

The Man Who Doubts!

In every community there is the man who doubts. He "don't believe" he can get a ready to wear suit that will fit him; he "don't believe" that we can save him money on clothing; he "don't believe" our advertisements; he "don't believe" anything or anybody, and yet the chances are ten to one he goes out with one of our suits on his back.

Why? Because there is proof in our stock to convince the most confirmed unbeliever. There's style here; there's beauty; there's care in make; there's artistic tailoring; there's proper finish; there's good material; there's a guarantee, and best of all, the prices are there, proving themselves in every case below the figures of other stores.

We want the man who doubts to come in and see some of our novelties we are showing in suits. Reader if "thou art the man" come in and see what we have in store for you.

A TRIBUTE TO BOSS.

Bossy is a kind old cow. She dreams beneath the apple bough and swines her tail and ring her bell while roaming up and down the dell.

I see her through the pasture bars
Then gently toss her head on high
To watch the clouds that dot the sky.

When night makes all the meadow black,
She lets the chickens on her back
Fall fast asleep, and all at once
The sun come peeping o'er the hill.

A KIND WORD FOR THE COW.

The cow is the coming queen of agriculture, the rescuer of our impoverished grain farms, the employer of the country population, the force that shall stay the stream of people flowing to the cities, and return them to the country.

The dairies and cheese factories, with their main and by-products, will do more to stimulate good roads and railroad building in Oregon, than all the acts of legislature and congress. The cows will do more to make our country prosperous than all your sound money and tariff bills, expansion or anti-expansion. Treat her kindly, use her well. In short, take off your hat to bossy.

THE DEATH LISTS REMARKABLY LOW

The heated term this summer from the middle of July to the middle of August has been remarkably free from casualties. There have been many prostrations, but few deaths, in even such exposed and fatalistic localities as Chicago.

Considering that the tornado period was augmented by the delivery of Mr. Bryan's acceptance speech of 17,000 words, nearly two pages of solid type, the death rate has been phenomenally insignificant. Solid shotted arraignment of imperialism, with macho-gin bombardment of militarism, made the air red-hot with the sulphurous fumes of a midsummer campaign. Yet no more were killed than in a Philippine battle.

The death rate in Oregon has not jumped up as might have been expected since our own Percey has delivered himself of a page on the great national issues, which not even the superintendant of the Pen can compel anyone to peruse.

EFFECT OF HUNTINGTON'S DEATH ON OREGON.

What will be the policy of the Southern Pacific corporation towards this state, since by the death of President Huntington there is to be a new management? What will be the attitude of his successor, H. E. Huntington, who is to control these forty or fifty millions of property.

Huntington was a typical Californian. This class regard Oregon as a back-country, inhabited by hayseeds and moonshiners, a rural region not up to the ethics of the Golden State in politics and business. Will the younger Huntington recognize the stability of an unflinching commonwealth, the virtues of a mere producing state?

Young Huntington bears the reputation of being progressive and fair, and he will undoubtedly be inclined to pursue more liberal policies toward a state that has no railroad commission, no rate law and taxes railroad property much less than other Western states.

THE HUMORS OF RURAL JOURNALISM

They are often found in the advertising columns. One paper comes to hand with a glaring advertisement of a wonderful magnetic healer, "an art that existed in the remotest times," and concludes with, "waste removed free of charge."

Speaking of a young lady recently become a resident of another city a local paper says: "His beautiful bride was until a few months ago a popular young lady of this city."

Another advertisement announces the

LETTERS OF A TRAVELER

SALEM LADY WRITES ENTERTAININGLY OF HER EXPERIENCES IN EUROPE.

Describes the Sights in England, at the Paris Exposition and on the Continent.

July 19, 7:45 p. m.

We are staying longer in London this time than we expected. I look for papa back tomorrow. We are having very hot weather for London—the hottest for fourteen or sixteen years they say. They accuse the Endeavorers of bringing it over from America with them. I have been at the National Art Galleries nearly all day.

Just as I left the building, a lady sitting in one of Cook's big carriages put out her hand and said, "Why, how do you do, Mrs. Wiggins?" I looked blankly at her, for I didn't know her; but just then the gentleman at her side leaned forward, and recognized Mr. Fry, and then I knew Mrs. Fry, too. They both looked very well. We had less than a minute to talk, for they drove off.

Now was that not strange that in this great city of millions of people, and thousands and thousands of tourists just how I should happen to meet them. It cheered me up a good deal I was so tired and warm and lonesome.

Now I must tell you about the great convention. I went out to the palace on the 9:26 train Tuesday morning, and reached home after 10:30 that night. The meetings were very fine. Every one was unusually good—there were not one poor number and many were very impressive. I believe they say this is the most successful convention ever held—more notable speakers. How I wish you could see F. B. Meyer, his face fairly shines it is so beautiful. He is a very old man and the ministers all speak of him with so much reverence. His books will be doubly helpful to me now after seeing him. His closing talk to us last night was so beautiful and very practical. Another minister who impressed me just as much in his talk was an Episcopal minister—W. Floyd Tompkins, D. D. of Philadelphia. I wish you could have heard the wonderful prayer with which he closed his address—almost the most beautiful in thoughts I ever heard.

There are three immense halls at the palace, where meetings were held simultaneously, and also two large tents outside. Central Hall is the largest by far and contains the grand organ, but the acoustic properties are very poor so the other two halls, concert hall and theatre hall were always filled. We were in concert hall at the roll call last night, and we had arranged that whatever hall we happened to be in (programmes were the same in all only different speakers) when the United States were called for, we should rise and sing one verse of "America."

There were about dozen "United States" in our hall, and we sang it with a will. Ours was one of the best in our hall. There was hardly a country in the world but what was represented. The roll call was by countries and they usually sang something in the native tongue. There were beautiful voices among the Welsh.

Now I must tell you about the children's cantata in central hall yesterday morning—but how can I tell you?—I was simply charmed from beginning to end. One thousand children sang. They sat in the choir seats just below the organ. The little girl soloist looked to be about twelve years old, and I never heard a sweeter voice, and not one in five thousand adult singers sang with so much expression as she did. I could not keep the tears back, she sang so sweetly and so unconsciously of herself. The cantata was very pretty—written especially for the occasion by a minister and composer here, and he conducted it. They used the large organ of course, and how it thundered! I was about three hundred feet (a front seat, too) from the organ and when all the stops were out, I had to scream in my neighbor's ear to be heard. While we sat there an old white haired man passed by, the founder of the Y. M. C. A.—you will likely know his name.—(George Williams)

The financial reputation of our city is being well established. Let us go forward and gain for it a name that shall be a synonym of progress, honesty and good government that our children shall be proud of. It can be accomplished.

CURRENT EVENTS.

Roosevelt will not make campaign speeches in the Pacific coast states. These states are regarded as safe for the Republicans on the expansion issue.

The O. R. & N. Co. exhibit of cereals at the Paris Exposition took the first premium. This is quite a feather in the cap of Oregon and Washington as grain growing states.

The manufacturers of American silk have scored a notable triumph at the Paris exposition. They have been awarded the golden medal over the French exhibit, and European manufacturers have been given an uncomfortable shock.

The announcements of great victories must be received with a little allowance, as the French people have no doubt arranged to flatter all large exhibitors with diplomas as medals.

The conviction of Caleb Powers of complicity in the assassination of Guebel is probably a merely formal affair. Prominent lawyers and politicians are seldom punished by actual sentence.

GEMS OF PHILOSOPHY.

From the Philistine Magazine for August. The cultivated mind sees the good and fixes attention on that.

The man who expresses a foolish thought is the man to be pitied. Men do not lack strength; they lack the will to concentrate and act.

The average man believes a thing first, and then searches for proof to bolster his opinion.

Be wise and tact, but do not punish; for God is in his Heaven, and all's right with the world.

Too often the reformer has been one who caused the rich to band themselves against the poor.

"You can make a luncheon of a white man but you can never make a white man of an injun."

Danger lies in the folly of the rich, not their wisdom; their weakness is to be feared, not their strength.

God never punishes men for their sins; a self-lubricating, automatic law looks after that.

Every life is its own excuse for being, and to deny or refute the untrue things that are said of you is an error in judgment.

You grow thru exercise of your faculties, and if you do not reason now you never will advance. We are all sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be.

Worth Reading.

"You will find enclosed thirty-one one-cent stamps for one of Dr. Pierce's Medical Advisers, cloth bound," writes James E. Crampton, Esq., of Sharpsburg, Washington Co., Md. "This book is for a friend of mine who is using your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I cannot praise your medicine too highly. I was in business in Baltimore and had rheumatism for three months; couldn't walk at all. I tried the best doctors I could get, but they did me no good. I took three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it cured me sound. I came home to Sharpsburg, and there were three cases of different diseases. I advised the patients to use Dr. Pierce's medicines, which they did, and all were cured."

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, cocaine, nor other narcotic. Free. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book bound in paper, or 31 stamps for cloth binding, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Friday morning—Here I am in Cook's mail department and waiting room. I have just come from Westminster Abbey, where I went with a lady from the boarding house to attend the Endeavor meeting here. The service was nearly all singing by the regular choir. I was disappointed not to hear any speaking.

We had to leave directly after service for we were so chilled. The contrast between the inside and outside air was so great as to be really dangerous and I should not have stayed as long as I did. It is exceedingly hot and I am so disappointed because I cannot take any photographs. I have carried my camera nearly every where I have gone, but I can't snap from a shaky hack and waste a lot of film and work in developing.

To return to the Convention Wednesday afternoon—From 2:30 to 4 o'clock we held an American Meeting in Tent Endeavor (they always spell endeavor, "your here") and it was a very enthusiastic meeting, with speakers representing many states. F. E. Clark and J. Willis Baer were two of them.

After that meeting we filled the great Central Hall where the praise service was held, and when the great choir closed with the "Hallelujah" chorus from the "Messiah" the very foundations of the building shook. Of course we all stood and for the life of me I could not help singing too, and as every one else felt the same way, it was not the choir alone that sang it. Oh, it was inspiring! But I never felt like shouting so much as I did in the Children's Cantata when the children marched in, in groups representing the different nations of the earth and when the banner with "America" printed in large letters appeared I tell you there was a shout went up, and before that shout died away Dr. Clark's young son appeared carrying "Old Glory" and then we rose to our feet and fairly screamed. I tell you I was proud of being an American then, and I have been proud of it ever since I have been over here. The English always treat us with the greatest respect, I have had many kindnesses shown me, and they are always anxious to hear of our country. Not one in a thousand knows what or where Oregon is, but I always tell them it is on the Pacific ocean just above California; then they have all heard about California. I met an intelligent Boston girl yesterday, painting at the gallery, and she did not know where Oregon was—knew it was a state, but had no idea of its location.

It is lovely and cool here and I should like to sit all day; but they will be charging me rent if I stay any longer. You have to pay for the very air you breathe in London, and everything else in proportion—they are called "rentals." * * *

A MOTHER'S STORY.

Tells About Her Daughter's Illness and How She was Relieved—Two Letters to Mrs. Pinkham.

"MRS. PINKHAM—I write to tell you about my daughter. She is nineteen years old and is flowing all the time, and has been for about three months. The doctor does her but very little good, if any. I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I want your advice before beginning its use. I have become very much alarmed about her, as she is getting so weak."

Mrs. Matilda A. Camp, Manchester Mill, Macon, Ga., May 21, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—It affords me great pleasure to tell you of the benefit my daughter has received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After beginning the use of your medicine she began to mend rapidly and is now able to be at her work. Her menses are regular and almost perfect. I feel very thankful to you and expect to always keep your Vegetable Compound in my house. It is the best medicine I ever knew. You have my permission to publish this letter if you wish, it may be the means of doing others good."
