How He Broke It.
 An irascible old gentleman had met for many years with a nervousness which he attributed to a deformity of the nose, which he was known to be a little sensitive.

One day a new neighbor propounded the old question, "How did you manage to break your nose?"

The old gentleman answered solemnly, "To tell the truth, my friend, the accident was caused by my putting it into other people's business."—London Answers.

Nordie's Recipe For Success.
 "It is work, work, work, that makes success," she once exclaimed. "Work five minutes, and you will succeed five minutes' worth, but work five hours, and you will succeed five hours' worth." "But," I said, "remember your natural gifts."

"Plenty have natural voices equal to mine," she answered, "plenty have talent equal to mine, but I have worked."—Saturday Evening Post.

One day we were traveling across the plains in the caboose of a freight train," writes Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady in his experiences as "A Missionary in the Great West" in "The Missionary Home Journal." "A young divinity student was with us. He was one of the ambitious kind of divinity students who wreck a parish or two when they begin and finally drift upon the ecclesiastical bargain counter. He was ready to argue about anything with anybody."

"A greasy, dilapidated looking tramp came into the caboose at one of the stations at the end of a division and presently engaged in a heated discussion with the young theologian. He maintained the affirmative—that the less a man knew and the less education he had the happier he was—with so much skill and adroitness and showed such mastery of logic and literature that he routed the poor boy—hure, foot and hand rose and went out to the platform to hide his charn, leaving the supposed tramp chucking over his pipe in huge enjoyment at his easy victory."

"The bishop had listened without saying a word, and when the student left he turned to the man and inquired sharply, 'What college do you come from, sir?' 'Yale' answered the man without thinking. The unskily administrator destroyed the man's argument for he was a living example of the fallacy of his own proposition."

Johnny Comes Marching Home.
 HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 24.—The city is in fête today, the return of the Canadian South African Volunteers calling out a national patriotic demonstration that has never been equalled in this country. The troops 1400 is due here from Cape Town, with the 18 officers and 410 men, the survivors of the first contingent that left the Dominion for the Cape a year ago.

The regiment took a foremost part in the investment and capture of Cronje at Paardeberg and was among the first battalions to enter Pretoria. It went out 1,300 strong and has been greatly reduced by sickness and casualties. A warship meets the Idolo off port. Among other conspicuous features of the welcome home is an address by Lord Minto, a civil banquet, a combined naval and military review ashore, and the inauguration of a fund by his excellency to erect a monument at Ottawa to the memory of Canadians who died in South Africa.

Why Tolstoi was Excommunicated.
 LOUBANEK, Oct. 24.—The text of the episcopal letter by which Mrg. Jonnikins, metropolitan of Kieff and president of the Synod of Orthodox Greek Church in Russia, excommunicated the famous author of "Resurrection," last March, has just been made public. It gives the following reasons for the action: "In his several works containing an exposition of his religious opinions Tolstoi has shown himself a declared enemy of the Church. He does not recognize the

He blasphemes the holy mystery of the incarnation and falsifies the text of Holy Writ. He renounces the Church, regarding it as a human institution. He rejects the authority of the ecclesiastical hierarchy, and blasphemes the holy mysteries and ceremonies of religion."

CATARRH

Catarrh has become such a common disease that a person entirely free from this disgusting complaint is seldom met with. It is a common ailment of the throat, and is nothing more serious than a bad cold, a simple inflammation of the nose and throat. It is, in fact, a complicated and very dangerous disease; if not at first, it very soon becomes so.

The blood is quickly contaminated by the first secretions, and the poison through the general circulation is carried to all parts of the system.

Saliva, washes and sprays are unsatisfactory and disappointing, because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does. It cleanses the blood of the poison, and eliminates from the system all catarrhal secretions, and thus cures thoroughly and permanently the worst cases, coughs and consumptions of the throat.

Mr. P. H. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., writes: "Having been a terrible sufferer from Catarrh, and being now well, I would like to see if I can be of any service to you. I feel it my duty to state that Swift's Specific is such a true believer in the efficacy of Swift's Specific that I can honestly and conscientiously recommend it to all those whom I have known to be suffering from Catarrh. Have recommended it to make and am happy to say that those whom I have known to be suffering from Catarrh, and who have used it, will cure it if taken according to directions."

 is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the greatest of all blood medicines and tonics.

If you have Catarrh don't wait until it becomes deep-seated and chronic, but begin at once the use of S. S. S., and send for our book on blood and skin diseases and write our physicians about your case.

 Always cures what others fail.

ANOTHER SERMON ON POLITICS.

the hated banner of an invading army, the Stars and Stripes which dying white men once held up before the tear-dimmed eyes of black slaves, declaring to them that there were white men who were willing to die for black men's liberty. Today brown men look at this banner and curse it with their last breath, leaving an inheritance of hatred to the invaders of their liberty. Admit, for argument's sake, the benignant purpose of our administration; admit that humanity, and not the mineral wealth and forest resources, has induced the invasion, it is enough for me to know that we are not wanted there, that nine million or more are afraid of us; that a population twice as dense as the population of Wisconsin is being compelled by a people on the other side of the globe to submit to a government they do not want because they are lured by a dream of self-government of which the United States was the model and the ideal.

This is to me the paramount issue of this campaign. What, compared to this cry of the dying Filipinos, is that clamor for property, and low selfish and base in this light is that "treason" which Chaney Depest says "has spread all over the state of New York like the commercial relations he disturbed." Put over against this anxiety of bankers and business men, for property the noble self-denial of the Lancashire weavers enring our war for the freedom of the slaves, who drew their belts still tighter around their emaciated forms and sent their contributions to help along the war that prolonged the cotton panic. Then starving men and women sent their cheers across the sea to encourage the army that was fighting for liberty, though the cotton looms were idle and not their prosperity, but their bread sacrificed thereby. I respect the "fell dinner pail" of a workman, but when you put that "dinner pail" in one pan of the scales and a brown mother's babe in the other pan, I say the dinner pail will "kick the beam" in the scale of justice.

Justify this Philippine war if you can. Believe that the world is still in the feudal age, when invasion, capture and subjugation are the order of development, but do not say that this prolonged agony at home and abroad, that the widows and orphans, white and brown, that the war that has already cost us over two millions of dollars in money and between thirty and forty thousand lives on both sides of the battle line, endless debauchery of the individual soldier, the lowering of the national idea and poisoning of the imagination of the American youth, are no issue in this campaign. Believe in monarchy if you can, as many wise men do; justify the rough riding on the part of the United States in this last year of the nineteenth century if you will, but do not tell me that the "paramount issue" in this campaign is a question of prosperity, full dinner pails or plethora of the banks, important as they are. If the issue is forced who would rather belong to a pauper nation than to a tyrant nation? Perhaps the last four years are justified by their prosperity and their financial integrity, but the grim facts remain, that the storm-centers of human liberty, the battle lines of democracy, are now in South Africa and in the Pacific Islands. Those who, wisely or unwisely, have fought for their freedom in the Transvaal and those who have struggled in the same way in the Philippine archipelago have received cold lead at the hand of this republic. I admit the perplexity of the situation. But that should not blur the main facts. Humanity is the same over there as here. "Don't cheer, boys, the poor devils are dying over there," said Commander Phillips in Santiago Bay, when the Spanish war ships were going to the bottom. And so I say on the eve of this election, to Republican and Democrat, Prohibitionist and Populist, Do not cheer, O voters; do not smile, O mother; do not laugh, O sister and wife, for poor humanity is dying and starving for liberty's sake over yonder.
