Salem Justice Court.

Clyde Stanley, aged about 21 years, was arrested Saturday night, charged with larceny in a house. The articles stolen belonged to Mrs. Walcott, who lives on Church street and who makes her living by doing housework. The only positive proof of a theft is of a clock, valued at $1.50. Several other articles are also believed to have been stolen by him. Part of the goods were disposed of to a second hand goods dealer in this city. The trial was set for 1 o'clock.

When arraigned Stanley pleaded not guilty, but at the time for the trial he withdrew this plea and entered that of "guilty". The trial was therefore dispensed with and the prisoner sentenced to 12½ days imprisonment in the county jail.

BOER GENERAL DELAREY CRUSHES A BRITISH LINE

General Lord Methuen Wounded and a Prisoner—Four Guns are Taken.

Boers Attacked the British in the Gray of Dawn-- Charged on three Sides with Irresistible Force-- Consternation Reigns in London.

LONDON, March 10.—General Delarey has defeated and captured twelve hundred men. General Methuen and four guns fell into the hands of the Boers. This last terrible reverse to British arms in South Africa was read in the House of Commons today. General Methuen's entire force of the twelve hundred are taken and Methuen himself is a prisoner and injured. The announcement created intense excitement in the House. The news came in a dispatch from Kitchener, and says: "I greatly regret to send you bad news about Methuen. With nine hundred men under Major Parris and three hundred infantry, four guns, and a pompano, he had started from Wynburg to Lydenburg where he was to meet Greenfield with thirteen hundred mounted troops, but on Friday morning early it was attacked by Delarey between Twobesch and Pamptekhill. The Boers charged on three sides. Five hundred and fifty troops have come in at Mariboga. They were pursued for four miles. They report Methuen, Major Parris, and all the guns and baggage captured. General Methuen, when last seen, was a prisoner. I have no further details of the fight and suggest that you delay publication until I get more definite news. Lord Kitchener is a second dispatch sent on Sunday, says: "Major Parris with the remainder of his men has arrived at Krasipan. He reports that the column was moving in two columns, those with mules. The Boers attacked after dawn, the mules were stampeded and all the mules and wagons with a terrible mixture of mounted men rushed past the ox wagon, all efforts to check them being unavailing. Major Parris collected four hundred men but after a gallant but useless defense, the enemy rushed them. General Lord Methuen was wounded in the thigh, and Parris being surrounded, surrendered at ten in the morning. Three officers and thirty-eight men were killed and five officers and seventy-two men wounded. Two hundred men are missing. After reading the bad news Secretary Broderick added a word of apology for the defeated British general: "Methuen, he said, had 'been conducting operations for two years in a difficult country. His failure to relieve Kimberley didn't reflect to his discredit.'"

In the House of Lords the under Secretary of War dramatically read the telegram. Earl Roberts, commander in chief of the army, made a speech eulogizing Methuen's success throughout the war. The scene of the battle is in the southern part of the Transvaal in the vicinity of Mafeking. Methuen has long been credited with being one of the best tacticians in the British army. Early in the war he was given command of a division of the British army which started to the relief of Kimberley and Mafeking. He met with fair success until he struck the Modder river where Cronje was waiting for him. The battle of Magersfontein followed resulting in the defeat of the British with heavy loss. Gen. Wanchope was killed in this engagement. Lord Roberts then relieved Methuen. It is an open secret that social influence has kept Methuen in Africa while Buller and Gatacre have been disgraced for smaller blunders.

GREAT STRIKE IN BOSTON

Thousands of Laborers Will Probably Quit Other Cities to Ten Thousand Affected in Hub.

Boston, March 10.—What may prove to be the biggest strike that has ever taken place in Boston was inaugurated this morning when teamsters, freight handlers, freight-clerks, and longshoremen to the number of several thousand refused to go to work. Not only is it expected that fully ten thousand will be directly involved here, but that it will extend to other New England cities. The immediate cause of the strikers action was the discharge of seven freight handlers for refusing to handle freight brought to a shed by a non union transportation company.

His Man Was Appointed.

As an instance of the acuteness of Al Daggett, the former Republican leader of Kings county, N. Y., the story is told that when Seth Low was elected mayor of Brooklyn some years ago he wrote to Mr. Daggett, offering to appoint as commissioner of elections one of any three men he might name. Al wrote three lines to the mayor, as follows: "Charles Henry Cotton, C. H. Cotton, C. Henry Cotton." Needless to say Mr. Cotton was appointed.

PRINCE IN CITY OF QUAKERS

Prince Henry at Philadelphia Today.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Russia has taken sides with Germany in the controversy respecting the attitude of British Ambassador Pauncefoot toward the United States before the Spanish American war. The statement is made by the Russian Foreign office and was forwarded to the State Department by the American Ambassador at St. Petersburg. The charges are preferred by Germany that Pauncefoot, previous to the opening of the war attempted to induce the powers to express their disapproval of the policy of the United States.

Sheep Cause Trouble Again

TACOMA, March 10.—The farmers of the Yakima valley have requested the Interior department to exclude sheep and cattle from the Rainier forest reserve declaring that grazing injures the water shed, furnishing the water supply to the eastern Washington arid belt.
