About New Cottons

The flimsy, fluffy, dainty cotton beauties are tumbling in day by day, adding their grace and charm to the collection. They are tumbling out, too, for foresighted folks are snapping them up eagerly. A word of some of the sorts:— Silk stripe zephyrs, as dainty as silks, and washable too. A nice assortment of patterns. Colorings, plain, and fancy gingham.

SCHOOL MEETING

A Large Attendance Attests Unusual Interest in Our Public Schools.

Over One Hundred Citizens (No Ladies) Attended the School Meeting.

Pres. Thos. Bruce called the annual meeting to order, and Clerk Jos. Bannister read the annual report, of the directors, and his own report as clerk. Both adopted.

Mr. Prenal offered a resolution that the board be authorized to rent the Polytechnic school, A. N. Gilbert moved to table as it was a matter properly left to the discretion of the Directors. Consistent with the plan adopted by the city E. Hofer offered a resolution to authorize the board to borrow $16,000 on popular loan to refund the debt against the East Salem school falling due Oct. 1, as not to exceed four per cent interest. The resolution was as follows and adopted on motion of Capt. T. S. Northcutt:

"Resolved, by the electors of Salem school district No. 24, in annual meeting assembled, that we authorize the school board of this district to refund the debt of $16,000 against the East Salem School in a popular loan at not to exceed 4 per cent interest per annum, to borrow the same at par under the seal of the board, and without issuing new bonds."

CANDIDATES FOR DIRECTOR.
No names were presented for director at the annual meeting. Quite a number of friends of A. E. Parker, of Englewood, were present to urge his name. The other names mentioned are ex-Alderman J. M. Lawrence and H. C. Fletcher, of North Salem. Following petition and acceptance of Mr. Fletcher is submitted for publication:

To Mr. H. C. Fletcher:— We, the undersigned voters of school district No. 24, of Marion county, Oregon, reposing confidence in your ability and integrity, hereby respectfully request that you become a candidate for the office of school directors at the ensuing election, and we pledge you our hearty support.

English Officers Wear Armor.

Many officers of the British army are wearers of armor. As a general rule the mail is inclosed in a leather casing, which is sewed inside the tunic, so as to be invisible unless the garment is picked to pieces. And the same with helmets—a similar device is fixed in the lining, so as to give additional protection in case of need. Some officers are not above wearing mail vests underneath their tunics and perfectly oblivious of their comrades, who, although they may scoff in times of peace, would only be too glad to don one themselves when in the middle of hostilities. The majority of the maker's customers are officers, because the suits are very expensive, costing about 10 guineas each.—Regiment.

A Curious Battle.

An interesting spectacle was witnessed the other day on the banks of the river Soar, near Hatton, by a gentleman resident in the district. Being attracted by a peculiar cry, he turned aside and came upon a young otter and a huge eel engaged in a deadly struggle. The otter had evidently caught the eel, which had retaliated by winding itself tightly round the former's neck. The fight lasted several minutes, the otter eventually freeing itself and making off with a part of the eel, which it had bitten in two.—London Telegraph.

A Shock to Boston.

An English woman, a visitor, grieved all Boston by irreverently asking a citizen, as she walked through the Commons and saw the cherished gilded dome of the statehouse, "Beg pardon, sir, but what building is that with the brass top?"—New York Times.

Accommodated.

"You haven't any smokeless tobacco, have you?" asked the smart young man.
"Lots of it," said the matter of fact person behind the counter, producing a box of snuff. "How much do you want?"

Three More.

Nicholas Gooding, a native of Prussia, Stephen Merten, native of Prussia, and Joseph Brumberger, of Bavaria, have been admitted to citizenship.

A column a day about moldy hope or anything else will not help sell an Oregon product.

A popular loan to refund the Salem School district debt will be just as popular as the city loan.

It looks as if the McBride people were in the saddle so far as the machine in Marion county is concerned.
