IT IS DIFFERENT, YOU KNOW.

The Statesman has a couple of communications expressive of sorrow and humiliation on account of the alleged action of the Willamette University football team in its efforts to include others than actual students. One is from a real friend of the institution, and the other is from a person who fails to either sign his name or disclose it.

The above from the editorial page of a paper that publishes the anonymous petitions and communications of "J. W. Smith and 47 others," is rich. It seems to be the rule of that paper not to print anonymous communications (unless it suits its purposes). But everything goes that is handed in by J. W. Smith and 47 other anonymous individuals. Being the official organ of the push, it feels at liberty to violate its rule and publish serious reflections over a man's name for whose whereabouts Alderman Griswold advertised two weeks but in vain. But when it comes to publishing another anonymous criticism exposing unprofessional sporting practices it has a conscience.

The city can stand it but by what rule of consistency can a newspaper make fish of one flesh of another? It must be J. W. Smith and 47 others, who are so highly favored as the only anonymous correspondents, are not anonymous, but are known to the paper that publishes their utterances. If it knows who J. W. Smith and his friends are why doesn't it tell the public who thus far are unable to reach them by mail or otherwise.

The paper that is so considerate about printing anonymous communications is not serving its cause when it prints anonymous attacks on the Citizens' administration. The business men and taxpayer of this city are deeply concerned in the success of the present city administration, and it is mainly to them that paper is looking for support. It is no apparent that J. W. Smith and 47 others (to whom the columns of the organ are so cheerfully and guilelessly open), are supporters of good government or good newspapers to any extent. Cowardly anonymous communications don't help any cause. They should all be excluded from the press, and the good old rule enforced, of demanding a contributor's name, "not for publication but as evidence of good faith."

The Statesman is unfortunate in having either violated its own rules about anonymous communications or else it knows "J. W. Smith and 47 others" and ought to tell the people who they are. It ought to stand by its own rules for protection of the public as well as for the protection of its friends.

Feeble Kidneys

In health the kidneys strain all impurities from the blood. Diseased, they allow the poisons to accumulate. Weak kidneys come from weak stomachs. Build up the stomach with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and the kidneys will be as good as new. The Bitters also cure constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, nervousness and general debility. See that a PRIVATE REFERENCE STAMP covers the neck of the bottle.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

found in the smallest places. It is where two or three are gathered together in his name that this wonderful work is done. This is the argument that we have presented to men and must present to the world, knowing that the one thing of most interest for you and me and all God's children is to make those demonstrations speak for themselves, and say to every doubting man and woman as Jesus said to John, the lame do walk and the blind do see.

I have taken great pains to investigate the talk with the persons who have been the objects of some of these wonderful cures, and to talk with the person who has treated them, so that I might be able to say, in some sense, that I had a personal knowledge of the cases. It has been a longing of mine to be able to go through, as nearly as I could, the whole catalogue of human ills, as they are presented to human senses, and I have almost accomplished that, so that almost every phase of sorrow, suffering, and heart-break I have seen cured. For a long while I knew I could say that the lame walk, and the blind do see, and I had seen so many instances of that kind, I want to be able to say, "The blind do see," I knew where my defective eyes were cured, but I wanted to find an instance where blindness had been total, or for a long time of years, so that no one could say that it was not a real, genuine instance of blindness, I wanted to see it perfectly healed.

I had the pleasure within the last six weeks of seeing just such a case. I met a young woman twenty-two years of age at a dinner party of Scientists in a little town in Indiana, and as I looked across the table at her I could not help saying, "Your life has been a long haul. You know no sorrow or tears," but within fifteen minutes I learned that if I had taken combined sorrows of all the people at that table they would not have equalled a tithe of what she had suffered. I learned from her mother that she had been born with defective eyes, one large and one small, and the sight drawn to one side. At the age of six months a curtain dropped down over her eyes so as to obscure the iris. No one knows whether she ever did see. At six years of age she was sent to an asylum for the blind, and remained there twelve years, and was then sent home because she had reached the age limit of the institution. Eighteen months before she was discharged her mother became interested in Christian Science, and took class instruction, and is now the first leader in the church there, and of course her thought was very naturally set on her child, and she gave her all the help she could. At the age of fifteen months after she came home, this cloud just simply disappeared. It did not roll up or down but went out into nothingness, and that girl now sees as well as any man or woman in this house. She said God had been very good to her, in that He had made the large eye small, and the small eye larger, so that they were both perfectly balanced. She is now a perfect specimen of vigorous young womanhood. This is the kind of demonstration that is needed for Christian Science, and enables us to use, with absolute knowledge of the facts, the argument of Christ, "the lame walk and the blind do see."

Battleship Kentucky.

New York, Nov. 22.—The new battleship Kentucky which has been in dock at the Brooklyn Navy Yard preparing for her official trial, will probably be ready to leave for Boston today. The Ordinary Sleeper—A New Feature in Western Travel.

The Pullman Company now operates two grades of sleeping cars via the Rio Grande Western Railway. The ordinary sleepers are entirely new, and the berths, both upper and lower, are fitted up complete with mattresses, blankets, sheets, pillows, curtains, etc., with stoves arranged for making tea, coffee, etc., requiring nothing to be furnished by passengers. Uniformed Pullman porters are in charge of the cars, who are required to keep them in good order and attend to the wants and comforts of passengers. The cars are very handsome and commodious, and while not so elegant, are just as comfortable as standard or palace sleepers. Both first and second-class passengers are permitted to occupy these cars on payment of the Pullman berth rate, which are less than half of the rates charged in the regular palace sleeping cars.

The ordinary sleepers are carried daily on trains via Rio Grande Western Railway between Denver and San Francisco and Portland. On five days in each week the sleepers are run through between Los Angeles and San Francisco, or Portland and Denver, Omaha, Chicago and Boston.

Salt Lake City—An Important Factor in Transcontinental Travel.

No one crossing the continent can afford to cut Salt Lake City from his route. The attractions of the place, including the Mormon Temple, Tabernacle and Church institutions, the Great Salt Lake—leader and denser than the Dead Sea in the Holy Land—the picturesque environment and the Warm Sulphur and Hot Springs, are superior to the square yard than any locality on the American continent.

The Rio Grande Western Railway, connecting on the East with the Denver & Rio Grande, Colorado Midland Railways and on the West with the Southern Pacific (Central Route) and Oregon Short Line, is the only transcontinental line passing directly through Salt Lake City. The route through Salt Lake City via the Rio Grande Western Railway is famous all the year round. On account of the equable climate of Utah and Colorado it is just as popular in winter as in summer. Send 2c. to J. D. Mansfield, 253 Washington St., Portland; or Geo. W. Heintz, Acting General Passenger Agent, Salt Lake City, for a copy of Salt Lake City—the City of the Saints.

Copper Colored Splotches.

There is only one cure for Contagious Blood Poison—the disease which has completely baffled the doctors. They are totally unable to cure it, and direct their efforts toward bottling the poison up in the blood and concealing it from view. S. S. S. cures the disease positively and permanently by forcing out every trace of the taint.

Which was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots all over his body. These spots broke out into sores, and it was so bad that he could not stand. He had spent a great deal of money, which was really thrown away. I had read of S. S. S. and I had bought a bottle of it. When I had finished my first bottle of S. S. S. I was a greatly improved man, and was delighted with the result. The large spots had disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger, and my appetite greatly improved. I was soon entirely well, and I am now as well as ever.
