MR. FLAGG'S SALARY BILL.

In 1898 the Union party made a careful estimate of what the various county offices could be conducted for, and decided that a reduction of $9,000 could be made on the yearly pay of county officers without impairing the efficiency of the service.

We desire to analyze Mr. Flagg's salary bill a little, and show by his own figuring that as far as the sheriff's salary is concerned, his bill was an unjust one, and was drawn for the sole purpose of forcing a people's sheriff to resign, and then let a republican county court appoint one of the push in his place.

THEY START TUESDAY

As will be seen by a notice published elsewhere, the candidates on the county ticket begin their campaign at Turner Tuesday. It is not an oratorical expedition. There will be no speeches in which the opposition will be abused.

MONEY FOR BETTER ROADS.

Governor Geer has received from the United States treasury department a letter stating that a draft for $404,000 had been drawn in favor of the governor of Oregon, that sum being the balance due the state on account of the 5 per cent road fund.

MR. HART'S LEGAL RECORD.

The Journal has published for some time Mr. Hart of Polk county his own statement of his qualifications for the office of district attorney. He is the Republican candidate, and Republicans are entitled to know all the facts and to decide whether they want a man with the record of attainments he has produced in his own behalf for public prosecutor of the second largest district in the state.

ABUSES AT MANILA

Iniquitous Concessions That Throttle Trade.

Landing Privileges Held by an Unscrupulous Monopoly That is Accumulating a Fortune.

The following letter from a staff correspondent of the Daily Oregonian reveals a most iniquitous state of affairs in our new possession:

MANILA, P. I., April 30.—One of the unfortunate things in connection with the acquisition of the Philippines under the provisions of the treaty of Paris is the clause which recognizes every concession granted by the Spanish government to its favored citizens. These concessions, most of which are monopolies extending over a period of from 20 to 50 years, cover almost every profitable public franchise and many private affairs.

Perhaps the most flagrant and unjust is a concession now supposedly owned by associates of English and Americans, the privilege of "arrastre and condition," which is a monopoly of three steam cranes, located on the bank of the Pasig River, directly in front of the Custom House, and about 100 feet distant. Merchandise is lifted perhaps six feet and landed on the tramway cars, which are pushed by hand or handled by a diminutive locomotive a distance of from 200 to 500 feet. For this service the concessionaries receive 5 cents per 100 kilos, or about 50 cents per long ton. The labor employed in the work is paid not to exceed 50 cents Mexican per day per man, so that in itself is extremely profitable.

Every kind of goods imported into the Philippines must pay this tax. The ownership of this concession throws into the hands of the syndicate practically all of the cargo boat service; that is from the ships to the shore, since there are no wharves except in the river, and ocean-going vessels drawing over nine feet cannot enter the river. As a consequence, all freight is discharged into lighters and towed into the river, a distance probably of two miles. For this service the concessionaries make a minimum charge of $5.50 per ton. This same outfit have the bonded warehouse privilege, and altogether are enjoying a nice fat thing, and they have a call upon the business, as their own cargo boats receive quick dispatch, while rival boats are unloaded at leisure. Inasmuch as cargo boat cars cost 25 to 40 tons are worth from $50 to $100 per day, the delay makes it impossible for others to engage in the business at competitive rates.

This concession was formerly the property of a Spaniard, but his good thing was soon discovered, and he was frightened off the nest. Many rumors are rife in Manila as to who is the actual owner of the property, and some guesses have been made which strike in high places. This little tramway, with its handful of cars and engines, and its one quarter mile of track, is probably the best paying rail property in the world in proportion to its size.

A concession recently created is a baggage transfer company, and all baggage from steamers must be handled by this company.

The brewery in Manila also claims and advertises "an exclusive privilege" for a term of years. A Chinaman possesses the sole privilege to import opium. A German holds the sole right to manufacture matches.

The telephone company and the street car company are well fortified, and their rights so well protected that no American comparison is made with their good thing. It was also the custom of the Spaniards to sell the privilege of collecting certain taxes, a practice which has been continued to some extent by the Americans.

Some months ago, an enterprising American concern engaged in importing frozen meat from Australia, and fitted up several meat markets, stocked them with meat and commencing business. A very curly Spaniard walked into the establishment one day and informed them that as he held the concession for collecting taxes on all meat sold, he should like to arrange for a week's accounting. The tax was a mere trifle of 4 cents a pound. It is needless to say that the business was off, and the market was closed.

Talk about American trusts! Manila is tied up and will be until we bounce the whole outfit of concessionaires, scarcely any of whom have rendered any service equivalent to the monopolies which they control. Bribery and official rascality are responsible for most of them.

So, also, are many of the provisions of the custom tariff. Prohibitive duties are fixed to protect these manufacturing monopolies, and we are bravely enforcing them. The brewery has a protective tariff of $5.30 Mexican per barrel, and a glass of American beer sells for 40 cents Mexican, while the local beer retails at one half this amount.

The monastic orders have a monopoly on marriages, births and deaths for centuries, and Spanish law does not recognize a ceremony performed by other than a friar or a Catholic priest, and American officials sustained them until quite recently. Now, however, it is possible to be born and married, without paying up to the church, but the coffin tax of $5 is still in vogue, and your friends must pay rent for a burial place or go to the bone house. This coffin tax doesn't pay for the coffin or the ceremony. Bless your soul, no, it only gives you the right to wear one.

GOOD GOVERNMENT AND GOOD SCHOOLS.

The reputation of having the best city government of any municipality on the Pacific coast will in time prove the best advertisement and the means of bringing more capital, more manufactures, and more population to the capital city than any other inducement we can hold out, not even excepting our glorious climate. Next to good government, good schools will bring more permanent prosperity to Salem than anything else, and it is gratifying that the Salem board of education has employed so many first-class teachers for the ensuing year.

The board has retained the services of the primary and grade teachers who have made good records and served faithfully in the public schools the past year. They could not retain all, as it is natural in a list of forty teachers. There will be personal differences between five members of a school board, and even some good teachers deserving retention can not always be kept. In the employment of new ones mistakes will be made that have afterwards to be corrected. But if the board act in good faith with an eye singly to the public interest and to give the people the best schools for the money expended, the total result will be good.

In the employment of new teachers the board have strengthened and improved the Salem teaching force and have set the schools ahead of any in the western part of the state. If they will give the people all the grade work in all the large buildings as the people at their annual meeting two years ago asked them to do, it would be a great improvement. They will no doubt refund the debt with four per cent money as fast as it falls due as the people have ordered them to do, and if possible carry all the floating debt in the same manner. Next to the reputation of the city for good financial management, the morale and educational standards of our public schools, as well as their economical management and freedom from political and machine management are all important.
