

A Mother's Peril

Is Second Certain that Her Death Would Follow the Birth of the Child—How Help Came After the Doctors Despaired.

The sacrifice of a woman at the altar of motherhood is not an unusual event, but how unnecessary such sacrifices often are will be seen from the following interview with Mrs. C. K. Simmonds, of 140 Mineral Springs Ave., Pawtucket, R. I. Mrs. Simmonds, whose husband is a well known and popular grocer of Pawtucket, says:

"When my child was born on April 22, 1900, I suffered such an excessive loss of blood that I was utterly prostrated and had no strength whatever. Blood poisoning set in and my life was despaired of by two of the prominent physicians of this city. Before my marriage I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People with good results in building up and purifying my blood and when the doctors gave me up, I decided to give the pills a trial, although the case was desperate.

"My husband bought some of the pills and by the time I had taken three boxes I had gained so much strength that I was able to leave my bed for the first time in two months. I continued taking the pills and in another month could go about as usual. My appetite was good, the color returned to my cheeks and I gained rapidly in weight. I am very much indebted to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People to anyone afflicted as I was."

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 27th day of August, 1900.

STILL FURTHER WEST

How Social Problems Are Being Solved in New Zealand.

Has the Star of Progress Made Another Step Toward the Setting Sun.

(Following are some extracts from a sermon delivered last Sunday evening by a Salem minister of the gospel.)

New Zealand is some 1200 miles south east of Australia and has a territory nearly equal to New York and Pennsylvania, with a population of about 800,000. The islands have a climate something like that of California, one island being much colder than the other. The fauna and flora are peculiar, and you at once know by your surroundings that you are in a new world. But the wonder of the land is not the greatest surprise; the social life is stranger than the animals and plants.

Imagine a country with no tramps, except a very few who enjoy that kind of life; no poor, no drunkards, no very rich.

Not more than ten years ago a few few great landlords owned most of the land, tramps abounded, there were many paupers as elsewhere. In proportion to the population, drunkenness was common. Now, I suppose every one would agree that a country where small farms, well filled, abound, where tramps are a rarity, where alms or poor-houses are unknown, where pauperism is also an unknown quantity, would be a most desirable place of residence. And it would be interesting to learn how the change was made.

By the way, in New Zealand every man or woman over 21 years of age is entitled to vote. Children between the ages of 7 and 4 are obliged to attend school. Free high schools, colleges and universities are maintained at public cost, to which all who desire can go.

For a number of years there has been a land tax of from 2 to 6 cent on the pound and an extra tax of 2 cents on the pound on land owned by absentees. A graduated land tax was also passed; a man's land worth $5000 or less paid less than 10,000 a higher rate, and so on. There was also a graduated income tax rapidly increasing with the income. The result was that such men as Roderic Money Robinson, who owned 100,000 acres soon relinquished all but a small tract. The government purchased the large estates and divided them into small holdings which it sold to actual settlers, for cash, or leased at five per cent a year of the value of the land, with the privilege of buying at the original price any time after ten years, or leased in perpetuity at four per cent of the capital value. In 1894 was passed the Government advance to settlers act. Under this act advances are made up to 60 per cent on the estimated value of the land, drawing 6 per cent on the amount lent and payable in 36 years in installments; but with a diminishing interest, as with each payment of a portion of the principle the amount on which interest is calculated is reduced. The government also pays 7 shillings a day for work on the roads, and the settler can get work three days a week.

In 1903 New Zealand had completed her first line of railroad. She has now 1000 miles owned by the nation. The government purchased the large estates and divided them into small holdings which it sold to actual settlers, for cash, or leased at five per cent a year of the value of the land, with the privilege of buying at the original price any time after ten years, or leased in perpetuity at four per cent of the capital value.
