THE HOP OUTLOOK.

Opinions East and West as to the Market and Prospect.

Important Brewing Trade Statistics Show Increase Production of Malt Liquors.

The general indications are that hops will bring a good price in 1909. Consumption of malt liquors is increasing and the market for the American product is enlarging. Growers in Oregon can rely upon good prices if they will confine themselves to their present acreage and exert themselves to improve the Oregon product to the very highest state of perfection. Oregon can produce the best hop in the world, but to do that requires capital, experience, intelligence and good business management. Hop yards must be enclosed so that stock can not run on the yards. At this time of year it is well to look after the fences and prepare for early spring work.

HOPS IN OREGON.
Fabar & Wiles write from Albany to an eastern paper about the Oregon crop as follows:
Stock in growers' hands in Oregon is now considerably reduced and not over 2,000 bales of '08 crop remain unsold, of which a very small percentage are of real choice quality. Beginning of the season there were nearly 6,000 bales of 1907 crop in dealers' and growers' hands in this state, which have all been sold with the exception of about 300 bales. Most of these hops have been brought from 3 to 6¢ net to growers and only few very muddy lots were sold for less.
The market continues firm but quiet. Several bigger lots have been sold this week at 14 to 15¢ cents according to quality. Growers which have their hops on hand yet do not seem to be scared as they are all holding for full value and expect to realize more for their hops after the holidays.

THE NEW YORK MARKET.
The Watertown, N. Y., Times has this on the general market:
There has not been any serious pressure to sell but some dealers have wanted to do a little more business and have offered to shade prices if it would interest buyers. This requires some modification of previous quotations, at the same time values must be considered somewhat nominal at the moment. It would be difficult to exceed 10¢ cents for the choicest state hops available, and any price above that figure would be extreme for choice Pacifics. Good to prime grades from all sections can be bought at 16¢ @18c, while the commoner qualities are offering from 15¢ down to 12c. There are comparatively few 1907 hops left, and supplies of '08 are not large, but a good many '08 are still in dealers' hands. The future of the market we cannot forecast with any certainty, but there are some features of the situation that afford encouragement for better business later on. England has practically exhausted her own crop and is giving good attention to Americans. We have already exported nearly 60,000 bales, and late cable advices from London are very firm. Germany has fully recovered from the late break and is now as high as any time this season. Stocks on this side of the water are wearing away gradually. Nearly all the Oregon and Washington hops are out of growers' hands, and by far the larger part of the crop in the state has been marketed.

BREWING TRADE STATISTICS.
The Western Brewer in the December issue publishes a large supplement, showing the production of malt liquors in the United States for the twenty-one years ended June 30, 1908. The table is compiled from the annual report of the commissioner of internal revenue, just issued. Comparing the total production of 1908 with the previous year, we see that there was a total gain of 3,070,212 barrels of nearly 9 per cent. The increase in 1908 over 1907 is 27,251,835 barrels, or over to 206 per cent. The ten states showing over 100,000 barrels increase are New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Missouri, Massachusetts, Indiana, Michigan and New Jersey, in the order named, the total increase in the ten states being 2,427,331 barrels.
The only states showing a decrease are Louisiana and South Carolina, the total decrease only amounting to 4750 barrels.
The statement of receipts indicates that tax was paid on 12,944,010 barrels for the three months of 1908, against only 10,976,030 barrels for the same period of 1907, or a decrease of 1,967,980 barrels. It will be seen from this that over one-half of the increase made last year was lost in the first three months of the present fiscal year. This is a startling condition of affairs, and shows very clearly that unless congress comes to the relief of the trade by reducing the tax the brewing business will be seriously injured.

A California Drouth has ruined the orange and lemon crops and impoverished many ranchmen but the famous Ice meals at J. E. Barnette's White House restaurant are as good as ever.
Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup the safest and surest cure for those dangerous of the little ones—croup, whooping cough and measles—cough. Physicians prescribe it. Children like it, and does are small. Price 25c.

JOURNAL "X-RAYS."

The barbers bill is going through by a close shave.

Hurray for Gov. Geer! He gave good roads a lift anyhow.

Senator Adams has the temerity to return to his attack on the dogs.

It is now understood that no one but the press has a right to roast the legislature.

If there is anything in these X Rays that is not entirely good natured it is hereby stricken out.

The legislature must feel toward Gov. Geer as did the Psalmist in the 119th psalm, verse 141.

What are all the educators drawing salaries doing at the state house while their pay goes on?

Ex-Senator Cogswell is at Salem, lobbying for the bill to increase the supreme court to five members.

A state tax almost doubled; a county tax of 21 mills in Marion; who says prosperity is on the decline?

Why don't the two houses draft a message showing up the abuses and short comings of the governors of Oregon?

One Salem bank has almost a round million of deposits. Who says the "people" can't carry the city and school debt?

No alleged statesman is lying awake nights trying to solve the problem now with $750,000 cash in the treasury Oregon is paying interest on $900,000.

Albany has a new Episcopal minister and a poultry show. Salem has a new governor and also a display of birds at the state house that are not slow.

Both House and Senate are to be congratulated on having limited the employment of clerks. Now let them put the brake on their own appropriations.

Why a Portland grain ship should not have the right to enter or leave the mouth of the Columbia river without paying toll to the pilot's trust, is a poser.

Of course, it is of no practical consequence whether that $763,090.23, reported to be cash on hand in the state treasury or not. Give the committee clerks $-11.

No one has arisen to explain why the Illinois club, which does the most lucrative business in town and is open day and night, should not pay a good round city license.

For the consolation of governors who put good things before a legislature, quote Isaac Watt's hymn: "Thou knowest not which seed shall grow, Or which may die or live."

It is a hardship for the Salem ministerial association to have to furnish two prayers a day for the legislature without compensation. They ought at least have coffee. But it is supposed the investment is a better one than spending the money on Africa.

The retiring state treasurer had $23,000.23 on hand. It is not very hard to see how there is money in the office on a salary of $800.—Albany Democrat.

The people have once paid the money paid for collecting it, paid for "taking care" of it, and will pay for a legislative investigation that won't tell where it is. What more do they want?

Senator Taylor's Gavel may fly off the handle and hit the clerk's bald spot, but A. Hucksstein's delicious Little Champion 50 cigars are still the favorite of both houses.

"The Bonner" photo is the leader. Call and see them at "Cronise's" gallery, over the New York Racket store.

A Freckled Lady Clerk is not sought after by the county senator but some of those freckled little Champion 50 cigars are always worn next to their hearts.

Mr. Miller's NERVE PLASTER FOR SPINAL WEAKNESS. All drug stores sell 'em for 25c.

The editor of THE JOURNAL feels that he has a right to "lecture" governors and legislators about economy. Here is his account with the state:

| | |
|-----------------------------|-------------|
| By Insurance tax..... | $48,700 07 |
| DR. | |
| Salary 1895..... | $ 120 |
| One clerk..... | 90 |
| Mileage..... | 000 |
| Investigations ordered..... | 000 |
| Total..... | $ 210 |
| Balance in his favor..... | $48,550 07 |

Senator Lou Adam's bill to abolish Judge Boise (and the ballot-fraud suits at the same time), is in defiance of the fact that this district has 7400 more population than the Portland district which has four judges, while we have but two. What will he do with this fact? The constitution provides that the legislature may create the necessary number of circuit judges "who shall hold full terms without allotment." It will be only a few years before Marion county alone will furnish business for one judge.

A KLEPTOMANIAC.

The Proprietor of the Ladies Annex Insurance Vile.

His honor, Recorder Judah, had his first criminal case on the docket in the case of the state of Oregon vs. J. W. Lakelan, the proprietor of the Annex, the ladies furnishing store which has until recently been open next to the post office. A few days ago the store was closed and since that time Mr. and Mrs. Lakelan have been boarding at the Rowland house on the corner of Court and Liberty streets. Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Lakelan went into the store of Willis Brothers and Co., the lady being in search of a ladies' underwear pattern. While she argued with the clerk, Miss Willis, as to whether she should buy the article or not, her husband went to the remnant counter and laid a large 3 yard remnant of lavender plaid dress goods on the top of the pile. His actions coupled with previous experiences with the people, aroused Miss Willis' suspicions and she cautioned Mrs. Eugene Willis to watch. While she was in the back of the store Mrs. Lakelan went to her husband and stood by his side while he secreted the goods selected about his person. He then decided not to wait for his wife and went out of the store. Upon examination the goods were found to be missing and a search warrant was sworn out by Eugene Willis and the apartments of the couple searched. The goods were found out ready to be made into a garment. Mr. Lakelan was arrested and charged with larceny from a store and in default of $200 bail was committed to the county jail to await trial at 10 o'clock Friday morning. Mrs. Lakelan had contracted to make a lot of ladies' underwear for Mrs. Ida Willis, who is preparing to join her husband at Manila, and had taken thirty yards of muslin and embroidery for the same to her rooms. This was found to be all rolled up ready to ship in a trunk. This was taken possession of by the owners. Other developments are expected at the trial, as other merchants are beginning to search for articles lately missed from their stores.

Sketch of the late George Weller. George Weller, the aged Salem pioneer, who passed away Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, was born in April 5, 1816, in Herkimer county New York. His father was a farmer and from him he learned the thrifty habits and steady, sober characteristics which marked his after life and enticed him on to success.

When twenty-one years of age, Mr. Weller journeyed to the western plains of Illinois, where by the exercise of good sense and good business management he became the possessor of large realty holdings in McHenry county, not far distant from the present city of Chicago.

The deceased was married to Miss Elmira Fletcher Rodgers in 1842, and twenty-eight years later Mr. and Mrs. Weller removed to Wood county, Wisconsin, where Mr. Weller engaged in the lumbering and milling business. Erected one of the first flouring mills in that county.

In 1874 Mr. and Mrs. Weller came to Oregon and settled in Salem, where they have lived continuously since. Here he again engaged in the milling business, building the smaller of the mills at the North Mill Creek, known as the Scotch Mills.

For the last few years, he has lived a retired life, quietly passing his declining years with his family at the old home on the corner of Division and Liberty streets.

Besides his aged wife, five children, all grown, are left to mourn the departure of a husband and father always kind, true and gentle, loved and respected by all who came within the circle of his acquaintances, and disliked by none. For several years Mr. Weller has been an invalid, suffering with paralysis, and his death, though sudden, was not altogether unexpected.

The funeral services will be held at the family home at 1:30 o'clock, Friday afternoon, January 13. Rev. J. Bowersox, of Lafayette, officiating. The remains will be laid away in the City View cemetery.

Their New Function. The capitol city Gaiety club gave their initial dance in Tloga hall Wednesday evening. This club has been recently organized by a company of young Salemites and propose to hold a social time each week, a dance one week and a party the next. It is said to have a large membership of very representative young men of the city, who intend to make the club a signal and an unparalleled success.

Gesner's orchestra furnished the music at the dance last evening to which about fifty couple tripped the light fantastic into the wee sma' hours of Thursday morning. A delightful time is reported and the next event given by the club is awaited with interest.

We Know. And the majority of Salem people know, that the carbonettes and aristo-platones are one and the same thing "Cronise," the photographer says so and that settles it.
