for that of the Philippines and Porto Rico.

THE SIMPLEST CURE FOR INDIGESTION

As Well as the Safest and Cheapest.

The new medical discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, digest the food instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, give it much needed rest, and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

You get nourishment and rest at the same time because these Tablets will thoroughly digest all wholesome food taken into the stomach whether the stomach work or not. A cure is certain to result because the digestive organs are given a chance to rest and recover their natural vigor and tone. The Tablets are then no longer required.

To show the manner in which the remedy acts on different people and how quickly and effectually it cures stomach troubles we present a few recent cases.

Mr. J. O. Wondly of Peoria, Ills., writes: I was unable to eat anything but the plainest food and even that often distressed me, but since using one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets I can eat anything and everything I want.

Mrs. Samuel Kepple of Girty, Pa., writes: I have been entirely relieved of my stomach troubles by your tablets. I suffered three years with sour stomach and gas at night. I am thankful for them.

Mrs. A. E Bowen, Barnard, Vt., writes: I think Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best thing for dyspepsia I ever took. I will recommend them to anyone troubled as bad as I was.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will not disappoint because they cure dyspepsia surely and lastingly by causing the food to be properly assimilated, and cure constipation by producing the proper quantity of bile. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package. Send for free book on stomach diseases to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.
