FAREWELL TO REED'S

The Old Play House Filled for the Last Time.

After Over Thirty Years of Usefulness It Retires from the Field, Making Way for a Better.

The theatrical season and the life of Reed's opera house as a home of the drama went out together Friday evening in a blaze of glory.

A large audience of Salem theatre-goers turned out to bid farewell to the old play house, and many were present who very seldom indulge in such pastime. The gallery was packed and there were probably less than a score of vacant seats on the lower floor.

The show was good, one of the best minstrel performances ever seen in Salem. The niggers were black, their teeth white, and the jokes nearly all of recent vintage.

But the main interest arose from the fact that this was the last time that an audience would be gathered in the old house to witness a performance on that stage, though this was not allowed to cast any perceptible shade of sadness over the occasion.

Between the acts Hal Patton came before the curtain and made a nice little speech, somewhat as follows: "We wish to thank each and every one of you for your most liberal patronage this evening. We have labored diligently for the past four seasons to give you the best in the amusement line, having at times been under many disadvantages. Among the most expensive attractions that we have presented to you for your consideration were: 'Humanity,' 'Eileen Beech Yaw,' 'Robt. Mantello,' 'Louis James,' 'Fred's Ward,' 'Tim Murphy,' 'Walsh & McDowell,' 'Eugene Blair,' 'Hi Henry,' 'Fanny Rice,' 'Huck Patti,' 'Puddin'head Wilson,' 'Sonsa's Band and the present company. Tonight we retire as managers, and what our future in that line may be we are not able to state, but we ask that when Salem's new play house is ready for occupancy that you will give it your earnest support, by so doing the new manager, whoever he may be, will have no trouble in presenting you the very best of attractions coming to this coast. Again thanking you for kind patronage, we bid you goodbye."

The managers Patton might have added to the above list of first class attractions many of lesser pretensions but of genuine excellence, such as some of Hoyt's best farces, some good light opera companies, and some of the best plays of the "Old Homestead" class, including that play which Den Thompson has been traveling with for over 20 years. Reed's opera house was completed as a theatre in 1870 by C. A. Reed, now of Portland, and was at that time one of the best play houses in the Northwest. Reed carried the enterprise through by sheer force of enterprise and push, but was not able to retain the ownership.

"The old theater has been outgrown and it is gratifying to know that its closing took place on the same day that contract was signed for the building of a new and up-to-date home of the drama, which is to be ready for occupancy by October 1st."

Patton Brothers tried to secure the property Friday night of tin man who built the theater, but Mr. Reed was unable to attend. He, however, sent a letter of regret, expressing feeling appreciation of Patton Brothers' courtesy and giving assurance that he had ever held the kindest of feelings toward the good people of Salem.

The old house has been run under various management. Patton Brothers took hold of the proposition in 1898, and under many drawbacks and discouragements they have shown the possibility of bringing first class attractions to Salem. It is to be hoped that the same good-will will take hold of the new theater.

North Salem Improvements.
The residents of North Salem are making a number of improvements about their homes. They propose to open a new street running east from near the river towards the school building.

Jacobs & Langcote, the enterprising wheelwrights and blacksmiths, have built a fine new workshop, which gives them the more room required because of their increasing business. They have also, at considerable expense, put up a watering trough in front of their shop for the use of the public, which will be appreciated.

Oysters.
Fresh from the shell, cooked as you like them, is one of the delicacies served to order at Strong's Restaurant.

A dynamite packing house was blown up at Rawlwin, Mich., killing three men.

The failures for the week were 181 in the United States, and seventeen in Canada against twenty-two last year.

PROMINENT EDITOR RELIEVED BY PERUNA

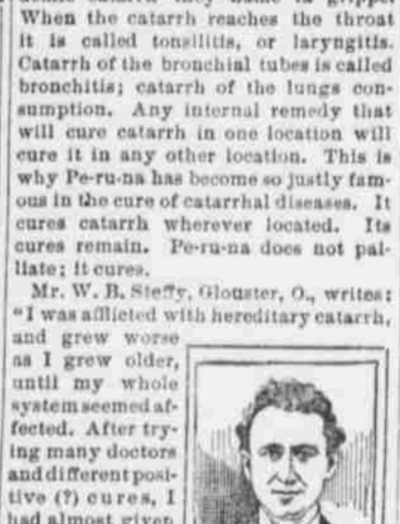

HON. HOBART BROOKS, OF WASHINGTON, D. C.
for those suffering with catarrh. I do not hesitate to recommend it. Before I had used one bottle I noticed a great change in myself, and four bottles cured me entirely. I would not be without Per-una for any consideration.
The reason so many people get chronic catarrh is, the disease gets firmly established before it is recognized. They fool themselves by calling it some other name than its proper one—catarrh. When people get acute catarrh they call it cold. If they have acute nasal catarrh it is called coryza. Endemic catarrh they call influenza, and epidemic catarrh they call it grippe. When the catarrh reaches the throat it is called tonsillitis, or laryngitis.
Catarrh of the bronchial tubes is called bronchitis; catarrh of the lungs consumption. Any internal remedy that will cure catarrh in one location will cure it in any other location. This is why Per-una has become so justly famous in the cure of catarrhal diseases. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures remain. Per-una does not pal-late; it cures.
Mr. W. B. Steffy, Gloucester, O., writes:
"I was afflicted with hereditary catarrh, and grew worse as I grew older, until my whole system seemed affected. After trying many doctors and different positive (?) cures, I had almost given up hope, when I was induced to try Per-una. After trying one bottle I felt a general strengthening of my system and after a few months' use of Per-una
I was cured. That was two years ago.
I use Per-una every spring, so as to get my system in good shape for the summer."

Prof. J. F. Turner, Edgely, Tenn.

Prof. J. F. Turner, Principal H. B.
High school, Edgely, Tenn., in a recent letter says: "I suffered for nine years with catarrh, and after trying several remedies I gave up, and concluded that there was no cure for me. I reflected so many testimonials from prominent men relative to Per-una that I concluded to try one bottle, little expecting any help. I had grown rather to believe that all catarrh cures were nothing but brands, but your remedy Per-una is the greatest panacea to-day
