NEW YORK, June 19.—A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from London quotes William T. Stead upon the death of Ex-Governor Pingree of Michigan as follows:

Ex-Governor Pingree of Michigan, the one time famous Mayor of Detroit, lies dead at the grand Hotel in London.

Pingree returned to London from the continent after a brief and eventful visit to South Africa carrying with him a sentence of death.

He was conscious up to the last of everything but his approaching death. He knew he was weak and ill, but longed to return to his own people. From time to time he gave orders as to packing his trunks in order that he might start at once without delay. He had been attending constantly all day by his son, who did everything he could in the way of personal attendance or procuring the best advice in London, but nothing doctors could do could arrest the disease.

He was making a tour of the continent with a view to the development of America's export business. On his arrival in London he was feeling rather badly but it seemed so little to occasion alarm that his secretary and traveling companion, Colonel Sutton deemed it safe to return home leaving him with his son. The dysentery instead of getting better, grew worse. Sir Thomas Barlow was called but was unable to check it which, continuing day after day was sufficient to sap the strongest constitution. It was accompanied by ulceration which the physicians found impossible to deal with until the dysentery was checked. When to these internal complaints was added acute peritonitis the strength of the patient was unable to rally.

The career of one of the most notable of modern Americans is closed, a man who for strength of character, firmness of purpose, indomitable energy and immense public spirit presents an example to two worlds.

Pingree had an experience in his brief visit to South Africa. He went out armed with recommendations from Chamberlain which enabled him to pass everywhere freely through the English lines. When he left London he was fed with all the calamities upon the Boers which have been resorted to palliate the attempted extermination of the republics. But the moment he got to South Africa, the scales began to fall from his eyes.

Recommendations from the Colonial office enabled him to penetrate regions heretofore sealed to the ordinary civilian. Accompanied only by his secretary he penetrated into the heart of the seat of war and soon had an opportunity of making the acquaintance of the Boers at first hand. Extraordinary though it may be he was able to lunch in the British camp in the morning and dine with the Boer commander in the evening. He has found to his astonishment that the Boers were by no means so black as they had been painted. They were by no means devoid of human intelligence, they dressed and washed like civilized beings, welcomed with generous hospitality the traveling American who found them far from extremists.

The commandoes he visited were well clothed and well armed, every man possessing at least two horses with a good reserve of ammunition. They are safe regarding it no doubt but they still have stores of Mauser cartridges to fall back upon but for the present they are doing all their fighting with Lee-Methodts and cartridges which they supply themselves with from the British stores. It was impossible that such a man as Pingree could fail to be deeply touched by the spectacle of these heroic burghers maintaining their struggle against overwhelming odds for liberty and independence of their country.

He found no difficulty whatever in traversing the hostile lines; he drove in a Cape cart with his secretary and son riding bicycles as an escort. It was somewhat perilous for them, for the Boers have the disagreeable, although natural, habit of shooting all bicycle riders on sight for with them, spies and British dispatch riders is synonymous terms. It is much to be regretted that from the interest of truth and justice such a keen observer should not have been spared to return to his own country to describe the Boers as he found them in a struggle which must have recalled at every turn the stirring episodes in the war of independence.

Big Order for Locomotives.
New York, June 19.—The recently organized American Locomotive Company is already in receipt of orders enough to keep the various plants controlled by the combination working to their full capacities during the next six months. The largest order is that of the New York Central Railroad Company and is for fifty-two locomotives of the latest type. The order is not only gratifying because of its size, but also as an indication that the friendly relations between the Central Railroad and Mr. Callaway, who recently retired from the presidency of the railroad to become president of the locomotive company, have not been impaired by the change. The company is also in receipt of an order for 27 locomotives from the Delaware and Lackawanna.

YOUNG CLARK WEDS

BITTS, Mont., June 19.—W. A. Clark, Jr., the youngest son of United States Senator W. A. Clark, and Miss Mabel Foster were married this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. S. C. Blackiston, of St. John's Episcopal church, officiating. The Foster home was elaborately decorated. The wedding guests were limited to 50, relatives and friends. Mr. Foster gave his daughter away and there were no bridesmaids or groomsmen.

Senator Clark arrived last night to attend the wedding and it is said that his present to the bride was a check for $100,000. The grooms present was necklace of diamonds and pearls said to be valued at $20,000 and Mrs. Charles W. Clark, sister-in-law of the bride presented her with a ring set with oblong diamonds and emeralds. To secure perfect gems an expert has been searching the shops of New York for three months past. The bride's gown is said to have cost $5000.

The wedding journey will extend to Europe and will cover one year. W. A. Clark, Jr., is popularly supposed to be worth three millions in his own right. When he became of age a large sum was fixed on him and this he has judiciously invested in mining properties and realty. He is a popular young attorney and a member of the firm of Root and Clark.

DALLES CITY ELECTION

THE DALLES, June 19.—The annual city election held here Monday, passed off quietly, the only contest being for mayor. In consequence the vote was light, only 530 ballots by cast. G. J. Farley was elected mayor, over W. A. Johnston. The other officers elected are: C. J. Crandall, treasurer; J. P. McInerney, water commissioner at large. First ward—F. W. L. Skibbe, councilman; A. Buckler, water commissioner. Second ward—H. W. French, councilman long term; F. H. Woldefeld, councilman short term; Simon Bolton, water commissioner. Third ward—M. Z. Donnell, councilman; H. J. Maier, water commissioner. Mr. Forley the newly elected mayor, is proprietor of the saddlery firm of Farley & Frankland was superintendent of the constitution of the state portage road at Cascade Locks.

ALL-STEEL RAILROAD

NEW YORK, June 19.—A contract has just been signed in this city for a complete outfit of rolling stock, including pressed steel cars, locomotives and passenger coaches for the Republic and Grand Forks Railroad in Washington. The road will be 48 miles long and of standard gauge. At Grand Forks it will connect with a Canadian Pacific Railroad. The first trains will be run early in November if nothing occurs to block the construction work now under way. The road will be used mainly to carry gold and silver ore from the mines in the Republic district on the east slope of the Cascades to Canadian smelters at Grand Forks.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Ever since mention was made several months ago that a search had been made of the records of Sacramento county to determine if there was a record of the adoption of Princess Hatzfeldt by the late Collis P. Huntington there have been persistent rumors that the Princess has in contemplation a contest of the railroad builder's will.

These rumors have been revived by the arrival of Prince Hatzfeldt and the Hatzfeldt on this coast and the fact that the Princess has gone to Sacramento ostensibly to visit her mother. The Princess, however, disclaims any intention of beginning a contest. With the Prince and Princess in their western journey is their attorney, Joseph DeLeding of New York, and his presence here at this time has accentuated the report that legal proceedings of some sort are in contemplation.

To all inquiries Mr. Redding persistently replies that he knows nothing of his client's intention in this regard, while the Prince contents himself with the declaration that he has nothing to give out at present. It is given out that such a contest would present unusual difficulty for in order to have the will declared invalid it would be necessary to show that Huntington was of unsound mind at the time he made the will or that he was under undue influence or that the will was forged.

The will was executed about two years before Huntington's death. Then there is the additional fact that the Princess Hatzfeldt was mentioned in the will and was provided for by giving her the interest on $1,000,000 during her life time, the principal to go to her issue or failing issue, to such persons as she may by will direct. The Princess cannot, therefore, rely on a claim of being a pretermitted child, even if she should produce documentary evidence of her adoption in regular legal form.

It is estimated that the Huntington estate has increased 40 per cent since his death. It is in the question of residuary legatees that there rests a bitterness which may force the bringing of a contest, for Henry E. Houghten is named as residuary beneficiary, and it is possible that he may receive over forty million dollars as his share. In comparison with that figure the $1,000,000 given to the Princess appears very paltry and it is not a surprise to her friends that she should express her dissatisfaction.

Whether this dissatisfaction will materialize in a lawsuit is yet to be seen. There is a clause in the will that says any one making a contest shall be cut off from all share in the estate, but the will of James G. Fair had a similar provision and the courts knocked it out. Mrs. Clara Prentice, mother of the Princess asserts, it is said, that she signed a document relinquishing her authority over her daughter and that Huntington legally adopted the child. No record of this adoption has been found however. Gossip goes so far as to say that contest proceedings will be begun simultaneously in this city and New York.

To Enlarge its Plant. JOLIET, Ill., June 19. Rumors are again in circulation that the American Tin Plate Company, which has four mill plants here, will enlarge its works, establishing business that will employ 1,500 men. The American is part of the United States Steel Company, which owns steel and wire mills here and is also the

RUSSELL BIGAMY CASE.

NEW YORK, June 19.—There is much talk among British lawyers, says the Tribune's London correspondent respecting the procedure in the Lord Russell bigamy case if the preliminary proceedings are followed by a commitment by the magistrate and an indictment by the grand jury. There is a general agreement that the case in that event will be removed by writ of certiorari from the ordinary courts to the House of Lords. The Lords can only hear appeals from the lower courts, but when a peer is charged with felony he must go to the House of Lords for trial and not on appeal.

RACE ACROSS ATLANTIC

NEW YORK, June 19.—The proposed trans-Atlantic race between yachts of the America's cup class is receiving much consideration from yachtsmen in this city. The fact that Sir Thomas Lipton looks with favor on the proposition leads many to believe that Thomas W. Lawson and W. Duncan, Jr., will agree to enter the Independence and the Constitution against the Shamrocks. J. V. S. Oddie secretary of the New York Yacht Club was seen last night and said that the trans-Atlantic race had not yet been brought to the attention of the club.

The Amalgamated Copper Company filed papers today increasing capital stock from $75,000,000 to $155,000,000. Purpose of increase is to purchase Butte & Boston and Boston & Montana Companies.

At Buffalo argument in appeal of Roland B. McInerney, alleged poisoner of Mrs. Katherine J. Adams, was resumed before court of appeals today.

Mrs. G. A. Littlefield and daughter, Miss Helen, have gone to Yaguina to spend the summer with Chas. Littlefield.

TO OUR MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

Some time ago THE DAILY JOURNAL reduced its price to mail subscribers from 80 cents to 30 cents per month. In ADVANCE. This was done to save book-keeping and expense of collectors, and the subscribers are given the benefit of the reduction in price. Such subscribers should not expect to get time on the paper, and as they get the benefit of the reduced price they should not expect it. There is the further advantage about this system of not having a bill piled up against you. A notice is sent out before subscriptions expire, and should be promptly observed.

Sir Thomas Lipton will accept offer of an American magazine for a $5000 cup race over same course after America cup race.

He Has Saved My Life

State of Oregon, 1st Salem, Ore., May, 1, 1900. County of Marion. I, the undersigned, do hereby certify that to whom these presents shall come greeting. This is to certify that I have been afflicted with Ovarian Tumors for a number of years, also liver trouble. I desire to publicly state upon oath that Dr. J. F. Cook of Salem, Oregon, has removed said tumors, two in number, without the use of knife, plaster or poisonous drugs, and that I am entirely cured, and as I believe permanently cured. I cheerfully recommend Dr. Cook to all persons afflicted as I was. I feel that he has saved my life. My home is three miles south of Turner, Oregon.

Do Not Listen to "Cappers"

Who are hired to defame me and my methods of treatment. If I could not cure people there would be no use to fight me. It is because I do cure people that I am personally misrepresented, but I keep on curing folks just the same, and some of the best people in Oregon stand by me, for which I am thankful. Send for Circulars containing testimonials from patients cured both in Oregon and in the East. Don't despair because you have been told you have been told you could not be cured. Dr. Cook has cured hundreds of people whose cases have been pronounced hopeless by the "old school" physicians. The doctor has devoted the best years of his life to the study of disease, and the use and action of Nature's vegetable remedies, until he knows absolutely just what he can do. This gives him confidence.
