PERSONAL AND LOCAL.

Citizen's meetings seem to be the order of the day in Oregon's capital city.

Vox Populi—Do you want to hear it? Then attend the citizens' school meeting this evening at the city hall.

Mrs. A. Rich and Mrs. V. Bouillard went to Dayton today to attend a funeral of Mrs. Colon, mother of Mrs. Le Roy, wife of the Dayton jeweler.

Frank Middleton and S. L. Moorhead expect to finish their job of revising the journals of the senate today. They do not propose to prolong their services beyond the limit fixed by law.

Miss Dora La Grange is visiting friends at Marion for a few days.

Prof. Washburn, state biologist, is in town this afternoon.

John Holman, the Albany iron master, is in town for Sunday.

Contractor Snook has returned from Roseburg, where he secured the contract for rebuilding the Douglas county court house at $10,285. Chas. Burggraf, of this city, will be the supervising architect.

Mrs. Hans Thielsen, of Portland, is a guest at the home of her son Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thielsen. Mr. Thielsen came up on the same train from attending the funeral of the late county superintendent, Strange, of Oregon City, who was buried with highest Masonic honors.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Johnson and son, Paul, have gone to spend a week at Oakland, Douglas county, where Mrs. Johnson has three sisters living, Mrs. Jas. Batty and the two Misses Jones. Her brother, S. J. Jones, has also worked there for E. G. Young & Co. for sixteen years.

Marshal Gibson this forenoon went out beyond the S. P. depot to warn from the city a suspicious looking hobo who was persistent in wanting to take up headquarters at the Capital city. Every train carries from five to twenty on the brake beams and it is only by constant vigilance of the city marshal that he is able to keep the city rid of these pests that overrun other places.

Attorney General and Mrs. Blackburn went to Albany today, where they still have a home. Judge and Mrs. Blackburn make their home with Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Osborn.

One son J. W. Blackburn, is a surgeon at Manila, and their other son, A. W. Blackburn, is a druggist at Albany.

Hon. Robt. Clow was in the city today having been at Portland to dispose of some of the products of his flouring mills at Junction. Wm. Clow is an old timer in state politics and one of the kind of men the people fall back upon when tired of experimentation with experience. He says Representative Gray's record in the legislature gives general satisfaction.

John Wright went to Turner today to look after some fruit shipments. He says the large Candelaria fruit farm on the hills south of Salem was not injured by the freeze February 1. All the trees being loaded with fruit. Dr. Reynolds large prune orchard south of town is badly wrecked. One thousand plum trees on the Candelaria fruit farm will be grafted into Italian prunes.

Woodburn Charter Case

Amended Complaint Filed by the Plaintiffs.

The Case Will Be Tried Next Week—Judge Boise's Docket Entries.

The Woodburn charter case, which came up in Judge Boise's court this morning is really a fight between the prohibition and anti-prohibition elements of that city.

Under the old Woodburn charter, no license could be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors. There has been a great difference of opinion as to the wisdom of this kind of prohibition, one party claiming that it kept the liquor business out of Woodburn, while the other party claimed that it only turned the business over to the drugstore and "billed pigs," and encouraged law-breaking.

There was also a provision in the old charter, that no amendment could be made thereto except by a four-fifths vote of all of the freeholders of the city, which was evidently intended to head off a possible change in the above provision.

The fight was carried into the legislature when the bill amending the charter was before that body at the last session. The bill passed, however and by its provisions a majority of the legal voters at an election held for that purpose, may decide whether or not liquor licenses may be granted.

The Woodburn officials immediately called a special election under the act, and in the name of B. A. Cathey, an injunction suit was then brought to restrain said officials from holding such election.

The complaint sets forth that an election is about to be held in Woodburn under a pretended charter, claimed to have been passed at the last legislature.

It then sets forth that the said act was never signed by the governor, but was filed with the secretary of state without signature. Of its passage in the two houses the complaint alleges:

"That the said act, amendatory of the charter of the city of Woodburn hereinbefore referred to as proposed by the legislative assembly of the state at the regular biennial session thereof for the year 1899, was not read in the senate upon its final passage to said senate. That the reading clerk of the said senate only read the enacting clause of the said proposed amendments of the charter aforesaid, and one or two of the final sections."

The same allegation is made as to the passage of the bill through the house.

It is also denied that any emergency existed, as declared in the act.

It is then claimed that the old charter is still the legal charter of Woodburn, and an injunction is prayed for to restrain the defendants, the city officers of Woodburn, from holding the proposed election.

Judge Boise granted a temporary injunction on February 14, and on February 21, the defendant demurred to the complaint, and moved on March 9, that the injunction be dissolved. After a preliminary skirmish on March 7, the defendants were given until 10 o'clock Saturday to file amended answer.

Hayden and McNary and Wm. Holmes were counsel for plaintiff, Bingham and Carson for defendants. This morning McNary asked for further time, as the amended complaint had not been served on all of the defendants. Bingham and Carson objected to further delay, on the ground that the parties who had not been served with the amended complaint had not answered the original complaint nor appeared in court. All parties who had appeared had been served with the amended complaint, Bingham having accepted service thereof for those parties just before court opened, this morning. McNary contended that those other defendants may not have objected to the matter in the original complaint, but might object to the amended complaint, and should therefore be served therewith and given a chance to answer.

This was the view taken by the court, and the plaintiff was given until next Wednesday to serve the amended complaint on the rest of the defendants.

Situation in Porto Rico.

CHICAGO, March 11.—A Tribune special says: San Juan, Porto Rico, March 11.—The real situation in Porto Rico is not understood. The people in the state generally regard Porto Rico of a sort of haven of peace. The war department has just requested of General Henry that he immediately report how many regular troops he could spare from the island. The Fourteenth New York started home last Sunday. The regular regiments that remain are so scattered that in many places, where there is necessity for a strong force, only a corporal's guard can be mustered, and the territories where there are continual mutterings and the greatest evidence of discontent at American rule, are unguarded. General Henry is in a dilemma. He has only three regiments of troops—the Eleventh, the Ninth and the Fifth cavalry—and two batteries of the Fifth heavy artillery.

"I need twice the troops I have," said the general at his residence in San Juan. "Because of the easy victory of our troops here in the war, and in the apparent friendliness of the natives to the American soldiers who they invaded the island, the notion prevails in the states that there is little necessity for a strong force to maintain order in the island. These people have been given every opportunity, but they have their own ideas. They are clamoring now for local self-government. They are no more fit for local self government than I am to run a locomotive. More troops are needed in the island for the seeds of discontent planted by professional agitators are rapidly growing and can be kept down only by a strong military force. The ill-feeling between the natives and the American troops seem to grow stronger every day."

DISASTER AVERTED.

Monitor Amphitrite Has a Most Fortunate Escape

Boiler Supply Pipes, Through Faulty Repairing Sprang Leaks, Facts Discovered by a Mechanist.

By Associated Press to the Journal.

NORFOLK, Va., March 11.—It was learned that the monitor Amphitrite narrowly escaped an explosion at sea, through the imperfect putting together of parts of its machinery, which had been overhauled at the Boston navy yard.

"We count it providential that we are not at the bottom of the sea," said one of the sailors. "We left Boston February 28, but had not proceeded far before it was discovered that parts of certain machinery, which were overhauled at the navy yard, had been improperly put together. The necessary readjustment of the same was made and the monitor proceeded down the coast until off Sandy Hook, where it put to escape a storm."

"It was while anchored here that what might have proved a disastrous explosion was narrowly averted by a mechanist accidentally discovering that the pipes leading from the evaporators, where salt water is condensed, through the bilge to the boilers, were leaking. Had the discovery been made 30 minutes later there might have been great destruction and loss of human life. The bilge was found flooded, and, to all appearances, the water intended for the boilers had been wasting for possibly 48 hours through the flange joint in the pipe."

The Amphitrite arrived in Hampton Roads March 1, from Boston. Next day it came to this harbor.
