THE WHEAT CROP.

Indications That It Will Be Smallest in Years in Harney County.

Jacob Voorhes, of Woodburn, was a Salem visitor today. He says that the wheat crop in the north end of the county will be very poor. The estimate of careful farmers is that half of the fall wheat ought to be plowed up and the other half will not yield more than five bushels to the acre. Spring wheat will not be more than half a crop. The early sowing of the spring grain is in the worst condition; the later being in fair condition. The same is true of the oat crop. Some farmers have plowed up their early sown oats. Mr. Voorhes says that in traveling over Polk county, his observation indicates the poorest crop in many years. These reports indicate that the returns of Marion county farmers from their wheat crop this year will be the smallest in years.

THE SALEM ACADEMY.

Of the Sisters of the Sacred Heart Celebrate Commencement.

A class of two young ladies who have completed the full course at the Academy of the Sacred Heart was graduated with great honors Tuesday afternoon. There was an unusual attendance of old graduates, parents and friends of the institution.

After the literary and musical program, which was all of a high order of excellence the graduates, Miss Pearl Goulet of Geneva, and Miss Della Porter of Linn county, but both adopted as Salem girls, came forward and each received a gold medal for high standard in studies, the laurel wreath of victory for finishing a hard course, and the customary ribbons, tied with the customary ribbons, amid the applause of the audience.

The musical program opened with a chorus, an instrumental, and the beautiful Spanish gallop, El Vaquero, by the Cecilia orchestra of guitars and mandolins with Miss Coleman, violinist, who again showed talents of a high order as a leader. Miss Emma Mueller surprised all her friends with a powerful rendition of "A Dream of Paradise." Her voice shows great power, range and purity of expression, and she won a grand round of applause. Miss Ruby Crawford played Berthoven's sonata patheticque with great skill, showing herself equally familiar with that master of deep feeling as with the lighter classic she had rendered from Gottschalk on the previous program. We predict for Misses Mueller and Crawford a future in their chosen field of music if they continue studies.

The "Mendow Song" was rendered as a sweet strong choros and the expression of joyous freedom and sunshine was brought out beautifully.

The stage was decorated with roses and ferns on a white ground, expressing the utmost simplicity and purity of arrangement. The expression on all the children and young people's faces was one of contentment, happiness and radiant innocence and joyousness of a happy school life.

AN EX-GRADEATE SPEAKS.

One of the former graduates of this institution who was present said: "I was educated at a convent school and I believe it is the only proper place to finish a young girl's schooling. Had I a dozen daughters they should come here at least a year. These scenes are like a picture of long ago, and make me feel young again." The speaker was not a Catholic and has since arriving at maturity and achieving a very successful life and a distinguished position in society, united with another church. A gentleman present, who has a daughter at this school, said he had married his wife out of such a school and he believed he could tell a woman as far as he could see her and even in her old age who had enjoyed the training given by these sisters.

"Especially the young women," he said, "gazing in rapture on his daughter, preserve a freshness, innocence and purity of expression on their countenances that is never found elsewhere and that can never be lost."

The disappointment at failure of Archbishop Christie to be present was great and Rev. W. A. Daly made a brief address in his place. He spoke in a feeling manner and yet in a vein of reminiscence humor that was very enjoyable. He warned the graduates that the purpose of education was to enable us to accommodate ourselves to those who had not received the same advantages. Without lowering ourselves it was the duty of those few enjoying the favor of these higher privileges to seek to elevate the masses to a higher level, to lift humanity to a nobler plane.

They were never to be a slave to any wrong or to allow their lives to sink below the levels of the ideas here imbibed. He was heartily applauded.

The reception to the graduates and old friends was a joyous social occasion long to be remembered. The Sisters in charge were heartily congratulated on closing a very successful year's work.

CITY FINANCES.

Good Official Showing Made in Recorder Judah's Semi-Annual Statement.

The statement made to the city council Monday evening by City Recorder Judah shows that the financial condition of the city is what might be called "easy."

The estimate of revenue and expenses for 1900, made before the first of the year, seems to have been a very correct forecast, though indications now are that there will be a greater surplus for the reduction of the warrant indebtedness than the city fathers were figuring on.

The statement is as follows:
 Estimated revenue, 1900 ..... $27,000 00
 Of this $18,000 is for general taxes, and $9,000 is from licenses, fines, fees, rents, etc.
 Estimated expenses ..... 22,055 49
 Of this $11,020.89 is for interest on bonded debt; $11,034.60 is for salary, water, light—these items constituting the fixed charges of the city.

Balance, applicable for incidental, current expenses ..... $ 4,944 51
 Receipts (1900) to July 1st:
 From general taxes ..... $ 3,423 42
 From licenses, fines, fees, etc. .... 8,549 00
 Total, for half-year, approximately ..... $12,972 42
 Expenses (1900) to July 1st:
 Interest on bonds ..... $ 5,510 44
 Warrants called by treasurer ..... 7,229 16
 Total, for half-year, approximately ..... $12,739 60
 Leaving approximate deficit for half year ..... 407 18
 Due from general tax, second half-year ..... $14,576 58
 Due from fines, licenses, etc. .... 4,026 90
 Approximate income, second half-year, 1900 ..... $18,603 58
 Approximate expense, second half-year, 1900:
 Interest on bonds ..... $ 5,510 44
 Fixed charges ..... 5,617 30
 Current charges ..... 2,472 20—$13,500 00
 Balance to credit of income ..... $ 5,103 58
 It will be observed that there is a deficit for the first six months of about $467.18. This is accounted for by the fact that of the $18,000 receivable on general taxes only $3,423.42 has been turned in. On the other hand, while receipts of $9,000 were expected from licenses, fines, fees, rents, etc., $8,549 has been received for the first six months, nearly as much as was reckoned on for the year.

For the next six months $4,026 is estimated to come in from fines, fees, licenses, etc., and it is likely that this sum will be exceeded by several hundred dollars, as the recorder has not included the revenue expected from some of the new ordinances.

Even if some unexpected contingency should arise in the next six months, increasing expenses, as was the case last year with the smallpox visitation, the city finances seem to be in a condition to stand the strain, without slumping to the old standard of a yearly deficit.
