Fair Grounds Store Changes Hands.

Mr. Theo. Nolf, who has for eleven years conducted the Fair Grounds store, today sold the same to Mr. Chas. J. Spitzbart, who arrived yesterday from Hawkeye, Iowa. The latter will occupy the premises with his family of wife, three children and his mother-in-law, and conduct the business as it has been in the past, being store-keeper and postmaster. They take possession Monday, the rest of the week being spent invoicing and transferring the stock.

Mr. and Mrs. Nolf will move into the city and occupy their place on Commercial and Marion streets, in the same block with the Mrs. Hubbard property. He does not expect to do anything for a year or two but is too active a man to keep out of business long. This winter they will visit friends in the east about six months. Mr. Nolf has done very well at the stand he immortalized with his ten-inch lemonades that cooled dry and dusty sinners to the bottoms of their soles.

Hospital Moves.

The Salem Hospital is busily engaged in moving from the present quarters to the new home at the old Orphans' Home building, near the Asylum.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEET AT WOODBURN AND OUTLINE POLICY.

No Pool to be Attempted This Year. Association Will Handle Hops. Picnic at Butteville, July 11th.

The directors of the Oregon Hop Growers' association held a meeting in Woodburn Monday, and the policy of the association for this season was discussed and outlined.

Of the thirteen directors of the association, nine were present, viz: M. L. Jones, of Brooks, president; Dr. J. W. Hill, Portland, vice president; Henry L. Bentz, Butteville, secretary: James Winstanley, Salem, manger; Francis Feller, Butteville, treasnrer; H. D. Mount, Silverton; R. D. Cooper, Independence; G. B. Hovenden, Hubbard; and O. L. Barber, Woodburn.

It was determined that no attempt will be made to pool this year's crop of hops. The executive committee of the O. H. G. A. will act as sales agents for any hops placed in its hands, and it will be able to realize as good a price as the market will justify.

In fact the association is in an excellent position to do better by the grower than ever before. It has the prestige of last year's large business and has established relations of confidence with consumers all over the world.

The proposition of Lillienthal Bros. to advance 5 cents for picking and pay 15 cents per pound for the crop, provided only 75 per cent of the acreage be picked was considered briefly but was not accepted, as it was considered impractical.

The association will handle supplies for growers, procuring them at the lowest possible figure, to fill all orders from growers accompanied by the cash.

Jas. Winstanley was retained as manager.

Henry B. Thielsen was appointed auditor to audit the association books and report later.

The matter of the price to be paid for picking was discussed, and the general opinion was that it would range from 30 to 35 cents per box.

Mr. Winstanley reported 62 bales of 1899 hops on hand, some of that number being held as collateral for materials advanced.

A grand hop growers' picnic will be held at Butteville, Or., August 11, 1900, under the auspices of the Hop Growers' Fire Relief Association, of Butteville, Or. The "Hop" in its various stages, peculiarities and environments will be thoroughly discussed by practical hop growers. The price to be paid for picking the next crop will be determined upon, a very important matter.

The Hop Growers Fire Relief Association will this year number about 800 members, or about two-thirds of the hop growers of the entire state. At this gathering we will have every hop section represeated, consequently any action taken will be of considerable importance to the hop industry.

An interchange of ideas by practical hop growers will bring out the best methods now in successful use, and such discussions must be of vast benefit to all who desire to keep abreast of the times. By establishing a uniform price for picking hops, both grower and picker will be saved endless bother and worry.

For these and many other reasons we expect a vast assemblage of hop growers (with their families and well-filled basketo) at the above named place, and we will promise a day of instruction, amusement and sociability.

Model Plant Inaugurated.

C. M. Lockwood has had a model light plant installed at his office at number 288 Commercial street this city which will be of interest to everyone. The machine is known as the Symplex System Gas Plant and was put in by Messrs. Price and Parmelee who are introducing them throughout the country, the patents just having been completed and machines placed for sale upon the market. The cost for light is reduced by this machine to the minnium the expense of running a single 100 candle power welsbach being only one third cent per hour. Gas is manufactured at the extremely low cost of ninety cents per thousand feet, thus making it possible to use it not only for light but for cooking, heat running gas engines. As the name indicates this apparatus is the acme of simplicity, there being no complicated parts to get out of order. Large light consumers can easily save the price of the plant in a few months run, this can be fully demonstrated to anyone beyond the possibility of a doubt. This labor and cost saving device will be hailed with delight by the many large and small consumers of light who have heretofore been compelled to pay excessive and exhorbitant rates for their illumination. The patent right has been assigned to C. M. Lockwood for Marion and Polk counties and the machines will be made in Salem by local mechanics. The general public is cordially invited to come and see the model plant in operation at any and all times.

Chas. Parrish Insane.

Chas. Parrish, the well-known lawyer of Canyon City, has been insane at the Imperial hotel, Portland, for several days, and efforts are being made to have him brought to the asylum at Salem for cure. He has been in the care of Drs. Lane and Josephi for some time but the restraint upon his appetite is not enough to effect a recovery.

This morning his niece, Mrs. Hallie Hinges of this city, went down to meet him and try and have him brought up to the state institution. Several weeks since he was engaged in trying a pair of murderers in Union county. It was thought they would be cleared but he prosecuted them with such skill as to send them both to the pen. During the trial he was under the influence of liquor and under a severe strain. At the close he told his son who was with him that he had taken his last drink and in six hours he was raving crazy.

He is a brother of the late Sam Parrish, and Norman Parrish of this city, where he also has other relatives. The Parrish Brothers were the brightest men in Eastern Oregon but fell under evil influences in the way of political associates. It is to be hoped Charles may be confined at the state institution to be fully restored to his birthright as he is too good and too able a man to be lost to society.

Moved to Chemawa.

Mrs. T. B. Jackson moved today to Chemawa to live, where her husband was appointed carpenter at the government Indian school on the first of the month. The Jacksons are old Salemites and Mr. Jackson has held positions under different state administrations. He holds his present appointment under the civil service and Mrs. Jackson says they will now be entirely independent of political influences.

SCIENTIFIC ROAD BUILDING

PIECE OF MODEL HIGHWAY LEADS OUT OF THE CITY.

The Old Turner Road is Converted into a Superior Driveway by Prison Labor and State Funds.

A Journal reporter had the pleasure on Sunday last of riding over a piece of model highway, probably the best specimen of scientific road building in Oregon outside of city limits.

It lies southeast of this city and is a section of the old Turner road, which has been used since the country was first settled.

This road never was excessively bad in the matter of depth of mud in winter and dust in summer, as the land is gravelly. But the road has always been more or less filled with boulders, and in winter it has often been flooded by the overflow fron the upper country, which has flooded the level lands and found a convenient outlet down the road, washing it badly in many places.

Much time and money has been spent in the endeavor to make it a permanently good road. Westcott & Erwin, who owned the dairy farm a couple of miles out, and E. C. Cross, whose slaughter-house is in that vicinity have been especially liberal and energetic and have kept the road in fair order.

The appropriation made by the last legislature for the construction of good roads connecting the state institutions with convict labor made it possible to go into the matter of road improvement on a large scale and to accomplish something more radical and effective than has been heretofore possible.

The piece of road under discussion has been constructed by a force from the penitentiary consisting of about a dozen trusties and four teams of horses, working under direction of Farmer John Porter, and they have been at work about a month.

The road scrapers and wheel scrapers belonging to the county were used, and a roadway was thrown up in the middle the dirt being scraped from the ditches on either side. As completed, the roadway is twenty feet wide on top, crowned but slightly and coming to a sharp edge at the sides from which it falls off sharply into the ditch on each side. The road is raised considerably above the surface of the surrounding land and with the drainage of the deep ditches it is not likely that the road will ever be flooded.

The surface is covered with fine gravel and this was rolled down smooth and hard with the five-ton iron roller belonging to the city, giving a smooth level driveway the full width of the road.

This piece of road extends from where 25th street joins the Turner road out as far as the Westacott & Irwin place, and is a piece of work of which its authors may well be proud.

Supt. J. D. Lee and Warden J. T. Janes, of the penitentiary have taken great interest in the work of road construction provided for by the legislature, and have made an energetic, economical and intelligent expenditure of the funds provided

Mr. Westacott and Mr. Cross are highly pleased with the accomplishment of a result for which they have worked so long, and every one who has occasion to pass over this road will appreciate the improvement besides imbibing practical ideas of scientific road building.

Home from Mexico.

Geo. Cline, a prominent citezen of Woodburn, returned Monday from an extended trip into northern Mexico, where he invested in some mining property, located near Montezuma, in the state of Senora, a town of 2500 people. Another town there has 5000 but there are no large cities. The mines are located about 100 miles inland from Hermosilla, the capital of Senora, which has a railroad connection with Guyamas on the coast. The region where he and two other Marion county men bought a mine and paid part down—$3000—is on a railroad line from Bisbee, Arizona, south, where a copper smelter of 500 ton daily capacity is being put in.

Mr. Cline was well pleased with the Mexicans he met and he was in the interior where not many Americans are to be found, and where conditions have not changed much. He says they are good people, not given very much to serious labor, but producing a good deal of stock and carrying on quite a bit of agriculture. They live principally on meat, beans and red peppers. Very little fruit is grown, although the climate would produce anything that is grown in southern California. Mr. Cline found our Oregon weather very comfortable, although Monday was about as hot as we have it here in the Williamette valley, compared to 120 in the shade as he experienced it. The Mexicans raise wheat and tramp it out with cattle, having to wash the kernel afterwards and it makes a dark flour but very palatable bread and tortillas.

Prices in gold are about the same as in the interior of our country but in silver everything is double. American labor is better paid than here, but native labor is cheaper and very much inferior. The people are very partial to silver-insisting on payments being made in the dollars of their own country, weighing some sixty pounds to the thousand dollars. Mr. Cline says they understand the money question quite as well as we do and would not change to the gold standard, because they would gain nothing and thir debts would be just doubled. The better class of Mexicans are intelligent and capable men and the country is being rapidly developed and American capital is going there in large quantities.

Piano and Organ Buyers

Are becoming wiser as time rolls around, Nowadays most of them look about a while before they close a deal. People with their eyes open recognize in the Ludwig or Fischer piano or the Chicago Cottage or Estey organ, the very highest class goods that the market affords, and and you don't have to pay a fortune for the name. The Knabe piano for those who will pay top price, and the Kingsbury for a fine low priced one, help us meet all classes of trade. Call on or write us. We'll be glad to see you, or to answer your inquiries.

Standard Rotary Sewing Machine

Is making new friends every day, and never loses an old one. That may seem queer—but once a woman takes time to look into the merits of the Standard Rotary, and learns how easy and noiseless they run—it's impossible to get them away from it. Holds so much thread too—100 yards No. 80—sews lock or chain stitch, sews so fast, the latest models taking 6 stitches to one treadle motion, a speed only made possible by its easy running qualities—and they outlast most anything that's made—the steel bearing surfaces are so hard.
Send for our "31 reasons for buying a Standard" free by mail for the asking.
