SUMPTER IS ALL RIGHT.

But Southern Oregon Mines Will be Heard From Soon, Says A. D. Charlton.

"Sumpter," says A. D. Charlton, assistant general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, "is a wonderful camp. There is no question about that. But while every one is talking about Sumpter other mining districts in Oregon should not be forgotten. Keep your eye on Southern Oregon; that district will boom next."

Mr. Charlton has just returned from a trip through Eastern Oregon, including Sumpter. Continuing, he said:

There are paying mines enough now to establish the permanency of the camp. The people there believe it will prove one of the wonders of the world. Time alone will tell. It is certainly a No. 1 camp with brilliant prospects for the future. A good many people have already rushed in there and no doubt there will be a big boom next spring. We were very much surprised at the mildness of the weather. There was two feet of snow but the sun shone brightly, and people went about without overcoats and were very comfortable."

In speaking about Southern Oregon, Mr. Charlton said the districts around Ashland, Grants Pass, Bohemia, Blue River, etc., offered just as fine opportunities to capital as Sumpter. Many people, he said, were complaining because they had not located in Sumpter previous to the boom. The same chances, he said, awaited them in Southern Oregon, and in another year they would be upgrading themselves for having let pass other opportunities. "Mark my words," concluded Mr. Charlton, "Southern Oregon mines are going to boom and possibly overtake the Sumpter boom."

Human Hearts.

Hal Reid's play, "Human Hearts," replete with interest, mirth and pathos, will be presented at Reid's opera house by special request Saturday night, and no lover of the drama should fail to attend the performance. But few traveling companies carry so much and elaborate scenery. No expense has been spared in the effort to make this performance in every way artistically realistic. One breathes the atmosphere of the simple farm life, and one's heart throbs with the sufferings of plain country folks, who engage the attention with their homely ways and simple nature. No one will regret the time spent in witnessing the enactment of the lives of simple folks who have witnessed the greatest of sorrows, separation and injustice; and all will not only be chastened by pity for the afflicted, but will be refreshed by laughter in plenty, for which the playwright has fully planned.

"Whereas a bill has been introduced into the senate of the United States by Senator Shelby M. Culom providing full amnesty for all deserters in the war of the rebellion and making them eligible to a place on the pension rolls, if disability received during the military service from which they escaped by desertion can be proved; and

"Whereas, believing that the pension roll should be a roll of honor, and a symbol of fidelity to the nation; be it

"Resolved, That we most earnestly protest against the passage of this bill, or any kindred measure, and urge our senators and representatives in congress to oppose its passage.

BUYING UP TIMBER LAND.

Eastern Syndicates Gobbling It at Low Prices.

On the 2d of January the Weyerhaeuser syndicate paid the Northern Pacific $6,000,000 for 1,000,000 acres of timber land in Washington.

This is the largest deal in timber land that has ever been made in the west. During the past year this syndicate of lumbermen has bought up immense quantities of land in Wisconsin and Minnesota and now has practical control of all the timber in these two states. The Weyerhaeuser people are estimating on another tract of Northern Pacific timber land in Washington and have secured an option on it at $6.00 an acre, which they will probably pay during the coming year.

The syndicate headed by Frederick Weyerhaeuser is composed of the leading and wealthiest lumbermen of the northwest.

Nearly all of the land sold lies along the Seattle & Northern branch of the Northern Pacific between Anacortes and Hamilton and is adapted to the manufacture of largedimension timber, which has long since become exhausted in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

NOT INCREASED.

Marion County Tax Levy a Shade Less Than Last Year's.

Before adjournment Wednesday afternoon, the Marion county commissioners' court made the tax levy for this year. The state levy was not yet available, but on the understanding that it would be made even figures, the Marion county officials made our own levy and will add the state rate later.

The Marion county levy is 15.25 mills, divided as follows:

General county fund.....10.4 mills
State school fund.....4.5 mills
Indigent soldiers' fund.....1 mill
Scalp bounty fund.....25 mills

The levy for Salem is 10 mills, and when the school district and state levies, which are not yet made, are added, the total will be about 40 mills for property inside the city limits.

The Marion county assessment roll shows a valuation of $7,927,287, against $8,067,383 last year. The revenue will be $120,894.16 against $123,277.95 last year, which seems to be a move in the right direction.

Oregon Salt and Borax.

In Lake county, about 60 miles a little east of north from Lakeview, there is a chain of small lakes that are already yielding a rich income to their owner, and as soon as proper arrangements can be made for mining and saving the salt and borax that abounds there, the industry will be important. The chain consists of De Garmo, Rock, Horse, Ranch, Hickerson and Bruce lakes. Their areas vary from one to six acres, the two larger, De Garmo and Rock, have an area of five and six acres, respectively, and the distance between them is from one-half to two miles. These lakes go dry every summer, and leave a crust of salt varying from one and one-half to three inches in thickness that compares with the best salt in the land. At Lake De Garmo a strata of pure borax, ranging from a few inches to nearly three feet in thickness, lies beneath the salt. So far, the borax has not been saved, except in small quantities for local blacksmiths, who pronounce it the best for welding steel and iron that they have ever used.

At the Asylum.

Under the new management everything is progressing smoothly at the asylum, and the new officers are rapidly becoming acquainted with their various duties. One hundred and thirty-six employees are engaged at the main building and farm. Considerable work is being done in preparing for the garden and farm season, and it has the appearance of a busy place. The number of patients now confined in that institution number 1,170. Of this number 709 are male and 371 are female.

Steamers Seized.

And food confiscated by the British, but we in Oregon have a quieter way, we just use our money and secure plenty of first class groceries from Branson & Ragan.

JOURNAL X-RAYS.

What's the objection to a high school in Salem?

"Competition is the life of trade," but many think co-operation must finally hold body and soul together.

Baker City Dem.—"There is one place where England doesn't want any 'open doors' and that is at Delagosa Bay."

And now the chewing gum trust proposes to raise prices. That will rob the average American girl of her dearest luxury.

Oom Paul's danger lies in the fact that the English at home as well as in Africa have advanced too far to be able to retreat.—Exchange.

A Journal correspondent asks a score of hard questions on how to solve the vagrancy problem, but offers no solution. Any kind of a blank dash can ask hard questions.

The X-Ray man is asked what ought to be done about the famine in India. All right, gentle reader, but just wait until we solve the bread and butter question at home.

Senator Cullom, of Illinois believes in taking a deeper back on probation, now that its nearly 40 years since the war, but the Salem G. A. R. post says no. How many years should it require?

Yes, the legislative ticket is perfected and most of the congressional delegates are picked out, but the rank and file must not know who they are until convention day, or they might not stand it, you know.

Portland is certainly prosperous, at least the Oregonian says so every day. Yet the valuations of Multnomah county have dropped from $12,870,564 in 1898 to $11,068,266 in 1899, or a decrease of over eleven millions. Such is prosperity.

The war in Luzon has been rather livelier than ever during the past month or two, although about November 1, just before the elections, Ota had the inscription almost completely suppressed. It may take a presidential campaign to suppress it again.—Portland Telegram.

While the commercial statistics of 1899 are not complete, enough are available to show that in all larger aspects it was the most prosperous year in our national history.—Oregon.

As yet the Y. M. C. A. and other useful organization say there were never so many people out of employment. Will you believe the organ or these who know?

The new officers of the Salem Chamber of Commerce are: President, Geo. Gay; vice-president, C. P. Bishop; secretary, H. B. Thielson; treasurer, H. G. Soumenan.

The gentlemen represent some of the best business sense and energy in the city, and will push our people's interests on every opportunity.

One of the curious freaks of politics is the leasing of Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, toward free silver, or what he calls bimetalism. He must be credited with sincerity and a certain species of courage, for there is very little bimetallic sentiment in his part of the country, and his courage on this question is likely to cost him his seat.—Portland Telegram.

Cherries in Bloom.

Mill City, Jan. 9.—This morning I was at the mountain ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Faber, which is located on the top of the top of a mountain, one mile and a half north of Mill City. While there, I saw shown some cherry trees in full bloom, which seems the more remarkable as the trees. Can any of the valley orchards beat this? If they can let's hear from them.

Respectfully,
JOHN KOENKE.
