J. M. Robertson, who was in town today says grain in that end of the county looks fine and hops are growing nicely. Fruit trees are more or less hurt but not so much as was at first thought. Some maple and balsam trees have been killed. Many farmers are finishing up seeding. The wheat acreage is about as large as usual and the prospect for a good crop never was better.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Barr leave on the Sunday evening overland for Rome City, Ind. This is their first trip since coming to Oregon fourteen years ago. After getting the benefit of a change of climate, they propose to visit old friends in Ohio and Iowa, they having resided at Dewitt before coming here.

Wheelmen can soon find a pleasant ride on the river road, Mr. B. F. Hall has just finished off the road with a road machine and it is now as smooth as a floor.

Mrs. M. A. Heagle, of Cottage Grove, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Flagg, for several weeks, left today for a visit in Columbia county.

Is Out Again.

Wm. Frazer, who lives just over the river in Polk county, is in Salem today for the first time since his painful accident ten days ago. He was plowing and becoming entangled in the harness the team took fright. The faster they moved the worse the tangle became and but for timely assistance Mr. Frazer would have been dragged to his death.

There Will Be Blackberries. After the much talked of "freeze" it was reported that all blackberries were killed. Some of our pessimistic fruit men had nearly everything killed. But now the blackberry vines are leafing out and give promise of an ordinary crop.

A Pleasant Time.

Salem Camp No. 118, W. O. W. and Silver Bell Circle Women of Woodcraft gave one of their enjoyable open meetings at their hall on last evening. Mr. Frank Hodzkin was master of ceremonies.

Rev. Parker, lately of Peedleton, but now of Albany, made the address of the evening. He paid a high tribute to all fraternal beneficiary, and insurance orders—making one of the best addresses on that subject ever delivered in Salem. It was not of the dry statistical kind. He was called on only a few hours previous to his, Mr. Wheeler being unable to arrive on time. An ice cream and cake lunch was given at the close, after which the hall was made ready for a dance for those who wished to remain.

Backeneto's orchestra being on hand the young folks tripped the fantastic toe till the small hour of one.

A Salem Musical Event.

Mrs. Willman's class practice in her studio on Saturday afternoon is a feature in musical instruction that should be taken advantage of by parents of music pupils and in fact all interested in this branch of education. The programs are wholly informal but enjoyable and highly instructive withal from the fact that among the pupils are some of the best players of the city. The quartet work on two pianos, the solos of the advanced players and the playing of the young lads and misses go to make up an enjoyable program and that of today was no exception to the rule. Mrs. Willman's simple yet mastery talks on musical matters are of interest and value to trained musicians as well as beginners.

Improve Mill Street.

Some of the residents of Salem in the vicinity of the intersection of High and Mill streets are proposing to have some improvements made in their streets. The object is to have Mill street, between Church and Liberty brought to a grade so that water will not stand in the streets. High street has already been graded and gravelled in that part of town and a like improvement on Mill street will be a convenience if it does not help the appearance of the abutting property.

ORGANIZATION OF LABOR.

Meeting Held Friday Night and Temporary Organization Effected.

The meeting in Popular hall, Friday evening, of those interested in the proposed formation of a local federation of labor, was well attended, considering the novelty of the idea of anything so progressive as a labor organization, in Salem.

A dozen trades were represented, and it was a noticeable fact that those most earnest in the work of organization were men who have had previous experience of the benefit to be derived from co-operation on the part of wage earners.

A temporary organization was effected, to prosecute the work until a permanent organization shall be practicable, and the following officers were elected: Fred LaBelle, president; J. E. Godfrey, secretary; Thos. McDonald, treasurer.

A committee on organization was appointed by the chair, consisting of the following, the idea being to have different trades represented:

Capt. O'Brien, chairman of committee; C. M. Parmenter, carpenter; Bert Lynch, painter; Thos. McDonald, cigar-maker; E. Dunsford, plumber; John Chase, clerk; Ed Blaine, barber; Harry Prior, paperhanger.

A committee on hall, was also appointed consisting of Peter Becket, D. Ashbaugh and John Veatch.

After the routine work had been completed some general discussion took place, and much encouragement was drawn from the situation. Assurance was given that the barbers union, though absorbed in other matters at present, will be of material assistance later.

Capt. O'Brien was called on and gave a short, informal talk, his ideas being, in part, that the only way for the laborer to get strength enough to accomplish anything is to organize; that, so far, the skilled laborers are the only ones who seem to thoroughly understand this, but farmers and others are beginning to see it more clearly. All through the hard times, wages were kept up wherever there were good labor unions. The early closing movement in Salem is a good thing and this federation, if perfected, will help to make it permanent. People are studying political economy more than ever before and this has grown out of the labor unions.

It will only be a little while before the masses of the people will be better educated on these questions than ever before. Education is the great civilizing and equalizing agent of today, as gunpowder was, when first used. Gunpowder destroyed the old system of feudal slavery by destroying the supremacy of the mailed knight.

The Captain drew a lesson of encouragement from his experience during the civil war. On many occasions an easy victory could have been won with little delay or loss, if the army had known just how badly rattled the enemy were. He spoke of the label system as one of the most effective weapons in the hands of organized labor.

A member of the cigar-makers' union also enlarged upon this point. When the system was introduced in Portland, there were but 6 or 7 cigar-makers working there. Within a year there were 40 or 50. He thought the labor question would never be solved except by organization. If you want to find a town where labor is well paid, you must find a union town, and vice versa. As the benefits are thoroughly understood here, there will be no trouble in maintaining a union or federation. If 200 or 250 men could be enrolled in a federation, permanent benefit would be realized.

A vote of thanks was given to THE CAPITAL JOURNAL for courtesies extended, and the meeting adjourned until next Friday evening.

The committee on organization then got together and arranged to hold a meeting 3 at p. m. on the 16th inst.
