M. H. DeLong,

of Schuylerville, N. Y., who served in Company E 24 Vermont Volunteers, had other foes to battle with after his return from the late war. He recently wrote:

"I have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve for nervousness brought on by the use of tobacco and too close application to business. It gave me prompt relief without leaving any unpleasant effects. The result was beneficial and lasting. I heartily endorse it."

JOURNAL X-RAYS.

Some "small potatoes" are soon roasted.

Quite a number of editors had a fine-looking niece in their party.

We will not speak of the appropriation for the orphan's home.

Beneath the rule of men entirely great The pen is mightier than the sword.

The visitors were unanimous in one thing—praising the complexion of Oregon women.

Having received the heroes of the pen, we are prepared for the shock of those who wield the sword.

The editors who sampled Salem water said it was superior to the Chicago article when the wind is off shore.

One of Sam Simpson's poems used to have a great deal of significance to editors when more of them were printers.

Salem is the city of peace, harmony and prosperity, the first city mentioned in the Bible of which Melchisedek was mayor.

This town has out-grown a few individuals, and some one should kindly tell them so, as they will never make the discovery.

It might interest our visitors to know that the Salemite reputed to be the wealthiest man in town began life as a country editor.

If there's any apparent scarcity of people in town, remember that this is a farming country, and we are in the middle of the hay crop.

Hark, hark, how the dogs do bark! The editors have come to town. You'd better look a leetle odd. They'll write you up or write you down.

Under all the circumstances, the Salem editors behaved pretty well, considering that none of their wives were on hand where they could keep an eye on them.

The national excursion of editors was not supplied with news by wireless telegraphy, but all were served with a copy of the greeting edition of THE CAPITAL JOURNAL with their breakfast at Eugene, and by the time the train pulled into Salem they had the town down pretty fine.

Valuable Testimony

Is at hand in abundance to establish the claim of extraordinary durability, and to prove the satisfaction experienced by Victor riders. They do more to sell Victors than any other item of advertising. A well-known gentleman said in our hearing today: "I cannot conceive why people will buy other wheels, unknown and untried, paying nearly as much for them as would buy a Victor. They do not seem to realize that they spend many times the difference in the first cost in repairs, besides never having the satisfaction of a good reliable mount." At the same time he showed his wheel, a "96 Victor," which had been subjected to the most unreasonably hard treatment, upon which not a cent had been spent for breakage, though ridden by a speedy, heavy-weight rider, over country roads, stubble fields and ditches.

"96 Victors" are better than ever, sold by H. S. Gile & Co., Insurance Bldg., Victor Spindler's can now be had with only a few days' delay.
