Diplomats accredited to this government insist that there is no necessity for formal acceptance by the powers of the limit of 450,000,000 taels. They point out that each power presented its claim for damages, that there were lumped together and that the aggregate was the limit of the demand accepted by the Chinese envoys. Consequently there is no necessity for further discussion of this point. Reflecting the views of their governments, these gentlemen express doubt that the American proposal for the reference of the indemnity question to The Hagoe would be adopted.
