GEO. W. GRAY DEAD.

PASSED AWAY LAST EVENING AFTER A LONG ILLNESS.

Was an Old and Highly Respected Resident of the Capitol City. Funeral Tomorrow.

At about 9 o'clock Monday evening George W. Gray of this city passed away at his residence on east State street. His death was not unexpected, as his health has been bad for about three years, and his condition has been steadily growing worse and has been critical for some time.

Deceased was born in Tioga county, Penn., on Aug. 5, 1820, where he resided until 1840, when he moved to Marion, Iowa. There he was married in 1848 to Minerva Berry who survives him. In 1852 he went to Lansing, Iowa, where he attained great success in mercantile business and became president of the Lansing National Bank. He served two terms in the Iowa legislature and was re-elected to the senate in 1863, but resigned to come to Oregon.

He arrived in Salem in 1865 and has resided here ever since. After coming to Salem, Mr. Gray never engaged in business for himself. In 1878 he took hold of the old line oil mill, located where the soap works now stand, and successfully conducted it for a number of years. He also conducted a dry goods store for a time. The only public office which he held here was the mayoralty of the city, serving out the unexpired term of Hon. T. M. Gatch.

Mr. Gray was of a retiring disposition and never pushed himself for a public place. He was a man of strict integrity and stainless character, and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him, especially the older settlers, with whom he was associated in the years of his greater activity. For many years he has lived a quiet life at his beautiful home, which occupies an entire block on State street.

Besides the widow six children survive, viz.: Mrs. J. M. Patterson, The Dalles; Mrs. Gertrude Lowndale, Salem; Wm. T. Gray, Salem; Geo. B. Gray, Salem; Mrs. J. M. Kyle, Salem, and Chas. A. Gray, Salem.

Deceased was a member of Salem Lodge No. 4, A. F. & A. M. and of Chehoke Lodge No. 1, I. O. O. F. Funeral services will be conducted under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge, at 3 p. m. Wednesday, Rev. John Parsons officiating. Burial will take place in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

THE SCHOOL LOAN.

Subscriptions Have Commenced to Roll in Without Delay. Subscriptions for the new popular 4 per cent. school loan are coming in already in a way that assures success from the start. With no advertisement and no previous notice, the books were opened Monday after the loan had been authorized Saturday. But before night one-sixth of the required amount had been signed for. As soon as the matter is fairly before the people there will undoubtedly be as great a rush as there was for the city bonds.

Both as an investment for idle money and as a matter of local pride, the loan appeals to the citizens of this city. Selfishness and public spirit both work for it, and it is such a plain common sense business proposition that it is bound to go.

The agreement which is signed by the subscribers is worded as follows: "We whose names appear subscribed on the following pages as intending purchasers of notes of School District No. 24, Marion county, Oregon (known as the 'Popular Loan'), issue of September, 1900, agree to take and pay for said notes at par, in the sum of _____, and set opposite our respective names, payment thereof to be made to the District Clerk, on the first day of September, 1900."

Subscriptions up to the time of going to press today were as follows:

Americans are not satisfied with the survey in disputed Alaska-Canadian territory, and have petitioned President McKinley. Several Board of Trade are asked to co-operate, Portland included.

Although the orders have not yet been issued, it is pretty generally understood in military circles that Brigadier-General Fred Grant, United States Volunteers, and Adjutant-General Thomas Barry, have been selected for assignment to duty in China.

ANOTHER NOMITE RETURNS

J. MORELOCK, OF SOUTH SALEM, BRINGS HIS 72 YEARS BACK WITH HIM.

Doesn't Corroborate Fletcher's Tale of Woe— Says Too Many People at Nome and Everything Taken.

J. Morelock, of South Salem, who is home from Cape Nome, was down town yesterday, having about recovered from the effects of a rough voyage from the North.

He came down on the Sequoi, a little tub of a steamer, which rolled and pitched to such an extent that the passengers were mauling into something resembling jelly.

Mr. Morelock, although he is 72 years of age, looks none the worse for his trip but is hale and hearty as ever. He talks interestingly of his trip and his stay at Nome.

He went north on the Senator, with J. H. Fletcher, Charley Wols and other Salemites. He tells quite a different story from some that have reached us of the voyage. He says he has no complaints whatever to make of his treatment by the officers and crew of the steamer. He was sick on the voyage, but received every attention that he could reasonably expect. In fact, he says he has been well treated by every one he came in contact with during his absence. The lady passengers, of whom there were fifteen, on the voyage were particularly kind. He was so far from well that his fellow passengers tried to persuade him to turn back at Dutch harbor, but he scouted the idea and went through all right, regaining his usual health after being ashore a few days.

He and Wols set up their tent near that of Governor Fletcher and party. He says that Fletcher was not as sick as has been reported here. Fletcher and his son and Mr. Roberts started in a skiff they had built for Port Clarence 5 days before Morelock started home.

Mr. Morelock was three weeks ashore at Nome, of which place he corroborates the oft repeated descriptions. He did some prospecting on the beach, but found nothing, and also went back on the tundra and dug a hole. At that point the tundra was black muck on top and rock underneath. It was about 4 miles back over the tundra to the foothills.

He saw two who claimed to have been 50 miles inland and said the country was all staked beyond that. They had prospected Buster Creek thoroughly but found no sign of gold.

The beach has been worked out, and the creeks are all staked, some claims having a dozen locations plastered on top of each other. There will be endless litigation when work starts on the creeks, and there is no chance for a newcomer to locate a claim.

There is gold there, however, and Mr. Morelock saw plenty of it; a gold pan full and heaped with coarse gold in one place. The beach gold is much brighter and purer than the Dawson gold, of which a good deal has been brought to Nome, and which brings $2 more per ounce.

It does not get dark at all this time of year, and a newspaper can be read by sunlight at midnight. Every one keeps late hours and lies late in the morning—after getting used to it.

Mr. Morelock says that the best class of people in the United States are gathered there, and there are people from all over the world, and from nearly all nationalities.

Mrs. Fletcher was about to start a laundry, and Mrs. Nichols was running a boarding house, intending to start her hospital soor. Charley Wols was hale and hearty. He had been butchering, and intended to secure steady employment at that trade of some of the large firms. He was letting his beard grow, and it had arrived at the stage when it was far from ornamental. The Gwinn boys of North Salem had found some gold.

Prices of provisions were very reasonable. It is so easy to get stuff there that everyone takes a lot of provisions along, and many returning throw their stuff on the market. White beans sold for 3 cents per lb; bacon 20 cents; flour 4 cents; butter in tins 20 cents; eggs 33 cents per doz; even lemons were cheap. The boom was rapidly waning during the three weeks that Mr. Morelock was at Nome, and wages fell at least one half and horse teams fell from $10 per hour to $3.

One man from New York, named O'Connor, went up on the Senator with a stock of liquor and outfit for three saloons, paying $12,000 (freight on his stuff). He tried in vain to sell out the lot for less than it cost in this country, and finally came back, leaving it to be sold on commission. An excellent article of whiskey can be bought there for

Are You Thinking of Buying a Piano, Organ, Sewing Machine or Bicycle?

We have noticed one fact lately that since we started up in our new line last March, of pianos, organs, sewing machines and bicycles, that two-thirds of all the sales we make, are to customers who have looked around a good deal at the other perhaps months and then finally come in our store and purchased. One party in fact we were selling another line, and just a short time ago they came in unsolicited and up near the Falls and one of the parties had talked of buying over a year ago also. Come in and examine our goods, and try them, whether you are thinking of buying, or let us try them. We recently put one of our standards to a fair test as to its easy running qualities, taking a single thread No. 50 cotton and using it on machine and sewing through two thicknesses of cloth. It is by far and honest tests that we win. If our competition sales. Please give us a call before you buy. We can save you money and please you.

$2 per gallon, which helps to relieve the situation.

If 5,000 or 6,000 people only had gone to Nome they might have all done well, but there are probably 40,000 there now. They are a disappointed and a discouraged crowd, and a spontaneous laugh is looked upon as a startling innovation.

The postal facilities are wretched. It takes an hour or more of waiting in the line to get mail, and then only one person's mail may be got at one round.

There was no smallpox at Nome when Mr. Morelock arrived, but it was brought in on the Ohio and also on the Portland.

Mr. Morelock received warning that a quarantine was about to be established, and by the greatest haste succeeded in getting aboard the Sequoi with his stuff and avoided getting caught in the town.

He is satisfied with his experience and glad to get back to Salem. He says he thinks there is plenty of gold in that country but the beach has been worked out, and there is no chance to get a claim on the creeks.

He wants it distinctly understood that he has no kick coming against the transportation companies or any one else—but the people of Nome have permission to shoot him if they ever catch him there again.

Good Foundation. Two holes, 100 feet deep and 100 feet apart, are being dug under the direction of Postmaster Hirsch on the west end of Willson's Avenue for the purpose of making an examination of the soil for the foundation of the new postoffice to be built there. A small box of dirt, showing the substance of the soil, is filled at the depth of each five feet, to be forwarded to Washington.

The soil the first five feet was found to be very hard and substantial and mixed with gravel, and at 10 feet it is almost all gravel. It is believed that it will stand the test, and will make a satisfactory foundation.

Last Lecture.

By request Rev. W. E. Copeland will give one more address before he leaves Salem. On next Sunday night he will lecture on "The Impending Social Revolution." In the course of the address Mr. Copeland will explain fully the workings of the Co-operative Brotherhood.

IT IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Bicycle Tax Law Gets the Worst of it on First Round.

In the case of C. A. Hill, vs. Sheriff Frazier, a suit brought in Portland to test the constitutionality of the bicycle tax law, Judge Sears yesterday overruled the demurrer to the complaint, thus deciding against the constitutionality of the law.

Judge Sears holds the law to be unconstitutional on several grounds, the principal one that seemed to strike the court with the greatest force, being that the law provided for double and unequal taxation of one class of personal property. Bicycles as well as all other personal property are supposed to be taxed, and it is repugnant to the constitution to single them out for special additional taxation. The law is obnoxious to the constitution in still another respect, in that it does not impose the tax in proportion to the value of the bicycle.

The law, in the opinion of the court, is also unconstitutional upon the ground that it is local legislation on a subject in which legislation is prohibited by the constitution.

The law was attacked on several other grounds, but the court did not specifically pass on all of them. The case will be appealed at once to the Supreme Court.
