CENTENARY M. E. CHURCH.

How its Last Four Pastors Met Unusual Deaths—Other Troubles.

PORTLAND, Aug. 6.—Superstitions folk can discover material for sending shivers along their backs in a series of events that are certainly strange. The Centenary Methodist church, of Portland, has lost no less than four pastors, each having a violent death. Simply coincidence, perhaps. Then, there is a falling away in the congregation and members have been involved in litigation.

Pastor Denison died of heart failure. Dr. Bushong was about to leave the Centenary church for Alaska when he was attacked by paralysis of the heart. Rev. Crawford R. Thoburn died suddenly of spotted fever. His father is Bishop of India and the minister had just returned from the land of the Hindoo when he became ill and died suddenly from a fever he probably contracted in the far East. Last month, Rev. George W. Tate, pastor of the church, dropped dead of heart disease while going to greet some friends on an incoming train. The very suddenness of these deaths places the Centenary church in a peculiar position. The tragedy of violent death. Rev. Thomas Boyd, another pastor, is said to have resigned some time ago because he was heart sick and weary of the dissensions among his flock. These dissensions took the form of law suits over property left by the late James Abrams.

The mention of the Abrams estate brings forward another chapter in the series of strange events. Mr. Abrams died wealthy and it was through his worldly goods that the Centenary church had its beginning. Abrams was an ardent Methodist and he said to have hated the Catholic church in a manner not charitable. He made his wealth in the magnificent college building was erected at University Park, the intention being to make it a Methodist institution. A fine Methodist hospital was built at Mt. Taber, and he was the iron of the late. Both the college and the hospital proved financial failures, and last June each was acquired by Catholic organizations.

REFORM WORK IN FINLAND

ST. PETERSBURG, July 22.—Correspondence of The Associated Press. It will be recalled that the first excuse for raising the Finnish question was the supposed necessity of reforming the military service in Finland to make it conform with the rest of the empire. After the restoration of the Finnish Senate was broken a commission was appointed to draft a new military law for the grand duchy. The work lagged and at least one draft found an inimical majority in the council of the empire. Nothing more was heard of the subject except that a new draft had been ordered. This has now been promulgated by the Emperor. The opposition on principle, or constitutional grounds is not met, but the bill is made as acceptable as possible by lightening the burden to be placed upon the shoulders of Finland. Three years active service is to be introduced instead of four or five and the number of Finnish military organizations will be reduced. It is reported that the government plans introducing the three years service throughout the empire. Of the previous Finnish regiments and battalions none will remain except the regiment of the Imperial Guard. Eight other battalions will be dissolved. The Finnish recruits will be enrolled in the Dragoon and the guards whose headquarters are to remain in Finland. The law expressly states that Finnish troops may be employed in peace or war wherever the interests of the service may require their presence but for the present they will remain in Finland.

Other troops may be quartered in Finland but for the present there does not seem to be an intention to frighten the people with this. As in other parts of the empire, conscription will be by lot. The service in the reserve will be of 15 years duration. Satisfactory knowledge of Russian will be required of officers. The number of annual recruits will be proportioned to the requirements of the Finnish organizations.

Our Land Gamble.

EL PASO, O. T., Aug. 4.—The last act in the opening of the Indian lands in Kiowa-Comanche reservation began today, when winners in the lottery were permitted to file on their claims. It is estimated that from 2000 to 3000 claims drawn at the lottery will never be filed on. Today the auctioneer by the federal government of town lots at Anadarko, Hobart and Lawton began. At each place thousands of people have waited for days for the opportunity to purchase lots and begin business.

Servian Election Riots.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Describing the disorders attending the Servian elections, the Vienna correspondent of the Morning Leader says: The Servian government used every endeavor to freely to intimidate the electors of the opposition. At Gradisthe the voters were driven in by gangs and compelled to vote for the government candidates. At Srebrenica voters were brought in chained to the polls. The riotous conduct in various places and 300 persons, all told, were injured.

Larceny Case was Dismissed.

The case for the State versus Frank Smith, which was to have been given a preliminary hearing this morning, was dismissed after the prosecuting attorney had questioned the prosecuting witness, E. A. Helm. The boy was accused of larceny from a barn, the allegation stating that two bridges were among the articles stolen. It was disclosed at the examination this morning that the bridges were stolen by another boy and were sold to a second hand dealer by Frank Smith.

WEEKLY SUMMARY OF CROP REPORTS

From the Oregon Section, Climate and Crop Service, and Weather Bureau. Weekly Crop Bulletin Published by Edward A. Beale, Director, Portland, Or.

The past week in Oregon has been the warmest of the season and it averaged nearly 6 degrees warmer than the previous one. The maximum temperatures during the week in western Oregon ranged between 76 degrees and 100 degrees, and the minimum temperatures between 50 degrees and 68 degrees. In eastern Oregon the maximum temperatures ranged between 80 degrees and 102 degrees and the minimum temperatures between 62 degrees, and 70 degrees. Numerous small showers occurred in southern Oregon during the first days of the week, but they were not general or heavy enough to be of much benefit, and no rain of consequence has fallen elsewhere since the latter part of June. General rains are now badly needed for corn, hops, potatoes, gardens and pastures. The second crop of alfalfa is being cut in southern Oregon, and the yields are about the average. The second crop of clover in the Willamette valley is not as promising as usual, on account of dry weather.

The grain harvest is well advanced, but thrashing in the western sections has not yet become general, although well begun east of the Cascade mountains. The following thrashing yields have been reported: Washington county, wheat, 22 bushels; oats, 25 bushels; Yamhill county, 24 bushels; Clatsop county, wheat, 12 to 30 bushels; winter oats, 20 bushels, and one acre of barley thrashed 75 bushels. Douglas county, wheat 6 to 30 bushels; oats, 40 bushels; winter wheat, 12 to 25 bushels; fall wheat, 15 to 25; Unadilla county, wheat, 35 to 40 bushels, and some fields have thrashed 55 bushels; spring barley, 40 bushels, and fall barley from 10 to 70; oats, about 50; spring wheat, from 18 to 20. The wheat crop in Umatilla county is turning out much better than expected and the grading will be good.

Some lice are reported in the hop yards, but they are not causing any damage of consequence and the weather is unfavorable for the spread of this pest, and the hop outlook continues favorable. Corn is making good progress and early potatoes are maturing rapidly. The potato crop, although needing rain, is doing fairly well, and there are no complaints of blight. Pastureage is getting poor, and there is a slight shrinkage in the milk supply reported from Curry and Coos counties. The weather has been favorable for fruit, which is making good advance ment. Tame berries are plentiful, and plums, peaches and early apples are in the market.

Wheat Market.

Highland, Clackamas county, Marie Harrington.—The past week was very dry and warm. Grain in ripening fast and early wheat will be harvested next week; the wheat crop is good and oats promise an abundant yield. The grain apple has again appeared and is on the grain; the hop louse is here, and spraying will commence immediately. The vegetable crop is good. Potatoes will yield an immense crop. The fruit crop is very poor; apples and plums will be only half a crop.

Carlton, Yamhill county, D. W. Laughlin.—Cutting fall wheat in progress; a great many are done and the yields promise well; no thrashing as yet, but about half the wheat is cut and the outlook is promising for a good yield. The second crop of clover never resulted better. The fruit crop is very good about 80 degrees.

Alsea, Benton county, C. P. Fullerton.—The week has been warm and dry, but not enough to push grain too fast. Wheat and oats look well, with promise of good yields. It is getting very dry. Haymaking about done. Some oats cut, but no thrashing done yet.

SALE OF CROPS FOR THIS SEASON

At the Balfour-Guthrie warehouse, at Brooks, the first receipt of 1901 wheat has been made. M. L. Jones, of Brooks, has 2500 bushels there of finely developed grain. Samples of the wheat may be seen at the company's office in this city. The price paid is 45 cents at present, but the market has not yet opened. E. A. Tilton, Bartlett & Company have received eight tons of this year's hay. It is of the cheat variety and is delivered in bales. The producer is a farmer residing about three miles east of this city, and he expects to be able to furnish them with 40 tons more. Six dollars is being paid for this, but an early raise is expected. This season's crop is said to be larger and of better quality than last year's.

Choice loose clover hay is being delivered at $5 per ton.

Miss Ackerman Not Married.

The following item from the Albany Herald is a section so far as the young lady is concerned, although it is understood that the gentleman mentioned is soon to wed a young lady related to Miss Ackerman.

Yesterly E. F. Carlton and Miss Carrie Ackerman were married at the home of the bride's parents, Hon. and Mrs. J. H. Ackerman in Salem.

Carrie is a native of Linn county and has resided here nearly all his life. He has taught school for a number of years and is now principal of the schools at Joseph, Willamette county. The bride is a most estimable young lady and the happy couple have the best wishes of a host of friends.

Bond Filed in Probate.
