Shapely Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is very destructive to the mother's shapeliness. This can be avoided, however, by the use of MOTHER'S FRIEND before baby comes, as this scientific liniment prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of form. MOTHER'S FRIEND also obviates all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing, and thousands gratefully tell of the great good it has done them. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

Our little book, telling all about this great remedy, will be sent free to any address by THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR COMPANY, Atlanta, Georgia.

WHAT WOMEN LIKE IN A MAN.

The topic of interest to both men and women is partly answered in the August Pacific Monthly:

Women, I think, like manly, not ladylike men.

They like honesty of purpose and consideration.

They like men who believe in women.

They like their opinions to be thought of some value.

They like a man who can be strong as a lion when trouble comes, and yet, if one is nervous and tired, can button up a shoe, and do it with an amount of consideration that is a mental and physical brace up.

They like a man who can take hold of the baby, convince it of its power, and get it to sleep after they have been worrying with it and walking with it until their eyes are tired and they feel as if they had no brains.

They like a man who is interested in their new dresses, who can give an opinion of the fit, and who is properly indignant at any article written against women.

They like a man who knows their innocent weaknesses and caters to them; who will bring home a box of candy, the last new magazine, or the last puzzle sold on the street, that will do more than its duty in entertaining everybody for the whole evening.

SALEM CAN BECOME THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

Salem has made a good start by getting into a solvent condition. By becoming an honest city, Salem has taken the first step toward being a beautiful city. Plato said that a just city must become as just as a just individual.

Salem has stopped building debts and is building a reputation for sound finance. The start has been made to fund the city debt and the public school debt in small home loans, and if that is kept up all interest will be paid inside of the family.

Having put our purse in a more solvent condition, the Capital City should adopt uniform public improvement plans. Rocky, muddy, dusty streets should be converted into neat gravelled driveways, just wide enough for the traffic they carry, and the rest of the street should be,—what? The sidewalds should be of concrete, and not wider than needed for the amount of traffic that passes over them. Where never more than two persons walk abreast a sidewalk over four feet wide is as nonsensical as a driveway sixty to eighty feet wide where never more than two vehicles pass together.

The rest of the space should be improved and cultivated by the owner. People living in a city, and a Capital City, owe a little to the demands of public spirit in the matter of the appearance of the streets.

Along some of these simple lines Salem can make progress toward becoming the city beautiful. Of course, administration, city government, can expedite progress toward these conditions. But in the aggregate we can only approximate the public spirit that really exists in the mass of the population.

The time ought to be past when it is "the thing" to have fences and unsightly brush-heaps on our best residence streets. To pay for electric-lighting a street, and then shut off the light with great sprawling forest trees, is evidence of extreme rurality.

Salem can only grow beautiful under two conditions. If those in authority, the city officials, the school officials, the county officials, and the state officials, who reside at the state capital will co-operate toward a common plan. Second, in order to grow beautiful Salem people must aspire to have their city become beautiful. If these two conditions are absent a city can never get out of the development known in landscape art as the ramshackle and cow-pasture style. We can never become a city like the national capital; but the city of Washington is not beautiful by chance.

WHAT ARE OUR RIGHTS IN CHINA?

Mark B. Dunnell discusses the question in the August Atlantic and concludes: "At the present time we have by treaty the right to import goods and trade upon terms of entire equality with every other nation. While the right of importation and trade is limited to the treaty ports, our goods pass, through Chinese agencies, to every part of the country. No nation has any particular trade privileges or immunities. The tariff on imports is fixed, not by legislative enactment or royal edict as in Western lands, but the treaty, and the treaties which China has entered into with the several powers establish uniform rates. On practically all the dutiable goods the rate is five per cent ad valorem. Inasmuch as this is fixed by treaties, the Chinese government cannot alter it at will, nor can it grant any special privileges, owing to the existence of the most favored nation clause in all the treaties. It is apparent therefore, that our trading privileges in China do not resemble those which we enjoy in other countries. They are in the nature of vested rights, which cannot be abrogated or impaired at the will of China so long as she exercises sovereignity over her present territory. China is not a full sovereign state. The treaties which were forced upon her by war materially limit her sovereignity and make her, in a very real sense, the ward of the Western powers. The rights of the powers in China are by treaty joint and equal, and hence any assertion of exclusive rights may be opposed by the other powers as a matter of strict right."

It would appear that that the Powers have not much to gain by whatever may happen in China. Any extension of trade privilege will fall equally to our share, and the conservative and monitory policy of the administration have been undoubtedly the proper attitude.

A FINE CRITICISM OF ROOSEVELT.

Prof. Harry Peck asserts the wonderful change that took place in Teddy Roosevelt between the time he declared he would not take second place on the ticket and the time when he did take it. The article appears in the Bookman, and concludes thus:

Mr. Roosevelt went to Philadelphia and with the imperfect taste and the defective wisdom of a grown-up boy, he wore his old slouch hat and the sort of garments that the Western delegates would prove him to be no "dude." The first part of his expectation was beautifully realized. The Western delegations all went wild about him, and the Eastern delegations, being stimulated by the adroit manipulation of Mr. Roosevelt's wiliest opponent Tom. Platt shouted as loud as any of the others. Then it was that there was brought to bear the argument that no man is greater than his party that no man can refuse the mandate of his party, but that, like a soldier, he must obey its commands. About him were no longer local politicians with whom he had so easily and contemptuously dealt at Albany; but in their place stood men of national eminence, leaders grown old in their country's service, past-masters in the shrewdest art of the politician and in the keenest craft of the successful statesman; and in their presence and under their manipulation the young Governor's boyish self-confidence passed into a boyish bashfulness. Somehow or other, he began to feel that he was being whirled along by a restless current against which his strongest strokes were futile. He was drawn this way and that way, he was bewildered on all sides by conflicting counsels; and there dawned upon him, a glimmering perception that from being the central figure of the situation he was only one of many. His nerve undoubtedly was shaken: and then flashed upon that, after all, the Vice-Presidency is a great historic office. A great certainty was offered him; a great possibility for the moment seemed less possible; and in that moment, with the crash of military music and the shouting of ten thousand voices throbbing in his ears, his old fixed purpose melted away like wax before the fire, and he spoke the word that must be to him the word of Destiny.

THE CHINESE ARE NOT EASILY UNDERSTOOD.

The New York Criterian for August discusses the increased interest in Chinese civilization, and warns Americans not to lay up the bars of prejudice too high. It says:

"They are incomprehensible to us because there is no remotest trace of kinship between their race and ours. Not a tradition, not one root-word is common property. An unsympathetic scrutiny of them discovers as little of mutuality between them and ourselves as the Martians would offer.

"This, word, unsympathetic, is used advisedly, for there are astute missionaries who tell a different story from that presented by the writers of readable books. Among these devoted people, who may have precipitated the present troubles, there are those who have, united with their spirit of loving-kindness, a profound ethnological sense; and for many years they have been protesting against the idea that the Chinese have no traits, virtues, or human charm to appeal to Anglo-Saxon taste."

The administration at Washington deserves praise for its attitude of moderation in dealing with the situation in China. We have all to gain in a tone of toleration for the weaknesses of a government whose people we cannot understand, and whose history and race peculiarities are almost unknown.

JUDGE KINCAID'S VICTORY.

Oregon State Journal.

The contest case of O. F. Knox vs. H. R. Kincaid for the office of County Judge was tried before Judge Hamilton in the court house August 8 and 9, and resulted in increasing the plurality of Kincaid, citizens candidate, from 1 to 5, in the five precincts which Knox claimed would elect him. These were Irving, Willamette, Fairmount, Mohawk and West Cottage Grove. After the votes of the precincts had been recounted Knox's attorney, W. C. Hale, moved to dismiss the case without going further, and the request was granted. If the citizens candidate gained four votes in the five precincts which the contestors claimed would elect Knox increasing his plurality from 1 to 5, how much would it have been increased by re-counting the other 45 precincts in which the contestors did not claim anything? At the same ratio, not less than 50 and perhaps 100. And but for the illegal votes of University students and railroad and mill hands, and the trading of their candidates for sheriff, Treasurer and School Superintendent for votes for their candidate for County Judge, which was done by a few officious managers who did not represent the substantial Republicans in that any more than in contesting the official count made by their election judges and canvassing board, Kincaid, the citizens candidate would have received a majority of several hundred votes, notwithstanding the fact that the Republicans have a majority of about 450 in the county on a straight vote, as shown by the votes cast for State officers.

A small pimple on your face may seem of little consequence, but it shows your blood is impure, and impure blood is what causes most of the diseases from which people suffer. Better heed the warning given by the pimple and purify your blood at once by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine cures all diseases due to bad blood, including scrofula and salt rheum.

Mine Worker's Convention.

HAZELTON, Pa. Aug. 13.—The United Mine Workers of the anthracite region are holding a conference here tody, which was called at the instance of President Mitchell of the organization. This conference represents the voice of all the union miners in the anthracite region, and some 500 delegates representing 40,000 mine-workers, are present. It is to be the most important meeting held in this region since the formation of the organization, and it is being discussed and will be decided the question as to whether the union is strong enough to wage battle with the operators. The men of the Wilkesbarre district about 16,000, believe it is; the men of the other two districts will be heard from before the conference adjourns.

Bicycle Races in Paris.

There is more intenest manifested in today's races in the International championship bicycle races than was shown yesterday, when the events opened. The attendance is considerably larger than the races of a more exciting character, and several of the best championship events on the program are scheduled for this afternoon. McFarland, the California crack rider, is here to witness the races. The event will close on the 19th. Several American riders will compete for the prizes.

Ohio Soldiers Will Go To China.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 13.—Colonel Corliss, commanding the First and Second Battalions of the Second United States Infantry, which returned from Cuba the latter part of July, expects to have his men fully equipped and ready to start for China by way of San Francisco to-morrow. Among the soldiers of the two battalions of the Second Regiment many complaints have been heard adout the food given them on the trip from Cuba in the transport Sedgwick, and it is said this is responsible for twenty desertions which occurred between New York and Cincinnati. One soldier said he bought meat for his dog rather than feed it stuff that was given him to eat.

The soldiers say they are ready to go to China, but fear the transport trip, because of their experiences on the way from Cuba.

Reunion.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 13.—The reunion of the Army of the Philippines which began here today, promises to be one of greatest events of the season. Tomorrow, the principal day, is historical in that it is the second annual celebration of the fall of Manila. A good representation of those who took part in the various battles both before and after the city was captured, are in attendance. The organization of the National Society Army of the Philippines, is the principal matter of business to be transacted, and the rest of the time until the evening of the 15th will be devoted to social enjoyment and excursions to the mountains. It is estimated that there are more than 30,000 visitors in the city.

Exercise and Health.

Exercise is a splendid thing for a healthy person. But when the body is weakened by disease, exercise strains rather than strengthens. Exercise will not cure a "weak" stomach. It may increase the appetite, but it won't cure dyspepsia, and an increased appetite is a curse not a blessing to the sufferer from dyspepsia.

Take exercise by all means but also take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery if there is a deranged or diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. This medicine is not a cure-all but a specific for diseases of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system. It strengthens the stomach, purifies the blood, and increases physical vigor.

There is no alcohol contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine and every other narcotic. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

"I wish to say that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved a great blessing to me," writes Mrs. Ellen E. Bacon, of Shutesbury, Franklin County, Mass. "Prior to September, 1897, I had doctored for my stomach trouble for several years, going through a course of treatment without any real benefit. In September, 1898, I had very sick spells and grew worse; could eat but little. I commenced in September, 1897, to take Dr. Pierce's medicine, and in a short time I could eat and work. I have gained twenty pounds in two months."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a cure for constipation.
