DREYFUS TRIAL

Is Resumed This Morning.

Assassination of Laborer Premeditated

And Paid for By the Enemies of Dreyfus.

By Associated Press to the Journal. REXNES, Aug. 17.—The trial of Capt. Dreyfus was resumed this morning without an incident. Court adjourned after partly hearing Col. Picquart, who will continue the deposition tomorrow.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The correspondents of the London papers at Rennes are almost unanimous in taking a gloomy view of the prospects for Dreyfus. A representative of the Daily Telegraph says, unless the German government reveals the name of the real traitor, it is quite on the cards that the same verdict will be rendered as in the previous court-martial.

REXNES, Aug. 17.—Maitre Monard, counsel for the Dreyfus family before the court of Cassation in the trial for revision of proceedings, has been summoned to replace Labori until the latter is able to resume the conduct of the case. In spite of the difficulties encountered by the defense, today's session of the court opened with brighter prospects for the prisoner, as Demange evidently came primed with questions to be put to General Roget. A number of counsel's shots struck the bullseye and made the General squirm in his seat. Roget was unable to conceal his annoyance and anger when Demange scored. He threw glances of savage resentment at the audience when surprised titters went around the court room as Demange cornered him. Then came a witness who proved to be a splendid reinforcement for Dreyfus. It was M. Burtulus, the examining magistrate who received the late Lieut. Col. Henry's confession of forgery. Burtulus' testimony was a veritable speech for the defense.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Joseph Reinach called the following statement to the Journal and Advertiser:

"The shooting of Labori will warm up the atmosphere of the court, as it has disgusted honest men. The attempted assassination is not the outcome of a weak mind; it is part of a general plan, cold-blooded, premeditated and paid for."

"The crime syndicate of assassination feared Labori and wanted his life and documents. The same men are responsible for the razor which cut Henry's throat; for the rope which hung Lozier and the pistol that shot Labori. History furnishes no example of crime so atrocious."

"The plot includes the murder of Dreyfus, if acquitted. The murderers who ordered the assassination will yet be caught. No compromise verdict is possible now. The judges who hitherto would have been willing to throw a sop to the anti-Dreyfusards, will now make no concession."

"They stole Labori's papers to feed the dossier. My letter, which was among the stolen documents, will not give the dossier much nourishment. It will doubtless be claimed by the murder party that the 'Anglo-German syndicate' hired the man to shoot Labori in order to awaken sympathy for Dreyfus. "The army accusers are now in full retreat and hoping for revolution. There have been several combinations made to murder Dreyfus. The murderer has many accomplices. The plot has a plan of two planks: First, subversion of the republic; second, the murder of those who denounce the gang of forgers. "Labori's blood stirs honest souls. Look forward to a speedy acquittal of Dreyfus."

WOODBURN RECEPTION

To the Returned Volunteers of Company M.

French Prairie Camp No. 47, gave a grand reception at their hall last night Wednesday night to the returned volunteers of company M, the Woodburn company.

Four of the boys were members of the lodge, Captain J. M. Poorman, First Lieutenant W. E. Finer, Sergeant D. D. Henderson and Corporal J. C. Johnson, the first three being Past Consuls.

While the reception was primarily for these, all the other members of the company were cordially included, and besides those named there were present D. A. Walker, Eugene Mosberger, Raymond Mosberger, C. A. Whiting, Jesse Carter, Tracy Poorman, Ralph Hall, Wesley Boyce, Wm. Benjamin, James Toose and Charles Humphrey. Not only were the members of the lodge present, but their families, the relatives of the volunteers, and many other friends, making a gathering of several hundred people. The large hall, 60x80 feet and the supper room 6x16 were filled and a royal good time was enjoyed by all.

An address of welcome was given by Walter Toose in his most entertaining style, and short responses were made by Capt. Poorman, Lieut. Finer, Sergeant Henderson and others. Stories and anecdotes of the novel experiences of the volunteers were related, and some excellent music was also rendered. Dr. G. H. McCorkle presided over the festivities in the happiest manner.

The feast to which the people turned their attention about half past ten, and with which they were still wrestling at midnight when our informant left, was one of the greatest spreads of eatables ever thrown on the tender mercies of a Marion county gathering. The farmers had brought chickens and all other products of the country and nothing delicious seemed to be missing. The soldier boys were, of course, the lions of the occasion, and the little Filipino, Manuel, came in for a great deal of attention.

Woodburn is a great place for genuine informal good times, and she outdid herself last night.

County Clerk W. W. Hall and C. T. Pomeroy, the jeweler, with their wives, drove down to Woodburn and took in the affair, returning about 3 a. m. to Salem.

MISS STARR DEAD.

Took a Dose of Carbolic Acid By Mistake.

Lived Only About Half an Hour After Taking It—Story of Her Death.

Miss Sarah Starr, stenographer at the governor's office, a daughter of Frank Starr, who resides in Englewood, corner Sixteenth and B streets, died at 1 o'clock today from a dose of carbolic acid. She worked at the executive office until noon today, when she left for lunch as usual. During the forenoon the young lady had asked for permission to take a short vacation. She must have taken the poison shortly after 12 o'clock.

Miss Starr was stenographer for Sherman, Condit & Park for several years, and went to work as stenographer for Governor Geer on June 1, of this year.

STORY OF HER DEATH.

She arrived at her home, corner Sixteenth and E streets, at about twenty minutes past twelve, and a few moments afterward she called for help.

It is supposed that she mistook the bottle of carbolic acid for a bottle of camphor which resembled it, the only difference being in the label.

The nearest physician, Dr. C. H. Robertson was summoned with all possible speed, and arrived in about ten minutes.

It was found impossible to relieve her agony and after half an hour of intense suffering she passed away a little after one o'clock.

Miss Starr was a fine looking, bright and intelligent young lady, and a very popular and efficient employe at the State House.

She was only about 20 years of age, and came to Salem with her family about 12 years ago.

DR. ROBERTSON'S STATEMENT.

Dr. Robertson, who lives only a few blocks from the Starr home, reached the patient about 12:30 p. m. He gave her a powerful emetic and thinks the acid was all out of her stomach before death, but her mouth and throat were so burned she could not live.

Her left eye was burned out by the poison. She could not speak plainly, but she knew that she could not live. She was unconscious at time of death.

After removing the poison the doctor said she was quite weak, whereupon he administered a stimulant, but she failed to rally and expired very suddenly. The doctor does not think the poison was taken intentionally.

DR. JOSEPHI'S SON

Stricken Down in a Bathroom by an Electric Wire.

By Associated Press to the Journal. PORTLAND, Aug. 17.—Hawthorne Josephi, the only son of State Senator Dr. Josephi, met instant death at the home of his parents, on the northeast corner of East Morrison and East Twelfth streets yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, while repairing some electric fittings in the bathroom on the second floor. The night before the electric fittings were out of repair, and Hawthorne thought he would overhaul them and put them in good condition yesterday, after his return from the General Electric Company, where he had been employed.

Just how the accident occurred is not known. At the time he was at work in the bathroom, Mrs. Josephi was receiving some callers. She heard a slight noise from the upper portion of the residence, like some one falling, but it was only a slight noise, and she did not ascertain the cause at once. Presently she went up stairs, and on opening the door of the bathroom, saw Hawthorne lying on the floor, where he had fallen when he received the shock. She immediately hurried to the telephone and, calling up Dr. Josephi, informed him of what had happened. Then Captain West and wife were informed. Soon Dr. Josephi arrived, and, with Drs. C. H. Rafferty and George Wilson, used every possible measure to restore the young man, but their efforts were futile.

Examination of the service wires to Dr. Josephi's residence very soon after the accident showed that they were entirely free from contact with other wires. It is not certain that the young man received a shock, but the probability is that he did receive a slight shock, such as would come from a 100-volt current, which the wire was carrying, and which is ordinarily used in house-wiring. Under ordinary circumstances the only effect of such a shock would be a sharp, tingling sensation, but to a person suffering from some weakness or an organic affection of the heart it might prove serious or even fatal.

The Latest Fake.

Salem merchants, who are bored to death for all kinds of fake advertising all the time are again confronted by the fiend. The scheme is to place advertisements about the margin of a little out-of-date map of Oregon at $2 a card. Then the whole thing can be hung up out of sight where it will not do 2 cents worth of good.

Diver Drowned.
