MEETING OF OREGON FRUIT MEN

Mid-Summer Session of State Horticultural Society at Newberg.

Report of Newberg Graphic. Beginning with last Friday evening the annual mid-summer meeting of the Oregon State Horticultural Society was held at Newberg and was attended by many representative horticulturists. The most progressive and energetic class of agriculturists in the state. Excellent and inspiring addresses were delivered throughout the various sessions and the discussions were encouragingly general, at times becoming entertainingly warm. In fact, the presence of such men as Dr. J. R. Caldwell of Portland, the Nestor of Oregon horticulture, Hon. E. L. Smith of Hood River, irrefragably exuberant, Editor H. M. Williamson of Portland, Hon. E. Hofer of Salem, Prof. E. R. Lake and many more who were here would insure a successful meeting under almost any circumstances. It is to be regretted only that the meeting was held at such a busy season of the year that not a very large number of the local fruit growers could attend and be benefited thereby.

Newberg has always been very much favored in being chosen as the meeting place for such worthy organizations, and the fact is a merited recognition in favor of our town and vicinity. In line with this thought, it was a generous tribute paid by Dr. Caldwell the president of the society, when in his address he said, "This, our third summer meeting at Newberg, attests our appreciation of your efficient service in horticulture. It affords us pleasure to note the evidence of substantial progress in town and country. You have obtained an enviable eminence in horticultural methods. Nowhere do finer fruit packages, nor reach the market in tastier packages. The Newberg brand brings the highest prices in the home and foreign markets. Your location is well chosen, and you grow all the fruits of the temperate zone to the greatest perfection, as evidenced at the World's Fair at Chicago, at Omaha and now at Buffalo."

HERPICIDE
TO HAVE THICK, LUXURANT HAIR

It is the longest for desire of a very woman, who knows what powerful aid to beauty it is, and endeavors to make her own as soft, glossy and thick as possible. Comparatively few of them are aware as yet that Newberg's Herpicide, a recent scientific discovery, will enable them to possess hair as thick and luxuriant as anyone could desire.

It works on a new theory of destroying the germ that feeds upon the hair root, and this makes dandruff and falling hair impossible. It then proceeds to produce a growth of thick, glossy hair that soon becomes the pride of its owner. One trial will convince you of its virtues.

FOR SALE AT ALL FIRST-CLASS DRUG STORES

After years of toil and much disappointment it is thought of the representative men in attendance at the meeting that horticultural conditions are re-adjusting themselves upon a sounder basis, and that the "golden age" is yet ahead and not behind the Oregon fruit grower.

At the first session held Friday evening, Prof. J. C. Hodson gave a hearty, and at the same time a thoughtful address of welcome on behalf of the citizens of Newberg. He welcomed the visitors as men who are thinking, knowing and doing, and who in a meeting of this nature, always give to their hearers more than they take away. This is primarily an age of diffusion of ideas. Man lives, not to himself alone, but as he receives he also gives. Ideas and methods are worth but little until they are diffused and put into practice, and these conferences of fruitgrowers conduce to the necessary interchange of ideas. The great demand now is for the best products, and, while competition is drawing the lines closer all the while, the man who is not keeping step with new conditions is left behind. Finally these meetings help bring to the fruit-grower four requisites for his success—faith, enthusiasm, judgment and knowledge.

The response was given by Dr. Caldwell, who after replying appropriately to the cordial welcome received, gave a review of the work of the society since its organization thirteen years ago.

Hon. E. L. Smith of Hood River, president of the state board of horticulture, gave a ringing address which was enthusiastically received. He has a dash and energy which is contagious and which carries a sense of conviction to his hearers.

Speaking of organization, Mr. Smith said it is a matter of necessity that fruit-growers associate themselves closely together to obtain satisfactory results. This is the day when corporations and not individuals transact the business of the world. He commended co-operative fruit unions, which educate their members to better methods, promote their intelligence and bring them into closer relationship.

Five Short Papers.
Professors Conley and Keisely of the Oregon Agricultural College occupied the greater part of Saturday forenoon's session, the former on the "curl leaf question" and the latter upon "chemical properties of fruits."

E. H. Skinner of Springbrook spoke from forty years experience upon "The Cherry," dealing with some of the problems to be overcome in cherry culture.

"Cover Crops" was the subject of a paper read by L. T. Reynolds of Salem, who advocated, for the benefit of the soil, the sowing of vetches in the orchards about the time the fruit is harvested.

A paper on "Afterthoughts" prepared by Ann Holaday of Scappoose was read by Prof. Lake. The writer humorously recalled the hopes and disappointments in his career as a horticulturist in the last ten years, at the same time expressing a hope for the future.

Editor E. Hofer on the Strawberry.
There are addresses and then there are addresses, but it was the real thing in this line with which Hon. E. Hofer of the Salem Capital Journal favored the horticultural society Saturday afternoon. The poet speaks of finding sermons in trees and running brooks etc., but Mr. Hofer found his in the strawberry. His discourse was full of fervor and enthusiasm, but orthodox, and carried conviction to the hearts of his hearers. The speaker said that for years he had believed in all his spare change on strawberries and as a rule had received no change in return, but yet declared he was an enthusiast over the little fruit, and believed thoroughly in it. He proceeded to paint a beautiful picture of the possibilities of strawberry culture in Western Oregon, declaring that the Willamette Valley berry is destined to take the markets of the business if the people will only develop the prospect. The necessity was emphasized of specialization, or the growing of different berries for different purposes and markets; of patient concentration upon the principles of the business; of the grower raising his own plants, studying their adaptability to the soil; of getting one or two good varieties and staying with them; of marketing only the best fruit, and of co-operating in the business with fellow growers. As good varieties Mr. Hofer recommended the Ideal, Loyds, Kansas, Du Maurier, Marguerite, Downy's Pride, Beverly, Sunshine, Sample, and Double Cropper.

The need of pushing the strawberry canning industry was impressed, as one of the most valuable industrial enterprises to all classes of people. He recommended that the people in this part of the state graft the Hood River spirit of enterprise and go in to win. "Willamette Valley is the strawberry paradise of the world and we are fools not to enter therein." In closing Mr. Hofer became impassioned and the sparks of inspiration caught fire with an answering glow from his audience as he closed with the words: "The strawberry patch is the connecting link between town and country, between city and suburban homes, the golden road to industrial emancipation for the white faced inhabitants of rented houses, giving employment to the largest numbers in field and factory helping the multitude to get and to keep the most sacred and beautiful thing in the world—a well furnished American home supported by honest health-giving industry by old and young."

THRIVING BAKERY

There has been great demand in the city and at the sea shore for the bread and pastry made at C. E. McIlwain's capital bakery. For the last two weeks he has been working day and night in order to supply the demands for mountain campers and harvesters. His baking is noted for its fine flavor and healthfulness, and for the coming hoppicking season, it will take every moment of his time to keep up the supply. Mr. McIlwain has only conducted his bakery a few months, and it is surprising to see how his business has picked up. The public has found out what good bread is and where it is made, and consequently Mr. McIlwain is doing a rushing business.
