JOURNAL "X-RAYS."

Remember the annual school tax meeting Friday night.

S. B. 12, Senator Adam's warehouse bill, seems to be an all-right measure.

Now let some Populist introduce a bill to furnish each judge in the state with a chambermaid.

Why don't some populist put in a bill to pay the pea growers for the Salem cannery a bounty?

Charley Fulton stands by the constitution. He says: don't make more judges but diminish litigation.

When a Portland two-bit lawyer wants to increase the supreme court in order to get himself on the circuit bench it is time to quit.

Mr. Flagg's Salem orphan's home bill carries only $6,000 for maintenance. That is all right. No new $50,000 state institution wanted.

After the people have ordered a new deal against the Salem push, who will pay any attention to the propositions of a "push" reformer like Genser?

The affectionate gall of a fish commissioner who asks $25,000 a year makes some people wish they could trade him off for the old railroad commission.

Col. Hutchins of Bloomington, had a conference at the state house last night with the united Democracy of Oregon. It is time some one was getting united.

McBride's property, one Cupid Cleeton, is still rustling for a place on the supreme court commission or state house orange peddler, it is not known which.

Do the sugar beet people want to tell the Union county people that there will be only a small quantity of beets raised next year, and hence only a small bounty to pay?

The bill to abolish Sam Hayden's district attorney salary don't make much headway, as it is universally conceded he has conducted the office in the interest of the people.

Hon. John McCourt of Marion county, has so far had the political sagacity to not make a fight on the Portland delegation. There's some sense in that if he is "baby McCourt."

If a few local politicians who are making a personal effort to abolish Judge Boice's office "just at this particular time" knew in just what a light it puts them in the community, they'd drop the subject like a red hot stove.

Senator Al. Reed, as usual, raised that effective horse laugh, when he suggested that if the word "iosane" as a part of the name of Oregon's asylum would deter people from sending their friends there, such name should by all means be left unchanged.

Two things the people want and no representative of the PEOPLE can afford to go home without getting it for them:
1. Better public roads.
2. Better and cheaper public school books.

There is a roar in some quarters because the Jackson county delegation is a unit and working hard for the Astland normal school. Well, why shouldn't they? Until Oregon owns and operates one normal school as a state institution, why shall not Southern Oregon have a normal school as well as Northern Oregon and Eastern Oregon.

CUSICK-MORSE.

Two of Salem's Society People Are Joined in Matrimony.

This morning at 11:30 o'clock the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Cusick, on the corner of Commercial and Foster streets, was a scene of a most happy wedding when Miss Ethel E. Cusick, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Cusick, was wedded to Dr. W. B. Morse, by Rev. P. S. Knight of the Congregational church.

The home was beautifully decorated with evergreens and flowers, and Miss Carrie Moores, of Portland, and Mrs. E. C. Giltner acted as bridesmaid and groomsman respectively.

Only the relatives and most intimate friends of the principals were in attendance at the wedding. Following the ceremony a sumptuous banquet was served.

Dr. and Mrs. Morse are both well-known in Salem's social circles and will form a happy addition to the list of young married couples in the city.

HON. JOHN H. HALL.

U. S. District Attorney, Arrested for Taking Senator Reed's Hat.

United States District Attorney John H. Hall is sorry that human nature is so unkind and that jokes are not appreciated among the members of the state senate, for on Wednesday he played a joke on his old friend, Senator A. W. Reed, of Douglas county, and now pines in the arms of the law. And the trouble is all about a hat.

Tuesday night some thoughtless member of the Illinois club wore Mr. Hall's hat home and left it in its place one so small that it barely covered the bald spot when Mr. Hall put it on Wednesday.

Attorney Hall went to the senate chamber and needing a large size, he sought out Senator Reed's hat and wore it away, meaning to play a joke on the jovial senator. Last evening the senator decided to retaliate in kind and swore out a warrant charging Hall with the larceny of his hat.

The warrant was served on the gentleman at the Illinois club and he was arraigned before Justice H. A. Johnson and plead not guilty. The trial is yet pending. And so Mr. Hall is in trouble, Senator Reed is without a hat and those who know about the affair are not certain which gentleman has the better of the argument as Judge Johnson yet has a say in the matter.
