PEARY ARCTIC EXPEDITION HEARD FROM AT LAST

A Relief Party Returns With His Wife and a Child

LIEUTENANT PEARY WILL MAKE ANOTHER EFFORT NEXT APRIL

No Truth in the Reported Gold Discovery in the Arctic Region's - Dangers to Which the Relief Expeditions Have Been Exposed to - Between Icebergs and Great Floating Fields of Ice.

New York, Sept. 21.—Herman K. Bridgman, secretary of the Peary Arctic Club who conducted the Peary relief expedition of this year and the young men who accompanied him, have returned home. With them came Mrs. Peary and her little girl who was born in the Arctic regions eight years ago.

"Next April," says Mr. Bridgman in Brooklyn last night, "Peary will start for the pole from Cape Hecla the highest point of land he has discovered in the west, which is only 500 miles from the pole. If he should never reach it his discoveries have been important enough to warrant the time he has spent in the north but he will reach the pole."

Mr. Bridgman said he had the satisfaction of knowing that Peary had a supply of walrus meat large enough to carry him through his undertaking. The explorer returned with the Bridgman party, as far as Cape Henschel, where his winter headquarters were, four days after it occurred, Mr. Bridgman, at Sydney, heard of the shooting of President McKinley. Peary will not hear of it until next summer.

"The last relief expedition," said Mr. Bridgman, "was the eleventh out by the Arctic Club. They have lost all elements of the dramatic. We were twice in danger, however. Once we got caught between a glacier and an ice flow and went around on a muddy bank. We were lost for several hours and the danger was that the ice pack should sweep around us and make us prisoners."

The Captain pounded a hole in the nose of the floe, fastened a big hawser to the floe and in 10 minutes the great body of ice, whose movement you could see at all, had swung up clear of the whole thing. "The most serious time was when we got caught between the lip of ice, under water and the glacier. We got away all right, however," Mr. Bridgman said that so far as he knew, there was no truth in the report from Halifax, N. S., that Peary had discovered gold in the Arctic regions. If such a discovery had been made by Peary, Mr. Bridgman thinks, undoubtedly would have spoken to him about it.

The committee on resolutions made a report, some of the principal recommendations being:

That the work of the government officers of every public road institution in the department of agriculture, should be enlarged into a bureau, and that an appropriation of $150,000 should be made by congress for this purpose.

That this Congress endorse the use of convict labor where practicable in the work on public roads or in the preparation of materials.

That this Congress heartily approve the use of the wide tire on all public roads and the payment of the usual taxes in cash instead of labor.

A committee of five was appointed to see that the recommendation is placed before every Representative and Senator in Congress.

That it is necessary for the purpose of carrying on the work of good roads construction to complete and perfect a chain of organizations in each state, territory and county, for thorough concerted action and that the Vice President of each state for the National Good Roads Association be authorized to organize a state good roads society in his respective state or territory. That we recommend the plan of state supervision and cooperation to the several states.

Roosevelt's Appointments. WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Following appointments were made today by the President's Council: George O. Corlies of Pennsylvania, to St. John, N. F.; Alonzo B. Garrett of West Virginia, to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico; Jessie P. Johnson of Texas, to Santos, Brazil.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—President Roosevelt today appointed B. Ridgely Comptroller of the currency to succeed Comptroller Dawes who had resigned. Ridgely had been selected by McKinley but the appointment was not completed before his death.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The annual statement of the American Board of Foreign Missions. The total receipts of the year applicable for current expenses were $97,370; total expenditures $717,081; excess of expenditures over receipts $19,710, which, added to the debt of a year ago, makes the present debt $18,234. The receipts for the past year, compared with those of last year show a gain in donations from churches and individuals $19,637; a shrinkage in receipts from the Woman's Boards of $16,118 and a shrinkage in legacies of $30,256. A large legacy was expected during the year but for good reasons the payment has been deferred for a few weeks. Had this been received it is stated, the board would have met its hopes and would have made a considerable reduction in the debt with which it is at the year. The board is said to be in a much stronger financial condition than a year ago, notwithstanding the increased debt.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Madrid correspondent of the Times says that in view of the number of religious associations in Spain that have not been legalized, a royal decree from six months from now as the limit of time in which these associations must register according to the law. This affects all religious associations except the one authorized by the concordat.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Dr. William C. Gray, the venerable editor of the Intelligencer, who recently underwent a surgical operation, is ill at his residence, 104 Oak Park. The physician says that Dr. Gray's condition is serious.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The Marquette Club, which adopted resolutions for the extinction of anarchists, at its memorial services in the Auditorium Thursday night, does not intend to let the matter drop, with the passage of the resolutions. Tonight the members of the club will hold a meeting to appoint a committee to formulate ways and means for the carrying out of the campaign against anarchy.

The plan of the Marquette Club is to bring the matter before Congress when it assembles. W. L. Bush, president of the club, said the move is not to be a political one as it is desired that every liberty-loving citizen of the republic shall help to urge Congress and the state legislatures to pass the earliest possible moment, laws against anarchy.

Laws against anarchism as stringent as the constitution will permit, and along the lines contemplated by the Marquette Club, were talked of by a party of national lawmakers returning yesterday from President McKinley's funeral. Senators Allison and Dooliver of Iowa, Clark of Montana, Speaker Henderson of the House of Representatives; Governor Otero of New Mexico; A. B. Cummins, Republican candidate for Governor of Iowa; Representative L. H. Wing of Wisconsin; Ex-Congressman James Hamilton Lewis of Washington, and a number of other western Congressmen, made up a party that travelled on the same train from Canton.

In a discussion of anarchism and the dangers of its teachings it developed that all were practically of one mind on the main question—the necessity of repressive measures against proponents of the cult. The plans suggested ranged from deportation of anarchists to some lonely Pacific island, to prevention of meetings of all persons who speak against a Republican form of government. The entire party was a unit for a statute making an attack on the Chief Executive treason, punishable by death.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—The Philadelphia Medical Journal today says: Now that the track of the wound has been laid bare an exclamation of surprise has swept over the land. Gangrene, the result of devitalization of the tissues or possibly the irritating action of some unrecognized germs or virus had destroyed the patient.

The unexpected had happened. The proper course had been pursued, the wound had been cleaned, the infection had been averted and the medical and surgical men who had labored so loyally and conscientiously in behalf of their patient had the satisfaction of knowing that no mistake had been made. The unusual sequel against which no precaution could have been taken had only revealed itself in its latest stages by the rapidity of the pulse, a symptom which might have been purely functional, and one common to many conditions. We, as medical men, may point with satisfaction to the surgical records of the two great national patients, President Garfield and President McKinley, as an exemplification of the best techniques of surgery, during the last two decades.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Commenting upon the South African situation, the Lyndon correspondent of the Tribune says:

Anxiety with regard to the situation in South Africa is intensified by Lord Kitchener's latest message announcing the loss of two more British guns. The war is not over and even some of the Unionist papers are blaming the government here as a real calamity which the country has been deluded into the belief that the Boers were at end of their resources. General Botha has for a week past been meditating a raid into Natal and no doubt he is acting in co-operation with other Boer leaders. Whether he has enough material at his command to enter upon a campaign on a large scale in Northern Natal is open to doubt, but at the same time Lord Kitchener may not have enough men successfully to oppose the Boer Commandant General, unless he considerably reduces the number now employed in chasing commandos throughout the length and breadth of Cape Colony. Natal is almost the only province in South Africa which is beginning to recover from the misfortunes of the last two years and it offers tempting prey to the raider. A fresh invasion of the colony would be regarded here as a real calamity.

The financial outlook is also far from satisfactory. On the stock exchange rumors are current that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will ultimately have to float another large issue of Consols.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—A group of passengers booked to sail on the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on Tuesday next is Captain Arthur Lee, ex military attaché to the British Embassy in Washington, and Conservative member of Parliament from South Hampshire, Captain Lee and his wife have been in this country for a month, visiting in Maine. As the representative of the English army Captain Lee campaigned in Cuba during the Spanish-American War. During that campaign he spent a great deal of his time with the Doughboys and became intimately acquainted with President Roosevelt. He said:

"As a student of the American people I count myself particularly indebted for being in this country during the past week. I have seen them in the days of their exultation, in the days of their prosperity and pride, and now I have seen them in their hour of humiliation and grief. The absolutely universal feeling of affection for the stricken President, and of genuine sorrow over his death, as expressed by the highest and the lowest, presents to the foreigner a new phase of the national character."

"Have you ever heard it remarked that heretofore President Roosevelt has been inclined to sympathize with the Boers, in the South African struggle," was asked.

"I have talked with him on the subject," said Captain Lee, "and I think I know his views, but of course I could not abuse his confidence by repeating anything he might have said. I will state positively, however, that he never made any secret of his appreciation of the heroic attitude of the English soldiers in Cuba and that he has not forgotten it. England has nothing to fear from his administration, and I think the readiness of my government to acquiesce in the United States during the struggle in Cuba and that he has not forgotten it. England has nothing to fear from his administration, and I think the readiness of my government to acquiesce in the United States during the struggle in Cuba and that he has not forgotten it."

Speaking of the probable work of the house of commons at its next sitting Captain Lee expressed the hope that one of its first discussions would be upon the Nicaragua Canal treaty.

"I have every hope that the United States Senate will accept the new treaty signed here in December," said he, "and I hope that the treaty will come before the English parliament in January. I know that every desire on the part of my government is for the canal. The means the largest of the time has not been the matter of the American case, but the manner in which it was dealt with in the Senate when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was presented. For my part I am large at every opportunity in the House of Commons an early and favorable settlement of the case, and believe the outlook is bright."

GOOD ROADS CONGRESS

New Form of Tax Proposed For Road Improvement Fund.

Resolutions Adopted Favoring State and Local Organizations.

BUFFALO, Sept. 21.—Lewis M. Haupt, of the Isthmian Canal Commission; Captain H. M. Chittenden of the United States Engineers at the Yellowstone National Park, and William Pierson Johnson, Deputy State Engineer and Surveyor, are presenting interesting stereoscopic pictures before the International Good Roads Congress. Mr. Haupt showed some examples of neglected highways in various parts of the United States and in contrast some of the modern paths of business and pleasure travel here and abroad. Captain Chittenden's illustrations were of road construction and maintenance in the west.

Senator H. S. Earle, of Detroit, president of the League of American Wheelmen, made a vigorous address, in which he spoke of the work accomplished by wheelmen for road improvement, and advocated a tax on every seat in every wheel and on every vehicle used on a road in the United States to form a fund for the repairing and rebuilding of roads.

The committee on resolutions made a report, some of the principal recommendations being:

That the work of the government officers of every public road institution in the department of agriculture, should be enlarged into a bureau, and that an appropriation of $150,000 should be made by congress for this purpose.
