A Manila Treasure.

Mr. Conner, of Hotel Willamette, has had sent to him a watch and chain from Manila, by his son, Dan Conner, an Oregon volunteer. That is a rare keepsake. The watch is a finely jeweled work, with a gemstone case and an engraved gold and silver Spanish coat of arms. In his letter Private Conner says:

"That watch chain and charm belonged to a Spanish gunner, who was on the Spanish ship Riena Christina, when she was sunk. He swam ashore, and when the Americans got settled down, they turned the Spanish prisoners loose, and I bought it from him. He said he was very hungry. The watch I bought from a Spanish soldier. It went all through the Spanish war."

PRISON REFORM.

An Ex-Convict Lectures at Reed's Opera House—Letter of Rev. Walter.

Geo. F. Elliott, an ex-convict, entertained an audience of about 200 at Reed's opera house last night with a story of the abuses practiced in the Oregon state prison. Those present were composed almost entirely of the laboring class, with a sprinkling of ladies. The speaker announced that he had defrayed the entire expense of hiring the opera house and advertising the meeting out of his earnings at $10 a month on a farm east of Salem. At the conclusion of his lecture he offered any one a chance to dispute any of his statements but no one entered a protest or denial. He expressed regret that there were many matters so indecent that they could not be discussed with propriety before a public audience. He considered the only redeeming feature of the prison management to be the medical department under Dr. Philbrook. Owing to the demands made upon our space by the legislature now in session we cannot give an extended report of Mr. Elliott's lecture. His employ's good language, shows no signs of insanity as has been charged by some of the prison officials, and seems imbued with a deep moral and Christian passion for reform in that institution and his lecture should be heard by the people in other parts of the state. He charges that observation of the Sabbath at the prison is a mere formal hypocrisy. He charges that the bathing of the prisoners is conducted in an indecent manner. He cited instances where convicts were flagged for complaining that the beans were sour and that the guards employ such methods as hanging a convict up by the arms to enforce discipline. A controversy arose over taking a hatchet from a crazy Indian who was going to assault another convict. The guard did not see it done. One man wanted to make a statement. The warden had all three flogged to make sure of punishing the right one. One man lost his reason partly over studying perpetual motion. He became very timid. Meeting an officer one day coming through a door he started back and threw up his hands. He was tied up in the chapel and given 140 lashes and an Oregon boot was put on him and he was sent to the cell and in a short time he seemed to be dying. He was carried to the bath room, his shirt was soaked off his back covered with blood, skin and flesh. So horrible was the sight that one of the hardened convicts fainted. The man was declared insane, sent to the asylum where in a few days he died.

The editor of THE JOURNAL does not believe that the unsupported statement of an ex-convict should be received by the public as evidence in every detail, unless corroborated by collateral testimony. What is here published is solely in the interest of a prison reform and humanity, and not for the purpose of reflecting upon the character of Supt. Gilbert or any official of the prison. But THE JOURNAL is convinced that the Oregon State prison is not the educational or reformatory institution which it should be. In conclusion we publish a letter dated Portland, January 30, from J. J. Walter, Ph. D. pastor of the Centenary M. E. church:

DEAR SIR,—In 1885 I was appointed chaplain of the State Penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., which place I held through the term of Gov. Oglesby's incumbency. I have prepared a lecture entitled "Four Years Among Criminals." This lecture while in the nature of an entertainment still touches upon prison management. Joliet stands easily first as a model penitentiary in this or any other country. I am planning to deliver my lecture in Salem during this session or the legislature. You are right when you say that corporal punishment is out of date. We have not had that in Joliet for 20 years."

THE JOURNAL will give space to Oregon State Prison officials to correct or refute Mr. Elliott's statements without expense.

$50—The Stearns

Standard of the world.

We've described the $25 "Special." And the $50 Tourist. And the $40 Tourist. And now comes the "edition de luxe." The "edition de luxe" is the wheel with the individuality that makes it the always popular one among the class of riders who demand the thoroughbred, and are willing to pay the price for a superbly up-to-date wheel; one that's been up-to-date for years, and never lets a good feature pass.

Last season the Stearns was the July standard high grade old line wheel that had the courage to cut the price to $50 on regular models. This season Stearns' new lines falling over themselves to establish a new list. We set the standard. And here is a wheel that has no peer among the best when it comes to quality coupled with style and up-to-date features.

With 4 inch tread, 4 inch drop, 1 1/2 inch tires, fashionable saddle, 10 by 3/4 tooth sprockets, 24 pounds exact scale weight. Come and see it. No wheel shown in the United States to compare in lines or style. A regular greyhound, $55.

We solar lamps lost in.

JOURNAL "X-RAYS."

Do not pass the sugar bounty in the senate without debate.

Pass Senator Looney's dairy bill. The dairy interest is established and asks no bounty.

Senator Adam's warehouse bill is one of the best bills before the senate, and is for the farmer. But it stands no show.

In the report of the Corvallis meeting the types make reference to Mr. Whalley's "Wind" when it should have been "Mind."

Senator Taylor was a brave man to vote alone against the woman's suffrage amendment. He was raised on a Marion county farm.

Prof. Anderson and Byland are two educators who had the courage of their convictions and helped the Dairy bill. Not all our best teachers worship the trust.

The senate has kept its pledges and done something for better school books and better roads. Oregon is mending the paths to be trod by her rising generation.

The trust medical bill is so glaringly unconstitutional that if it is not rejected by the House committee on medicine and pharmacy it should go to the judiciary committee.

First the people pay a tariff on sugar; then they pay the trust its profits; then they are asked to pay a state tax on top of that, and no one even suggests that sugar is to be cheaper.

It was the soldiers' home investigating committee that recommended doing away with the soldiers' home commission and Representative Gray is the man entitled to credit for the suggestion.

The Corvallis college cadets who acted as escort to the legislative delegation displayed real heroism in standing out in the blizzard until they had leeches hanging from their ears and noses.

This legislature must not adjourn without doing something for the two-legged beat-pullers. Pass a good dairy bill. Pay the dairy commissioner. Develop Oregon's dairy interest. That's the boss.

Dairy, of Lake, and other Union party leaders are hopeful of casting a solid vote for the Dairy anti-trust text book bill. It is a bill that should receive the vote of every friend of the public schools in the House.

Mr. Gatch says no bonds; Mr. Albert says thirty year bonds; both are wrong; pass the charter as it stands and give the masses of the people a chance to invest their savings in short time low-rate home securities.

In voting on the Dairy text book bill, Senator Drivley, as well as several others, did the manly thing in voting for it, even though it did not fully meet their ideas in the matter. In casting his vote the Senator explained that he believed in asking for all he wanted, but if he could not get it, in taking all he could get.

It is now a powerful lobby against the taxpayer to force the sugar bounty bill through the Senate. It was lobbied through the House against the deliberate judgment of that body. THE JOURNAL bears no ill will to any of the lobby (who are sleeping three in a bed at the Willamette) or to the La Grande enterprise, but is opposed to giving bounties out of the treasury as a matter of principle.

After the house has voted $200,000 to the sugar trust and $42,000 to bore Artesian wells with any kind of appropriation for normal schools, agricultural colleges, etc., is respectable or commendable. Money that goes to enrich capital and land monopolists is thrown away to further oppress the people. Money to educate the rising generation will at least prepare our young men and women to bring up their offspring with higher powers than a hickory club to improve their intellects.

Mrs. Dunnway should take off her hat to President Taylor, of the Oregon senate, for having the temerity to vote against the suffrage amendment, with all the other senators against him.

Ex-Governor Lord is now pushing a "graft" of his own. It is a bill to purchase ten acres of stumps, near Salem, owned by Lord, as a location for the State Mute school for the sum of six thousand dollars.

The above paragraph in a Salem telegram to the Eugene Guard is without foundation. As we are informed, nearly all the blocks on Fairmount Hill are owned by members of the M. E. Conference.

Senator Wade, of Eastern Oregon, is the Populist senator who is making an almost absolutely faultless record on legislation in the interest of the people. He is quiet but industrious, faithful, intelligent and vigilant and one of the men in the senate who has established the reputation of being not easily approached on a dubious proposition. When the senate was debating the Dairy text book reform bill, Senator Wade labored earnestly with a Populist who voted against the reform bill.

THE COLD SNAP.

To Continue Another Day—General Harvest for the Plumbers.

The cold snap continues and there is a general bursting of waterpipes that are not protected against cold in Oregon.

Thursday morning was snappy and cold, mercury below freezing and no snow melting. There is very little travel and the forecast for Friday is continued cold.

Ladies reared in Canada, Minnesota, Northern Iowa and Manitoba declare this is fine and prefer walking to street cars.

Photographers are out taking snow scenes. The bright clear sunshine is good snapshot weather but the pictures will not be used by the state-board of immigration.

Orioles and other birds from the woods and islands are seen in the streets picking their meals out of the snow. Kind hearted people put out food for the birds.

In about three days the warm hearted chinook wind will lick up the snow like a hungry dog lapping milk, the violets will peep out, the robins and bluebirds will resume their mating and love-making and Western Oregon will gleam in vernal beauty, the swelling breasts of her hillsides showing below a decollette fringe of fir forests and snow-capped mountains.

Considerable Destitution.

The continued cold and snow causes much suffering, and there are many cases of poor families in need of food and fuel.

A wealthy Salemite, who has a great big heart in vernal beauty, the swelling breasts of her hillsides showing below a decollette fringe of fir forests and snow-capped mountains.

The Capital Emergency corps holds its weekly official meeting at Mrs. Moody's residence Friday, at 2 p. m. The proceeds of the Charity ball will net about $100.

Mrs. C. E. Sherwood, matron of the W. C. T. U. rooms, writes this office from the rooms on Court street:

"We are in great need of clothing for women and children, also I am ready to receive any thing in the way of food for the poor, as I have a good place to take care of it and so many calls for the needy."

Insane.

Two patients were received last night at the insane asylum last evening, one a 9-year-old girl, Miss Minnie O'Neil, of Portland. Miss O'Neil is an idiotic child.

Amanda Bullock, of Oregon City, was also received. She is 24 years old, is an hereditary insane. Her mother was an inmate in an asylum for a number of years.
