THE BIELER DAMAGE SUIT.

Tried Today in Department No. 1 of the Circuit Court.

The damage suit of Margaret Bieler against the Oregon Telephone & Telegraph Co., went to trial this morning in Dept. No. 1 of the Circuit court, before a jury consisting of Jas. Hunt, W. H. B. Stewart, I. H. Small, U. S. Scollard, H. G. Baughman, J. E. Lewis, A. T. Yeaton, G. W. Richardson, T. R. Blackberry, R. E. Downing, Peter Loccer, and Milton Meyers.

The plaintiff was represented by Webster Holmes and Frank Holmes, the defendants, by Rufus B. Mallory and Wm. Kaiser.

This case arises out of the runaway on March 17, by which Mrs. Bieler was thrown out and quite seriously injured. As related at the time in THE JOURNAL, Mrs. Bieler drove into town with her brother, and accompanied by her daughter. They stopped on Court street by Dalrymple's store, and the driver got out, leaving the two ladies sitting on the back seat of the hack holding the lines. The employees of the Telephone Company were stretching a guy wire at this point, and the wire slipped from the appliance used and fell. The horses took fright and ran north on Commercial street a little over a block, when the hack collided with a wagon and the occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Bieler was quite seriously injured and was taken to the Salem hospital, where she was under treatment for about three weeks. One wrist and some of her fingers were permanently crippled.

The claims allowed damages as follows: For doctors' bills, $37.50; hospital bill, $32; physical suffering and permanent injury, $2500; mental anguish, $3000; possible future effects, $5000. Total, $11,087.50.

The facts above related are agreed upon, but the prosecution claims negligence on the part of the employees of the company; while the latter claims that the best known appliances were used in stretching the wire; that the plaintiff was negligent in staying in the hack and in stopping the team at that place in the street, and that the horses were frightened by the sound of the falling wire coming in contact with another wire and ran away before it came near them. At the request of the defense the jury was taken to the scene of the runaway and examined the ground.

Three witnesses were examined before dinner, Mrs. Bieler, Mr. Asseln, her brother and Miss Anna Bieler. The direct examination was conducted by Webster Holmes, and the cross examination by Judge Mallory, who succeeded in badly confusing the witness last named.

After dinner the examination of witnesses for the plaintiff was continued. There was a fight over the introduction of testimony that the appliance used by the company was not a safe one to use on a twisted guy wire, and the case was the case was dragging at the last report.

JAMES EDWARDS STILL AT LARGE

No Trace of the Escaped Convict Has Been Found—Believed That He Has Drowned Himself.

James Edwards, the convict who escaped from the state penitentiary June 5th has not as yet been located, and no trace of his movements has been received. It will be remembered that this man had 40 days to serve out his time, and that he was considered mentally unbalanced. As he has a wooden stump it is impossible for him to travel rapidly and he would be easily identified. For this reason if he has made his escape it has been the assistance of outside parties, and it is hardly believed that he had any such help.

The fact that he had only a short time to serve leads the officers to believe that he may in his desperation have carried out his previously made threat, and taken his own life. The latter theory seems the more reasonable way at present to account for his disappearance, but a pretty close examination of the stream near the prison has been made with no success. The officers of the institution await with interest news of the unfortunate man's whereabouts.

Petition in Bankruptcy.

Clell Hayden, of Salem, has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States Court. His liabilities amount to $107.15, made up of sums due including $2000 in the form of a judgment for $2000 awarded John Patterson.

B. J. Ferguson, farmer of Kola, Polk county, has also filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States Court. His liabilities amount to $190, and his assets to $170, of which $125 is claimed as exempt.

THE CORNER STONE

OF THE NEW ODD FELLOWS TEMPLE LAID WEDNESDAY

Witnessed by a Large Crowd, and With the Usual Impressive Ceremonies.

The Odd Fellows laid the corner stone of their new building Wednesday in the presence of probably five hundred people, and with the ceremonies usual to such occasions, besides an exceptionally fine program.

Shortly after two o'clock the procession formed on State street in front of the Holman building, where the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs now have their headquarters.

Chemeketa Lodge No. 1 and Olive Lodge No. 18 were each represented by nearly fifty members, and Salem Rebekah Lodge by over a score of ladies. Under direction of Marshal F. T. Wrightman and W. T. Rigdon the line formed facing east. Then it counter-marched, led by the Salem Cornett band, to Commercial street, then north to Court and east on Court to the site of the new building.

A floor had been laid over the completed basement of the building, and a framework on the north side had been covered with canvas, making a shade for the officers, speakers and musicians. This faced the auditorium of the theatre, where a couple of hundred chairs had been grouped, and where the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs and others found seats on the arrival of the procession.

The M. E. choir under the leadership of Professor Francesco Seeley opened the exercises with music, followed by the opening remarks and a prayer by the grand chaplain, A. O. Condit.

The choir then rendered an Odd Fellows' Ode, written especially for the occasion by Mrs. L. R. Osborne and set to music by Prof. Z. M. Parvin.

The actual work of laying the corner stone came next and consumed some three quarters of an hour. The real process was witnessed by but very few, as the crowd pressed in closely around the stone and derrick, and only the inner circle could see what was going on. The stone, however, was laid with mathematical exactness, and with the appropriate ceremonies. In a cavity 12x12x12 inches were placed a variety of articles calculated to arouse more or less interest on the part of the future antiquarian.

A list of these articles is as follows:

- Holy Bible, deposited by Chemeketa Lodge.
- List of members of Chemeketa Lodge.
- Copy of Santiam News, by Ira A. Phelps.
- Constitution and bylaws of Chemeketa Lodge, edition of 1885.
- Picture of Albert Pugh, deposited by his father, W. D. Pugh, architect of the Temple.
- Record in Odd Fellowship of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. West.
- Ditto of A. L. Brown.
- Ditto of E. E. McKinney.
- Ditto of Mrs. A. L. Brown.
- Ditto of M. L. Chamberlain.
- Certified list of members of Willamette Encampment No. 2, I. O. O. F., together with constitution and bylaws.
- Bylaws of the Odd Fellows' Library Association.
- Constitution and bylaws of Olive No. 18, I. O. O. F.
- Ditto of Salem Rebekah Lodge No. 2, I. O. O. F.
- Program of the last performance in Reed's Opera House, by Bates Bros.
- List of members of the building committee of Chemeketa Lodge No. 1, appointed Jan. 24, 1900.
- List of officers of Chemeketa Lodge No. 1, for the term ending June 30, 1900.
- Old Fellows Pin, by Richard Carlson.
- A copy of the Oregon Statesman of June 15th.
- Half dollar of 1839, by Ray L. Farmer.
- Copper cent by J. O. Sutton.
- Copy Oregon Independent, by J. W. Young.
- Proceedings of 1900 Grand Lodge and Grand Encampment, I. O. O. F.
- Book label, by Carl H. Anderson.
- An original piece of music and words, Friendship, Love and Truth, by Prof. Z. M. Parvin.
- Second Oregon Button, by Prof. L. West.
- Three Links emblem, by Mary Miller Hofer.

A marble slab was placed over the cavity, and it would be interesting to know many years it will be before the contents will again see the light of day.

After more music by the choir, the address of the day was delivered by Hon. J. K. Weatherford, of Albany. Without running much to statistics, the speaker reviewed in a general way, the history, aims and purposes of the grand order of Odd Fellows, of whom there are now some 12,000 lodges and over 1,000,000 members in the United States, and 100 lodges with 7,000 members in Oregon. He was listened to with close attention and his address was highly appreciated.

BETTER ROADS SURE.

A Fine Drive Possible On State Street and to the Depot.

The city officials are securing estimates on what it will cost for summer sprinkling of Twelfth and State streets from the S. P. Co. depot to High street. By co-operation with the citizens, the state, the county and city it is hoped to close the contract.

The loose rock has been removed from State and Twelfth and the grass crop is to be cut. Then the street is to be kept sprinkled. If the weeds could be removed from the gutters, the street car track, and the spaces in front of private lots, the whole street would present the appearance of a beautiful avenue more nearly than it now does. A plan is to be adopted covering all these points and co-operation asked for.

When the loose rock is removed and the street sprinkled any Salem street is a good driving street. With the addition of fine gravel it becomes a perfect speedway. Recorder Judah is hard at work with city officials to try to figure out a plan of co-operation that will make it possible to convert any one of our streets into a smooth sprinkled driveway.

By co-operation the expense can be made very light. For instance if the property fronting on Twelfth and State that is benefited by removing all dust for the summer bore its share of the expense, the state, city and county would bear fully three-fourths of the burden. Private property would get all the benefit and would pay only one-fourth the cost.

Of course, there are property owners who are unable to pay. There are others who are unwilling to pay anything towards any enterprise of this kind. But this class must not stand in the way of a great municipal benefit, such as a good driving street would confer on the community.
