CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS A SPECIALTY

WHITE CORNER, SALEM, OREGON

Today the same old white corner, for it is old now as compared with most of the business houses or business firms of Salem, looks more conspicuously than ever, for under the master hand of the mechanic and artist, the old landmark has become a thing of beauty. Now, too, it is filled from basement to gallery with the choicest of the world's products in dry goods and furnishings, and we feel sure we have the confidence of the people for each day's business shows an increase and every customer leaves our store pleased with our treatment and satisfied with our bargains. The general verdict is, "Truly Salem's Best Store." "A pleased customer is a Store's Best Advertisement," and we know we have hundreds of good walking advertisers.

Go-Carts and Baby Carriages

These goods were ordered last January and the car they were loaded in was delayed, hence they have arrived too late for the regular spring trade. Owing to this fact we have marked these goods down from 10 to 15 per cent. less than regular retail price and we intend to reduce this immense stock as quickly as possible to our regular line. If you are at all a prospective buyer, all we ask is a chance to show you this new line. You won't care to look further. These goods sell themselves. 22 different designs.

REGULAR SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL

Recorders Monthly Report and the Routine Business Transacted Shows

At the regular session of the city council, Tuesday evening, Mayor Bishop presided and Councilmen Burrows, Griswold, Larsen, Riggs, Krasnow and Walker were in attendance.

The license committee reported favorably on the application for renewal of liquor license of Joe Roth, and the issuance of the document was ordered.

The petition of August Schriber for renewal of liquor license was referred to the license committee.

Following is the monthly report of N. J. Judah, city recorder, for the month of May, showing the business transacted:

SUSPICIONS THAT THERE WAS MURDER

Death of John Stanley Was Possibly Connected With a Former Mystery.

THE SALEM MAN FOUND DEAD IN BED MAY HAVE BEEN MURDERED

He Had Been Told if He Did Not Stop Hunting for His Dead Friend's Body, He Would Be "Fixed."—Reports Not Credited by the County and City Officials.

Mr. Pre cott sends following special to a Portland paper: There is ground for strong suspicion that John Stanley, who was found dead in his bed Monday morning was murdered. Chief of Police Gibson will trace up the chain of evidence, and if possible settle the matter beyond all doubt. The ground for suspicion rests upon a long story, which briefly told, is that Stanley was killed to stop him from hunting for the body of a friend who was supposed to have been murdered. Several years ago James Robinson, a wood Sawyer, mysteriously disappeared from Salem, and ever since that time Stanley has maintained that his friend had been murdered. He hunted for the remains, and last summer discovered a human bone in an old well on North High Street. This discovery created a small sensation, but there were no developments except that a resident of this city went to Stanley and told him that if he did not stop hunting for Robinson's body he would be "fixed." The man who made this threat was suspected of making away with Robinson. Stanley told chief of Police Gibson of the threat upon his life and said: "If anything happens to me you will know this much." He also related the incident to another friend.

It was learned today that the man who made this threat was seen peering into Stanley's bedroom window some weeks ago, while Stanley was away. Whatever his purpose, it could not have been good, for he and Stanley were not upon good terms, and Stanley remarked when he heard of it that the man had no business there. Stanley died about May 20, and his death was not known until a week later. The body was in such an advanced stage of decomposition that no close examination was made, and the remains were buried this morning without an inquest being held.

Chief of Police Gibson visited the premises last night, but the effluvium was so strong he could not enter the house. It was observed that a block supported the upper sash of the bedroom window, and the nail in the block presented the appearance of having been recently drawn. There was also a long, broad scratch on the side of the house, of recent origin, as though some person had put a ladder against the house outside the window, and let it scrape against the siding in taking it down. In the wash near by there is a ladder that is about the right length to have made the mark. The removing of the block under the sash and the making of the scratch on the wall may have occurred since the fading of the body, but in view of all other circumstances, they increase the suspicion of foul play. It is quite possible that an inquest may yet be held, and that subsequent proceedings may disclose one murder if not two.

JOURNAL X-RAYS

Mysteries of the unknown—what depositors will receive out of Gilbert Bros. bank.

Salem people will all back a university as an educational institution for the sake of education but not as an organized graft.

Fame's pathway does not lie in the direction of robbing public school children of their savings by any form of legal process.

The Oregon delegation is not wild over Joan Barrett for minister to China. Possibly they could find some one of still smaller calibre.

The JOURNAL is glad there is one paper left in Salem which may print the uncolored facts about such a matter as the recent bank failure.

One of the bested bank grafters want the JOURNAL editor to be given public school savings deposits in which he is interested as a parent, if he will only keep still. That is the grafter's idea of justice.

The Catholic St. Joseph's-Baptistments that not one of the great nations of the world has the moral courage to breathe a word for the loaves in their magnificent struggle to keep their independence. The Benedictine brothers love the ways of peace, but born Swiss and Tyrolese are never indifferent to a struggle for freedom.

Bids for Road Work.

Bids were opened by the county court today for road work as follows: For a fill and construction of a bridge leading from Sublimity to Silverton, where the same crosses Beaver creek and for making fill and repairing the bridge on the county road leading from Ameyville to Shaw, crossing Beaver creek, the material for the former being for new material and the latter of old material and the county to furnish as much new as will be required. The applicants are:

D. S. Rowley & Co., $574.00

O. F. Royal, 560.00

J. E. McCoy, 373.00

For the proposed grade on the Pridding River road near Hubbard A. Coyle offers to furnish, deliver and place the dirt and gravel as follows: 150 yds. dirt at $1.00 per yd.; 150 yds. gravel at $1.75 per yd.

All bids were referred to County Road Master Jas. Calver, who will report.

Methods of Curing Jungle Fever.

I got over my attack, but it was a marvel that I did. One morning my doctor bled me till there was scarcely a drop of blood left in my body. He then gave me 40 grains of calomel, and in the evening, as the fever was still raging, he ordered me to be taken out to the yard of my quarters, laid on a bare rattan couch and buckets of cold water thrown over me for about 20 minutes! I was then put back to bed and fortunately fell asleep for several hours. After some weeks on the sick list, I was able to return to my post at Kornegalie—"Fifty Years in Ceylon."

Disappointed the Farmer.

"That city man that was visiting me is an overrated cuss," remarked the farmer.

"How so?"

"Oh, the papers all said he was a great hand at watering stock, but I found he couldn't work the pump five minutes without laming his arm."—Chicago Post.

Hi—Cissie, I've heard it said that a kiss without a mustache is like an egg without salt. Is that so?

She—Well, really, I don't know. I can't tell, for you see, I've never—

Hi—Ah, now!

She—Never eaten an egg without salt.—Glasgow Times.

Chief of Police Gibson and Coroner Lane have both examined the surroundings of the premises and all the facts connected with this matter and do not credit the theory that a crime has been committed. The indications all go to show that he was ill and as a result of old age and sickness died quietly in bed.

STRAWBERRY CROP IS KEEPING BACK

Cannery at Salem Will Begin Operations Next Week.

Cool rainy weather is depressing the strawberry growers. The fruit is not ripening as it should, still the yield will be large. The Allen Canning Co., is making preparations for beginning operations, about Tuesday or Wednesday morning next. Farmers are offering a few crates of strawberries but Mr. Allen says that, at present, they are not plentiful enough to warrant them in starting before next week when, it is believed, they will start upon the

A. Splendid Trade

Since moving into my new quarters at the old Croisan stand, I have been rushed constantly in all lines. I am pleased to state that all of my old trade on wheels and machines has followed me, and that the excellent business that Mr. Parkhurst enjoyed on the Stadelaker wagon and buggy, and all of Mr. Croisan's business on his complete line, has stayed by the new firm.

The business that I am doing on Stadelaker goods has gone far ahead of my best expectations, and the McCormick mowers and rakes are now on the move, proving that the hay growers know a good thing when they see it.

My Bicycle Business

I have had a good trade constantly on my well-known Tribune line but Monday they came in, in a rush again, and we sent out five Tribunes. There's only one reason for it—the satisfaction the riders are getting. Sundries, too, plenty of them.

A KANSAS EDITOR SAYS:

"I Use Peruna in My Home as a Family Doctor."

Mr. F. A. Dixon, Editor Pythian Echo, says in a recent letter to Dr. Hartman: "Some two years ago I began using Peruna in my family as a family doctor, and I have been highly pleased with the result. My wife has used it for catarrh and experienced great relief. My little girl has been sick a number of times, and when we used your medicine it proved a success. I have used it myself several times and consider it a very valuable medicine. Speaking from personal observation, I consider it a good investment to keep it in my home, and believe every man who desires to relieve suffering, and at the same time save money, should investigate the real merits of your Peruna and other medicines."

In a later letter he says: "For about four years I have used Peruna in my home for myself, wife and two children, and have saved many doctor bills. Many times a dose or two of Peruna taken in time will stop a sickness, which, if permitted to go for a day, would result in serious trouble. For grip it is splendid and can be used successfully with very young children as well as old people. I use it in my home as an all-around family doctor and when it has been given a fair trial, it has proved an excellent remedy."
