CIRCUIT COURT.

Matters Disposed of in Department No. 1 Today.

The case of E. D. Cass vs W. H. Egan was tried Monday afternoon. This was an action for $2050 damages and arose from the arrest of Cass last July on complaint of Eagan, who accused him of the larceny of some wheat. On trial in justice court Mr. Cass was acquitted and he then commenced this suit. The case occupied the afternoon, and the jury brought in a verdict for defendant.

This morning the case of L. J. Davenport vs. Fred Dose, an appeal from justice court went to trial and the testimony of plaintiff all being in about 11 o'clock, Judge Burnett's rulings shut out so much of it that the judge discharged the jury, remarking that the plaintiff had produced no testimony to go to a jury, virtually now suiting the case.

Adjournment was then taken until 1 p. m., when the case of John W. McKinney, vs. the Statesman Pub. Co. was taken up.

In the case of the Piano Mfg. Co vs. L. Prevost and Pauline Prevost, action for money, judgment has been taken for default.

Archbishop Patric Feehan, of Chicago, is reported very sick with pneumonia.

He will prove a valuable acquisition to Jackson county.

Mr., no longer Governor, Taylor, who should have been accepted and acknowledged as governor of Kentucky, will give up the office, but one provision of the agreement reached is a confession on the part of the Gobel Democrats that they have perpetrated a great political outrage under the forms of law, for they agree that "all parties shall unite in efforts to bring about such modification of the election law as will provide for nonpartisan election boards and insure free elections." But can the Goebelites be depended upon to carry out such an agreement?—Portland Telegram.

Yes, and Saint Taylor gives up the office with the distinct pledge that he and his gang of mountaineers will not be prosecuted for treason. They all seem to be tarred with the same stick down there.

THAT SCALP BOUNTY

Tax Collected by All Counties Except Multnomah.

Sections Owing Least Number of Sheep Pay Greatest Amount of Tax—Marion Contributes a Goodly Share.

The refusal of Multnomah county to comply with the new law requiring a levy for the purpose of maintaining a scalp bounty fund, has aroused considerable discussion throughout the state.

When the bill was introduced last winter by Rep. Williamson, of Crook, it was represented to be a bill for the protection of sheep, the expense to be borne principally by the sheep owners. The bill provided that 1 cent a head on sheep and ¼ mill on other property real and personal be levied in each county to be turned over to the state treasurer for a "state scalp bounty fund" to be paid out in bounties, for the scalps of wild animals destructive to sheep.

The bill passed with little opposition, and the records show that with the exception of Myers, all of Multnomah county's representatives voted for it.

THE JOURNAL, at the time the bill was before the legislature, gave an analysis which showed that the heaviest part of the expense would be borne by the counties owning the fewest sheep, and others seem to have found this out now.

As the principle involved is a time-honored one in dealing with "infant industries," however, perhaps the counties that foot the bill should not go to the length of refusing to comply with the law which they were greatly instrumental in passing. But in order that JOURNAL readers may form a correct idea of the working of the law some correct figures are presented herewith, and particular attention is called to the fact that these figures are not garbled by leaving out of consideration the amounts raised by the 1 cent tax on each head of sheep, as was the case with the figures recently given by a paper published in Portland, Multnomah county.

The fifteen counties, Baker, Crook, Curry, Gilliam, Grant, Harney, Klamath, Lake, Malheur, Morrow, Sherman, Umatilla, Wallowa, Wasco and Wheeler, with 1,310,064 sheep will contribute $19,344 to the scalp bounty fund.

The remaining eighteen counties, with 249,864 sheep, if they all pay, will contribute $27,440 to the fund. With less than one fifth as many sheep the latter group contribute nearly 50 per cent more money.

The following table shows the number of sheep in each county and the amount contributed to the bounty fund, including the ¼ mill property tax and one cent per head on sheep and goats.

Sad News.

C. D. and E. C. Minton, of this city, have received the sad news of the death of their father, John Minton, Monday morning, at Muncie, Ind. Are you Convinced?

The public generally have come to the conclusion that I mean business when I say I'm closing out to quit for good. If you'd seen the crowd around my shoe counter yesterday, you'd have known they all believed it was no fake. We are still fitting out scores of people every day in Hamilton Brown shoes, in shirts, caps, underwear, ties, hosiery, notions, etc. We have kept the counters and tables so full that many people think we're getting in new goods, but the empty gallery and empty upper shelves, speak volumes for the crowds we've had.

The only way to find what we've got is to come and look. We can save you good money on anything we sell you. Why go elsewhere and pay a profit when you get it here at exact cost.

LADIES--I have about a dozen and a half of very fine handkerchiefs that sold from 60c to $1 45. They are clean and fresh in excellent condition. They are you'rs at exact cost. It might pay you to see them.
