WRIT OF REVIEW DISMISSED

Judge Boise Decides Controversy

County Court Can Have the County Records Examined as They Please.

Officers Will Offer no Further Resistance to the Exporting of Their Books.

The writ of review, in the matter of the controversy of the county officials and the county commissioners' court as to the exporting of the county records, was argued before Judge Boise in the circuit court Saturday afternoon. The facts of the case were fully given in Saturday's JOURNAL.

A. O. Condit, associate counsel, presented the county court's case to the court. In giving the authority of the county court to make the order for examination, Mr. Condit quoted besides the passage of law previously given, an article which reads: The county court shall have management of the county's property, business and affairs, except as otherwise provided by law. The manner of presenting the facts was that the officers resisted the examination of the books in a way rebellious to the jurisdiction of the county court, and with a view to preventing at any time such examination. Mr. Condit also stated the officers were not the proper ones to begin the suit, inasmuch as they were not parties to the proceedings at the time the contract was made.

Replying to this Mr. Hunt stated that if they were parties to the proceedings at all, they were so at the time of the contract. Also that if the court took this action at this time, because they had failed to do so, as prescribed in the law, the January or July terms, they have at this time no jurisdiction in the matter and such orders should be null and void, and that if the records were not examined at the proper time it was the negligence of the court and not the fault of officers. Mr. Carson called attention to the fact that the letter of the law was not followed in that the order was made at a specially called session instead of at the regular term.

The defendants' attorneys then stated that the proceedings before the county court were ministerial and not judicial, and therefore not subject to review.

In handing down his decision this morning Judge Boise dismissed the writ of review. The points considered by him were that the county court has the power to employ persons to assist the court in the examination of the county books and that the court can do the work at any time, the statute of law naming the time for the examination, being for the purpose of calling attention to the duty. On these grounds the writ of review was dismissed.

The officials have decided not to appeal the case to the supreme court, and the court and its clerks, Messrs. Clark and Buchanan, will proceed soon with the investigations.

MEDALS FOR OREGON

Salem's Quota of the Pan-American Prizes,

Oregon's proud record at the Pan-American Exposition is 129 honorable mentions for the products displayed at the Buffalo fair. With a small appropriation Oregon took a well-selected state exhibit last, and the results have not only reflected great credit upon the state, but have also brought many of its industries into greater commercial prominence.

Writing to President A. P. Tift, of the Oregon Pan-American Commission, Colonel Henry E. Doach, general superintendent of the Oregon exhibits, says: In addition to awards already made, several are still undecided, and we may possibly win several medals.

The following are among the Salem people who secured the coveted prizes.

PLANS A HUNT POSITIVELY!

President Roosevelt Years for Week in Rockies Before Congress Opens — Snapshot of the President in His Hunting Costume.

President Roosevelt is said to be strongly yearning for a few days' hunting in the Rocky Mountains. Reports of the daring tactics pursued by him when hunting, and the many thrilling incidents of his last winter's trip, are causing his friends to use their utmost endeavors to dissuade him from any such perilous enterprise. Although it is hardly possible that Mr. Roosevelt will carry out his desire to go to the Rockies for a week's hunting before Congress opens in December, at the same time it is very probable that the world will, sooner or later, be treated to the novel spectacle of a President of the United States chasing wild cats.

A NEW YUKON CANARD

Skagway, the Home of Fake Yarns, Has a New One.

A Republic to be Established in the Klondike.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—The Call today prints an unconfirmed story from Skagway, Alaska, under date of Nov. 6, telling of the discovery of what is alleged to be a huge conspiracy existing at Dawson, and ramifying to Skagway, Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle, for the overthrow of the local government of the Northwest Territory and the establishment of a republic, with Dawson as its capital.

According to the details of the story, arms, ammunition and provisions have been taken in over the railroad and cached at strategic points. Prominent American residents of Skagway are said to be ring leaders in the conspiracy. Miners to the number of 5000 are said to await the summons of arms, ready to fight for independence from Dominion south of the gold-field camps and towns.

The plan is to overpower the mounted police, arrest the civil authorities and take the government into their own hands. The rigors of the Arctic winter would give the insurgents six months' immunity from attack by Canadian or British troops, and the adventurous arch-conspirators hope for intervention or outside assistance by the time the melting of ice and snow will permit the invasion of their isolated Republic.

PRESIDENT DISCUSSING RECIPROCITY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The President's time today was largely occupied in a discussion of reciprocity. Senator Cullom, talked with him on that subject and a delegation of agricultural implement manufacturers, who are here to attend a reciprocity convention tomorrow presided, and representative Daisell, Penna, entered a memorial strongly urging that something be done.

They thought the French treaty more nearly represented the best possibilities in the way of reciprocity. It is considered settled that Cullom will be at the head of the foreign relations committee.

MAKING A NEW TOWN.

What a Great Industry Has Done in Pennsylvania.
The town of South Sharon is a creation of the Sharon Steel company. The originators of the company about two years ago purchased over 1,000 acres south of Sharon, and after selecting sites for the furnaces and mills laid out the remainder of the land in lot plans. The lots have been disposed of with phenomenal rapidity.

The steel company has under course of erection 550 dwellings, to be either sold or rented, as tenants may prefer. There are also over 150 other houses going up in the town. When all the mills are running, many more homes will be erected to accommodate workmen, to say nothing of other inhabitants of the place.

The main streets have been paved and sewerage, and tracks for an electric car line between the town and Sharon have been completed. It is likely that the town will be incorporated as a borough and called Buld City, in honor of the first president of the steel company.

The new town is now in the midst of a building boom. The finest building thus far erected is the four story brick office structure of the company on a terrace 20 feet above Broadway, the main street. The next building of prominence is the Broadway hotel. In the business section stores are being built, another hotel is soon to go up, and in the residence districts many handsome homes are being erected.

THE BOER WAR.

England does not deny that General Kitchener is a prompt and reliable reporter, but she becomes more and more doubtful whether the news service is worth the expense.—Washington Star.

Sword, bayonet and lance exercises have been abolished in the British army and rifle practice has been substituted by order of Lord Roberts—the first real victory the British have got out of the Boer war, a heavy price to pay for a lesson which the plainest common sense ought to have taught.—New York World.

A MODEL VILLAGE.

Power of Example Made a Town a Garden Spot of Beauty.
How to establish a model village is illustrated in Leclaire, located about 18 miles from St. Louis and begun by a manufacturer ten years ago. It differs from Pullman in that its residents enjoy the liberties permitted to dwellers in any municipality, and therein is believed to lie the secret of its success.

There is no boss in any form. No resident has ever been asked to cut his grass or to go to church or keep sober. The opportunity was created, and then the people were allowed to work out their own material salvation. It is a park village, with winding roads, an abundance of trees and about a third of an acre of ground with each cottage. These cottages are sold to those of the employees who care to buy, the monthly payments being about equivalent to city rents. Each house has running water and electric lights, and with each cottage the corporation furnishes a lawn mower and plants from a greenhouse established for that purpose. There are a bowling alley and a billiard room, a clubhouse for unmarried men and a lecture and dance hall, schools, a baseball field, tennis courts and skating ponds.

"At the start scarcely any of our people made any gardens; scarcely any planted flowers," says the creator of this bit of earthly paradise. "They did not know how to do it or care for it. By infectious example they now all have gardens and handsome yards. For three years I have lived in the center of the village with my own family and my daughter's family."
