CAPTIVATED BY HORTENSE.

How a Fictitious Salem Belle Affected a Texas Editor.

Jasper Collins, the aesthetic young bachelor editor of the Paloma, Texas Watchman, has the following in his excursion notes on Salem:

Salem like most capital cities is filled with refined and cultured people and has many costly and beautiful homes. It is the second city of Oregon in population, having 12,000 people. It has many fine public buildings, notably the state capitol, court house and city hall. The Willamette river is navigable the year around from Salem. The principal streams are 100 feet wide and lined with beautiful shade trees.

Salem has many manufacturing enterprises including a woolen mill, flour-mill, sash and door factories, two iron foundries, a cider, vinegar and preserve factory, two soda water factories, a brewery, an ice plant, two wagon and carriage factories, a clothing factory, shoe factory and many others. All of these do prosperous businesses. Like other towns situated in the Willamette valley that I have spoken of, Salem is surrounded by a rich agricultural country adapted to small grain and fruit growing. All kinds of fruit are grown here successfully and yield good profits to the growers. Hop growing is a successful industry here also. There is much land around Salem that is suitable for flax growing that can be bought at reasonable figures.

There are many things that I would like to say about this beautiful capital city if space would permit. It was the general verdict of our party that Salem and the Salem people were all right. I, especially, bade farewell to Salem with an unfeigned regret. I shall always have a tender spot in my heart for the place for it was there that I met Hortense. "Divinely tall and divinely fair," a vision of grace and loveliness most pleasing to the aesthetic eye was Hortense as I first saw her. Only for a few hours did I know her but when I said goodbye, knowing that in a few days thousands of miles would separate us, I felt as one who has witnessed the passing of a cherished ideal. It is more than probable that in the course of human events I shall never see her again, but in after years when I shall sit by the fire-side on winter evenings and in a reflective mood, conjure from the flame and smoke forms of loved ones of the past who have figured in the pleasant and joyous scenes of my bachelor days, no fairer or dearer form will arise before me than that of Hortense.

PERSONAL AND LOCAL.

Rev. P. S. Knight went to Corvallis today.
Russell Coleman has started on his trip to Juneau Alaska.
Wm. Chambers is up from Portland taking in the fair.
Montague Lord went to Portland on this morning's train.
W. D. Mohney and family, have returned from a month's outing at Belknap Springs.
Miss Edna Price went to Albany today to visit her father, who is down from Eastern Oregon.
Miss Henrietta Finger arrived last night to be the guest of Miss Minna Snavin for a few days.

All Quiet at the City Hall.
For fair week things are extremely orderly in and about the city, and although the usual precaution of a special police force has been provided the men have little to do except walk their beats.
One John Keller was brought before Recorder Judah this morning and was given five days for vagrancy.

CHICAGO LETTER.

From Oregonians at the Michigan Summer Resort.

Practical Sociology—Parks and Statuary—Roof Garden Theatres—Christian Science—Street Railroad.

A letter this week will not prove interesting. The last of August and first of September have been very warm in Chicago, in fact all over the corn belt region. It was just the right stuff to put the finishing touch on the greatest corn crop that has ever been turned out of Uncle Sam's hot house—2,500,000,000 bushels.

THE WASTE PLACES.
About Chicago interest me very much. In all directions as you get into the suburbs there are hundreds of acres of city lots paying heavy taxes, earning nothing. The land is not used for anything and much of it bears no crop but Canada thistles and mortgages. There are whole squares grown up to sunflowers that are luxuriant in a state of nature. Rowinwood covers whole tracts, that appear as additions with high-sounding names on the city plat, with blazing, brilliant yellow flowers.

Thursday night we had a great rain and thunder storm, and the papers Friday reported many killed by lightning.

The mystery to me is why so few people make any use of the thousands of acres of original prairie. They do not have family gardens. The man with the hoe could be employed here. But it seems he has not learned how to use the hoe or prefers to buy all the products of the hoe and the soil with his wages and put in all his spare time talking politics. Potatoes retail at 40 cents, butter 25 cents for the finest, eggs 17 cents, flour $1.25 a sack, apples 25 cents per peck. All meats are high. My father has the only spot of garden in the neighborhood where we are stopping. Everywhere are street orators, college professors, ministers of the gospel talking about the awful tyranny of present economic conditions, but nobody seems to be willing to do anything except talk.

SUBURBAN CHICAGO.
Is an economic insult from an industrial point of view. I saw one patch of ground under perfect cultivation. The whole country here is the richest kind of alluvial prairie, old lake bottom loam, capable of producing the biggest crops of corn. A fine garden block is on 63d street, and produces thousands of dollars worth of celery, beets, cabbage, cauliflower, tomatoes, potatoes, sweet corn, musk melons, etc. A German and his family work it, and have grown rich out of it, and so far as they are concerned they do more to solve the industrial problem than all Chicago university.

LINCOLN PARK.
Is a beautiful place and visited by thousands daily. It extends along the shore of the lake for a mile or so north of the city. There is a fine collection of animals, especially the lions, one

Olinger & Rigdon.

Underlaking, Embalming

We wish to announce to the general public that we have purchased the most elegant and magnificent funeral car, of latest design, and are therefore in a position to handle funerals in a much better manner than heretofore, and with less expense. We have long felt that Salem, being the capital city of a great state, should be up-to-date in the manner of handling funerals, and we have therefore spared no expense in purchasing the car. It was built by the James Cunningham Co., Rochester, New York, who build the finest vehicles in the United States. While this is not the most expensive funeral car ever built, still it is the finest ever shipped to Oregon.

We cordially invite all to inspect our facilities, and when necessity requires, to give us liberal patronage.
