PROSPERITY AND GLORY

and we have given the people the first good government they have ever known. Changes in Cuba.

We found its cities beds of pestilence. We have stamped out yellow fever and made Havana as healthy a city as exists at that latitude. We took its starving reconcentrados who had survived the war, and its other poverty-stricken people, and fed and clothed them. We organized a public school system, and have everywhere established law and order. This had first to be done. Then followed a compliance of the terms of the treaty which gave the Spanish inhabitants until April 11th to determine whether or not they would register as citizens or preserve their allegiance to Spain. Meanwhile a careful census of the island was made. Then came the fixing of the qualifications for the right of suffrage, which were fairly bestowed. The island was divided into municipalities and the registration provided for. And on yesterday, the 18th of June, municipal elections were held all through the island, as the first and preliminary step towards the establishment of a national government and the adoption of a constitution.

Cuban Postal Frauds.

And in this connection it is fitting to say that the postulations and frauds committed in Cuba by subordinate officials have made every American blush with shame, and until the last of the guilty men is arrested and convicted and sentenced that shame will know no abatement. In this instance the appointments were made with the greatest care, many of them from the classified service. Whenever fraud has been discovered unparisngly and with the greatest publicity. So has it been with these thieving Post office officials, so has it been always. In the vast aggregate of business transacted by the government the dishonest man is rare, and his detection certain. The great humiliation is that the thefts were from the people of an island towards whom we sustain a fiduciary relation, and whose confidence we ask.

Landlust American.

We have never coveted the possessions of other principalities, and land lust is unknown among us. We would fight to the death to protect that which is right, fully ours; to avenge a wrong sought to be perpetrated upon us, and to guard this hemisphere from any attempt by foreign powers to further extend their rule over its soil. This has been our creed, and we have looked forward with hope and confidence to the time when these United States, lying between the two oceans, should lead among the nations of the earth, not by right of the sword, but because the character and high intelligence of our people, and the marvelous resources of our country, would enable us, in the peaceful rivalry of commerce, to dominate eventually the markets of the world. To that end we had, for more than a hundred years, held ourselves aloof from foreign complications, and sought to make ourselves strong from within, with no thought of colonial conquest.

No Abandonment.

The future of nations, however, like the future of man, is hid from mortal vision, and no more than man may a nation choose its own duties. When this war ended and we faced our victory in all its completeness, we found 8,000,000 of people living upon uncounted islands delivered into our hands. Abandonment of them would be a confession that while the oppression by Spain of a million and a half of Cubans demanded our armed interference, greater barbarity and cruelty to millions of Filipinos, less able to protect themselves, was a subject of no concern to us. No civilized nation, in the world, no Christian nation, could have turned these people back to Spain. Our commissioners, when they insisted upon our retention of the Philippines, voiced the sentiments and wishes of the American people; and this nation has assumed with open eyes and with a full realization of the difficulties which may be encountered, the grave responsibilities imposed upon us by the treaty of Paris.

Declared Policy.

We are told that the islands are rich in all the products of the tropics, in mineral wealth, and in the possibilities of their future development. So much the better. But if they were as barren as the Libyan desert, we would have taken them just the same.

We haven't been there long, but long enough to reach two conclusions: One is, that the first thing we intend doing is to suppress the Tagal insurrection and to establish law and order throughout the archipelago. That is the first thing we intend doing, it is to consider, even for a moment the question of giving up or abandoning these islands.

We are actually owners of the Philippines by an undisputed and indubitable title. We are there as the necessary and logical outcome of our victory over Spain. There are upwards of a thousand islands sprinkled upon that Southern sea, peopled by more than eighty tribes of differing race and language, and having absolutely nothing in common with each other. Most of these tribes welcome our coming and are grateful for our protection.

Tagals and Indians.

The Tagal tribes, hostile not only to us but to most of the native tribes, are in insurrection against our authority. They have neither a government nor the

"Every Man is the Architect of His Fortune."

"An architect designs, and his plans are executed by a builder. The greatest builder of health is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It lays a firm foundation. It makes the blood, the basis of life, pure and strong. Be an architect of your fortune and secure Hood's as your health builder."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

capacity to conduct one, and are waging a predatory guerilla warfare which would be turned against the other native tribes if we let them alone. What would the Democracy have us do? Give them up to rapine and bloodshed, and leave the islands as fens and mires on the face of the waters? There are parallels in our own history. We purchased Florida from Spain in 1821, when it had four thousand white settlers, for five millions of dollars, and other valuable considerations. The Seminoles, natives of the soil, brave, resolute, giving far greater intelligence and character than the Tagals, disputed our possession. We sent Andrew Jackson down to fight them, and it took us twenty-one years to subdue them and send what was left of them west of the Mississippi. If the "Anti-everythings" had lived then, they would, I suppose, have urged us to turn over Florida to Osceola, the Aguinaldo of the Seminoles! Would you, after the war with Mexico and the Gadsden purchase, have given the great area south and west of the Arkansas to the red Apache? Not so did our fathers construe their duty, and as they built, so shall we, their sons.

Develop the Islands.

American enterprise and ingenuity and push may be depended upon to develop the resources of the islands, and make them an added source of wealth to our country. The wise statesmanship of the president and our able secretary of state has already brought from the countries of Europe a recognition of our right to share in the vast commercial advantages which will follow the opening of the Chinese empire to foreign trade; the Nicaragua canal will soon be constructed; Hawaii, with its valuable harbor, is ours; we possess the best of the Samoan Islands, with its magnificent roadway; the Philippines are almost at the door of China.

A Democratic victory would infuse new life into the Tagal insurrection, cost us the lives of thousands of our gallant army in the Philippines, impair or destroy our prestige, if not our power in the islands, make us a byword among the other great nations of the world, and obliterate our influence in the settlement of the vital questions certain to arise when China shall be opened to foreign commerce.

Uphold the Flag.

The American people are neither poltroons nor pessimists, and they will not signalize the dawn of the new century by the surrender of either convictions or territory. Every soldier back from the islands, and they are in almost every hamlet in the land, returns an advocate of their retention. Our dead are buried along the sands of Luzon, and on its soil no foreign flag shall ever salute the dawn.

Whatever may be in store for us in the new and untried track upon which we are entering, we shall not be found "with the unit lamp and the ungirt loin." Our way is new, but it is not dark. In the readjustment of world-conditions, where we must take our place with the other great nations of the earth, we shall move with caution, but not with fear. We seek only to lift up men to better things, to bless and not destroy. The fathers of the Republic accepted with courage such responsibilities as devolved upon them. The same Heavens bend over us, and the same Power that shielded them will guard and protect us, for what we seek is to build still more firmly, always upon foundation of probity of virtue, the glorious edifice of the Republic.

Passing of the Century.

Before the next Inauguration Day the old century will have passed away. When its marvelous history shall be recounted, the dominant and impressive event in the record of this century shall be, that never in the history of these United States was the Republic as united for the common welfare as now. All other events of the past, our growth in wealth until from poverty we have become the richest and most prosperous nation in the world, our vast increase in population and strength and influence, our widening boundaries—all these count as nothing in the promise for the future, as compared with this. Even in the earliest days of the Colonies, now dim with the mist of years, there were deep sectional jealousies and animosities growing out of the institution of human slavery. It took a great civil war to wipe out the blot. It took a foreign war to forever obliterate the last trace of sectional differences. We have had them both. The cost in blood and suffering and treasure cannot be computed, but the result was worth the awful price. And today, in every section of the land, among all its people there is an equal and unquestioned devotion to the welfare and perpetuity of the Republic.

Growing Peroration.

We stand at the dawn of the new century. Before it shall have reached its meridian the youngest here will have passed beyond this life beyond the sphere of usefulness. New recruits will step into the ranks as we fall out. This very year thousands of young men will for the first time exercise the right of citizenship and cast their ballots at the National election. The safety of this Republic must ever rest in "the courage of young hearts and the vigor of a noble manhood." Youth is buoyant and hopeful. No snarling criticism or gossip of a little America, or prophecy of despair, will find response from hearts that beat full and strong with courage and with faith, and whose creed it is that "God is in His Heaven, All's right with the world."

Whatever else in the past has suffered change or decay, the Republican party, which for forty years has been identified with everything ennobling and uplifting in our history, was never as vital, as virile, and as vigorous as today. And the heritage we shall transmit to the new century to the coming generation and to their children, and to their children's children, shall be a record clean and untarnished, an unquenchable faith in free institutions, an unalterable belief in the patriotism of the people, and an undying love of liberty and of country.

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handed a notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began: "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best Cough Cure." This was hardly what he had expected and, when it had four thousand white settlers, for five millions of dollars, and other valuable considerations. The Seminoles, natives of the soil, brave, resolute, giving far greater intelligence and character than the Tagals, disputed our possession. We sent Andrew Jackson down to fight them, and it took us twenty-one years to subdue them and send what was left of them west of the Mississippi. If the "Anti-everythings" had lived then, they would, I suppose, have urged us to turn over Florida to Osceola, the Aguinaldo of the Seminoles! Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever: nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is not a local, but a general condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.
