HOPEFUL YEARS OF BUSINESS BEFORE US

The presidential election has passed over without violence or serious distorbance of business. It is the maryel of the age that nearly eighty millions of people could go through an exciting campaign, growing more intense and bitter as the end drew near and only a few fatalities result. It is the highest compliment to the real stability of our institutions that could be paid when the eyes of the whole world are upon us.

The Journal believes there are hope ful years of business ahead. It believes that business conditions will be favorable for those who pursue modern methods, who go forward in a hopeful way, believing in the permanence of things real and vital. The business man or woman who has a bright and hopeful way of looking at things, who has only good will toward all classes of people, who does not stop to quarrel with anyone about politics or religion, who is willing to live and let his neighbor live, cannot but succeed in the next few years in amassing wealth.

next four years. The century will open with peace and prosperity which each can produce for himself. The dangers of militarism are passed over and a policy of commercial development at home and toleration and order abroad will become more and more pronounced. The contentions of the opposition for self-government of the island populations will be granted. War expenses and war taxes will be reduced as time rolls on. In our local and state governments the people will get such improvement as they compel the office holders to give thom, and that is all they over

Anyone can see that it is a bounder duty to go ahead and develop each man his own bustness and each community its own affairs. In proportion as each is enterprising and far-seeing in policy it will progress. There is no monopoly on well-doing. Speaking locally, this city should aspire to be come a model of goood government It should improve its public schools its public spirit, its government. Improve the schools and the city government and you advance the value of property and draw people to the city. In five years Salem can add thousands to her population if we can give the city the reputation of having the best city government and the best public schools in the state.
