GOVERNOR GEER'S BUSINESS MESSAGE

Governor Geer has presented himself to the legislature a complete business statement of affairs, as he has learned the facts from two years of devotion to the public business. His review is one of the most exhaustive and painstaking statements that has ever emanated from the executive office. It is devoid of the usual displays for political effect and bears directly and fairly and with great ability upon the matters of vital concern to the commonwealth.

A serious business tone pervades the message. It may be noted as a matter of history that Governor Geer and his brother state officials have not themselves to the task of getting the state a business administration in all its departments. Those who exploit partisan politics at the expense of the public service or the cost of the taxpayer have had every reason to complain at the decline of their industry. The result of four years of this policy will show a material reduction in public taxes and a marked improvement in the standards of administration.

The Governor takes sharply and does not carry favor with any class in his vigorous treatment of the question of government and taxation. This committee of this legislature could not do better than to take his setting forth of the problem, in which our state has won so many prizes for progress, and deliberately formulate a few vital sections to overcome the abuses now existing in perfect harmony with the Governor's suggestions. The three principal officials of the state could well afford to meet with the committee and draw up at least three sections that are vital to this reform. The usual attempt to pass an omnibus amendment and taxation law is foredoomed to failure, as the Governor intimates. If his message were taken section by section by the various committees and the facts used as a basis of a little more legislation, much important work of reform, great good would result. But this is too much to hope for. The Governor's excellent suggestions will get as much good as is usually given such documents, through its business tone and fairness of view to more than usual attention at the hands of legislators.

KEEP YOUR EYES ON THAT APPROPRIATION COMMITTEE

What THE JOURNAL predicted in its editorial column Tuesday evening, that the Appropriation Committee would be sought to be used as it was in 1895 to make a senator, has already come true. As the Oregon Senate is concerned, contrary to all precedent Mr. Fulton as president has named a Ways and Means committee composed of five Republicans, and all his personal adherents. He names a professional man for chairman and so far as we are concerned a single representative of the larger business or commercial interests of the state. The nearest to a business man is perhaps Proctor of Umatilla whose chief interest at Salem is to protect the Weston Normal school.

It is to be deplored that President Fulton did not take the broader political view and give the honor of the position to one representative of that committee. The uniform custom in Oregon and elsewhere has been to give the minority two places on that committee that makes all the appropriations. Mr. Fulton has shown himself unequal to resist the temptation to show his position for what looks very much like personal politics. He has acted hastily and has not taken proper time to make up his committee with decent regard for the interests of the state. Never before were the minority senators excluded from a share in the responsibility of the greatest committee made up of the advisers of one man's personal ambition whatever they may be. Mr. Fulton owed it to common decency to name on ways and means at least one of the gentlemen who opposed his candidacy for what now appears to have been good grounds. They doubted his siding up to the position he had filled once, in 1893, when Geer was defeated for a second term as Speaker of the House. If all of Mr. Fulton's committees are constructed as unfairly and with as little regard for the courtesy due the opposition, then little good work can be looked for in the Senate unless Mr. Fulton's organization can be overthrown and defeated. His intention is evidently to handle the Senate not in the interest of the people but of himself.

Mr. Fulton has not only done a rank injustice to the Democrats and Republicans in setting a precedent that gives them no recognition on the most vital committee, but he has taken a mean advantage of the Speaker of the House. Fulton has named five Republican supporters of himself, when he knows that the speaker must name some Democrat or populist on his ways and means committee, and that he will leave the five Republicans a majority of the committee on the most powerful joint committee in a Republican legislature. If Mr. Fulton should name all five of the House ways and means committee Republicans they could no more than deal with the five Republicans in the Senate. Mr. Fulton broke the speaker to either do an act of rank injustice or else throw the control of the most important committee into the hands of Mr. Fulton's friends. The disposition of a million and a half of appropriations will almost make as small a man as Mr. Fulton senator. It has far smaller men into the saddle for a time throughout political history, but they have not been the Tol Shams of politics for any length of time.

With a doctor for chairman of the ways and means committee in the Senate, Mr. Fulton should select one of the ablest business men and financiers in Oregon for the chairmanship in the House. He has been made Speaker almost without opposition, as neither of the aspirants for his position developed any strength whatever outside their own counties. In fact one of them on a show-down could not have got the votes of his own county. This should leave the speaker to make a record for the people and show Mr. Fulton that the committee of a ways and means committee is something more than a matter of personal politics, or any man's electoral aspirations. Under the constitution the House makes the appropriations bill and the Senate can amend it. The Fulton faction of the Senate have no right to monopolize the distribution of the appropriations.

Speaker Fulton owes it to the state under the circumstances to lay aside personal and political considerations and name the brainiest and most experienced business man and most astute man of affairs in the House as his chairman of Ways and Means. The Republican party will be held responsible for the appropriations and it should have some regard for the business interests of the state.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.
It certainly would go far towards justifying a common criticism of Salem and Marion County if, as reported, the members of the Legislature from that country should oppose appropriations for the support of the Normal Schools at Monmouth, Drain, Astoria and Weston. Whatever the idea of the Constitution-makers was it is evident that all the state institutions cannot be centered at the State Capital. Already the State University and the Agricultural College, besides the four normal schools, are located elsewhere, and it would be a very narrow and, indeed, a suicidal policy that would now attempt to withhold support from these institutions on this ground. As the State has starved, it thinks it a wrong policy to lean the state with a great normal school, but if there is a good reason for not supporting them it is not in the fact that they are not located at Salem. That city, and Marion County, have no just cause for complaint at the way in which they have been treated by the Legislature. There ought to be no special preference toward the State Capital, and on the other hand, the people would best serve their interests by leaning to support to this practically obsolete provision of the Constitution.

THE MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE

Governor Geer's Biennial Message Delivered.

A Business Summary of the Affairs of the Webfoot Commonwealth.

The message recommends quarantine protection against contagious diseases. It shows that the practice of employing convicts at state institutions has been advanced by this administration, owing to limited appropriations, but deprecates their presence about those places.

Attention is called to the 520 acre asylum site at Union, which cost the state over $30,000, and is now being rented at $750 a year. It is suggested that this be sold and the money turned into use, and it also suggested that an Agricultural college might be built on it.

Discussing the demand for a direct primary law the Governor thinks the results sought are good, but hardly considers it practicable.

The message favors a small, prudent appropriation for the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo. It is claimed that in the past two years about $11,000 has been saved in public printing, and suggestions are made for further economy in this respect. The re-enactment of the law giving convicts $5.00 in money upon discharge is recommended.

Considerable attention is given to the different state institutions and their needs, and the Governor speaks in the highest terms of the different superintendents and officers, all of whom are rendering creditable service to the state. Gov. Geer very properly urges the legislature to complete the state sewer to the asylum and penitentiary. He points out the injustice of the state institutions flooding the city sewers, and his suggestions carry great weight with them at this particular session, when so many basements are flooded as a result of this condition. He points out the fact that the present contract for electric lighting for the state institutions and capital will soon expire and suggest need of securing more reasonable rates in the future or of the state putting in apparatus of its own. He reports that all the payments due from the state foundry have been met, and that the state now has in the treasury $42,800 to the credit of this fund.

The message commends the work of the game warden and dairy commission and hopes their appropriations will be continued. It calls attention to the absence of a railroad commission or other power to regulate railroad traffic and indirectly suggests the creation of some kind of commission for this purpose. Further protection to the fishing industry is also recommended.

The message closes with a neat tribute to Oregon and Oregon people, as follows:
"You are welcomed to the state Capital, gentlemen, clothed with the discriminating duty of making and unmaking laws for a free people. This is a sacred trust demanding your best thought and your most carefully considered efforts. In all countries, under all conditions and at all times there is a large class of people who are compelled by the stress of circumstances to labor necessarily of life. These are known as the common people, and it is upon them that the burden of government largely falls, and it is upon their prosperity that the prosperity eventually of all other classes depends. You should bear them in mind while answering to every roll call. After the election of a senator has been accomplished there will be no questions of a political nature to consider. A large majority of you belong to one political party, but it is believed that on all other questions you can work in harmony with the minority who share with you an equal concern for the welfare of our commonwealth. The future is freight with great opportunities for the Pacific Coast, and, for many reasons, the indications point to our state as being destined to ultimately take the lead in matters of commercial supremacy. The well defined promise of a great oriental trade are beckoning us onward from the further shores of the great Pacific and when the competition for traffic between the coast overland lines reaches that point, which it surely will when the difference between high mountain and moving them on a water level grade to the sea will mark the difference between loss and profit, then the Columbia River route will be chosen over the vast growing business between the two hemispheres. There can be no doubt about this whatever, and in that shining day, not very far in the future, Portland and Astoria, with a deep channel and a river between them, will be among the leading cities of the coast, prosperous and working hand in hand for the advancement of the general public interest."

Let those of us who are the trusted servants of the people for the time being, address our earnest efforts to the upbuilding of our state's best interests, a striving from the triumph and failure of the past, we face the hopeful future, and placing our trust in the great Architect of the Universe, cross the promising threshold of the twentieth century."

With the message is submitted a statement of pardons and commutations granted by Governor Geer the past two years, numbering 74 in all.

Chairman announced as committee to make up delegation Indian War Veterans to visit Washington, D. C., Brownell, Molkey, Looney, Williamson, Sweek.
Resolution by Williamson providing $5 worth of stamps for each senator, adopted.

After listening to the Governor's message in joint session with the house, the senate reassembled.
A resolution of condolence, by Marsters, on the death of the late Senator A. W. Reed, was made a special order for 11 o'clock a. m. Thursday, Jan. 17.
A resolution by Hunt made the Multnomah senators a special committee to whom all legislation for that county should be referred.

After some fruitless inquiry on the part of Smith of Baker and Mulkey, as to the whereabouts of the codes supplied for the use of the legislators at the last session, the senate adjourned.
House—Afternoon Session.
When Speaker Fowler called the House to order at 2 o'clock, the business of that body was taken up with a map and vigor that promised a lively hour.
A joint resolution was introduced, and passed, for a committee of two from the Senate and three from the House to visit the Soldiers' Home at Roseburg, investigate its condition and report to the Legislature before the end of the session.

Representative Black, of Coos county, moved that the courtesy of the House be extended to Hon. E. H. Ross, of Coos county, a member of the House in 1896, and that gentleman was given a seat within the bar, being escorted thereto by the sergeant-at-arms.
Here Speaker Fowler called for the introduction and first reading of bills, and half the members were immediately on their feet, clamoring for recognition, and the pages were kept busy carrying bills to the chief clerk's desk.

when Mr. Story, of Multnomah county, moved that this roll of members be called and bills introduced, but the motion was strenuously opposed by Mr. Whitney, of Lane county, and others of the "W" and was defeated. About 30 bills were then placed in the chief clerk's hands, Mr. Barrett, of Grant county, securing first place.

Before any further action could be taken, the President and State Senate were announced, and the members filed in and took their seats. After the preliminary roll-call a committee of three, consisting of Senator R. A. Booth, and Representatives G. W. Colvig and J. N. Smith, were sent to escort the Governor to the hall. The Governor was received with cheers, escorted to the rostrum, and, in a few words, introduced by President Fulton, and the state's Executive at once began reading his message.

After the joint convention adjourned, the House resumed business, but quickly adjourned to 10 a. m. today.

Forty-three bills were handed into the chief clerk as follows:
Barrett—amending mining laws.
Barrett—providing public libraries in school districts.

Bleeding as a business is an exciting and exhausting occupation. Long hours, fine work, poor light, unhealthy atmosphere—these are only some of the things which fret the nerves and hurt the general health. Often there is a diseased condition of the womanly organism which causes backache or headache and the working of the sewing machine under such conditions is akin to torture.

Thousands of women who work have written grateful letters to Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose "Favorite Prescription" has cured their womanly ills and established their general health. "Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries up unhealthy and offensive drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and strong women well.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, and so avoid the indicative questioning, offensive examinations and obnoxious local treatments deemed necessary by some physicians. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. "I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for female weakness. I write Mrs. Susannah Permer, of Falls store, Shelby Co., Texas. I was troubled with bearing-down pains in my back and hips for six years, and wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. I tried his 'Favorite Prescription' and six bottles cured me. I feel like a new person, and I thank Dr. Pierce for my health. Life is a burden to say out without health, and the great medicine I took."
