A DIRECT NOMINATION LEAGUE.

Both political parties have demanded direct nomination of all candidates in their platforms in Marion county. The Lockwood law, enacted by the last legislature, as demonstrated and tried at Portland, only legalizes one set of bosses or the other, and destroys all political organization. A number of Salem gentlemen, of all parties, have determined to take steps to have a proper direct nomination bill drawn and presented to the next legislature.

Petitions are out for the formation of a Direct Nomination League of an entirely non-partisan character. Those favoring this reform should call and sign these petitions at The Journal office, at the office of Mr. E. C. Cross, who presented the matter and secured its adoption in the Republican county convention, and the office of Mr. W. T. Slater, who secured its adoption in the Democratic convention. Governor Geer, Timon Ford and other Republicans of prominence are in favor of this reform, and so should be every American citizen who understands how the primaries and nomination of candidates are carried on under the slating and packing program. As soon as enough names are secured an organization will be perfected to secure this reform most needed.

U. S. SENATORS BY THE PEOPLE.

The Democratic state convention did its duty honestly, and deserves commendation for nominating a candidate for the Senate to go before the people, as the law of this state provides shall be done.

When it is considered that the same faction that passed the law was in control of the Republican state convention, it was a cowardly evasion not to nominate a candidate.

The truth is, there are four or five of that faction expecting to be made senator by the next legislature, and they cannot trust one another, and some of them would hardly dare to submit themselves to popular vote.

The people have clearly noticed that the scenes of the last legislature are to be repeated, when both factions bought votes with appropriations, and another senatorship is to be bought with public money.

C. E. S. Wood, the Democratic nominee, is an able man, so radical a free trader and anti-imperialist that he does not even stand on the very reasonable Democratic state platform.

It may suit the purposes of the anti-Simon faction, or even of Mr. Simon, to have no candidate for United States senator nominated in the Republican state convention, but it would have suited the people of Oregon to have had that question decided by themselves, and taken out of the legislature entirely.

HERMANN IS NOT BARRED.

There is a disposition among some Republicans to bar Binger Hermann, former congressman from this district, from the race for the senatorship.

The Journal has not always agreed with Mr. Hermann, but it believes that harmony in the party is not possible along the line of barring out any Republican.

If the state convention had seen fit to nominate a candidate for senator to submit to a popular vote, and had named Mr. Hermann, he would have received as large a popular vote as any man in the state.

As the choice of Republicans will again become an apple of discord, he has as much right to enter the scramble as any man, and the state might do worse than have Binger Hermann elected.

WEATHERFORD AS A CAMPAIGNER.

J. K. Weatherford, the Democratic nominee for congress, is probably the ablest Democratic campaigner in the district. He has been over the district somewhat, and will put up an energetic canvass.

He is a logical speaker, and, at times, becomes glibly oratorical in the highest sense of the word. He will come nearer lining up the Democratic vote than any man the Democrats could have put up.

THE KILLING OF 18,000 BIRDS

The five Chicago clergymen who took a special trip to Kansas City the past week to attend the grand American handicap shoot and to see for themselves whether 18,000 pigeons to be killed during the contest were to be slaughtered in an inhuman manner, returned home in time to fill their pulpits Sunday and to denounce in the strongest of terms the slaughter of the birds. The Rev. H. A. Percival stated that, in his opinion, the shooting of those poor pigeons was more degrading than are the bull fights of Mexico and Spain. "Language fails to express the disgust I feel, and I pause to wonder if it is a civilized country. Pigeon shooting is a disgrace to our land. No worthy object is served, and it is nothing but barbarism. The Rev. C. G. Kindred said that the cruelty shown by the shooters is simply a demonstration of what chaffers men will take when once their brute nature is aroused, while the Rev. R. Keene Ryan said that the Kansas City affair is a striking indictment of every minister, every Christian and every law-abiding citizen. It is a wonder to me that God does not send some terrible scourge upon a people who permit such barbarous acts in their community. We would not permit a bull fight, and yet these poor little pigeons are just as much worthy our love and protection."

The Rev. M. E. Fawcett said that the slaughter of birds in the Kansas City shoot was not sport. It was simply assassination, and he said that when he left the ground he had small respect for the shooters, no matter what their skill, and no respect for the so-called sport. The Rev. F. C. Priest, the fifth member of the commission, also denounced the practice of using living birds for shooting contests, and said that the Christian people of the whole country ought to make themselves heard, and put an end to the barbarism. All of which is respectfully referred to the lawmakers.

Can the Oregonian mention one point of public policy on which Senator Joseph Simon has not been right in his votes in the senate? Can it mention a single important issue on which Simon did not stand exactly with the Oregonian since he has been a senator—until his recent abandonment of its position to get within the Mitchell faction? The Journal challenges it to name wherein Simon has been wrong. Right or wrong, Simon has been steadfast and consistent in his Republicanism. Can the same be truthfully said for Mr. Scott? This would not be important were it not for the unfortunate fact that Oregon has but one large city as a center of political influence, and that city until within a month had but one daily newspaper. Oregon Republicans are today without honest leadership.

The Four-Track News is one of the most entertaining illustrated monthlies devoted to travel and transportation, published in the world. It is issued by the passenger department of the New York Central railway, called America's greatest and fastest railroad. Write to G. H. Daniels, general passenger agent, New York, for a copy. It is only 50 cents a year, and the pictures in one number are almost worth that. A great deal of space is devoted to illustrating the Pacific Northwest.

Oregonian Editorial: Every reader of the two opposing political platforms in this state campaign must have been impressed with the striking correspondence existing in many points, such as flat salaries for state officials, election of senators by popular vote, initiative and referendum, Chinese exclusion, river improvement, organized labor, land laws, trusts, federal aid to irrigation, lighthouse canal. On these and perhaps on other heads the two parties make professions that are substantially identical.

The East Salem school boys have formed an Union to play base ball with all other schools this year. Only members of the union can play. Membership costs 25 cents and applicants the boy paying that princely sum to all privileges of the organization.

Mr. Furlish's friends insist that he is a little the swiftest man in the state, but forget that the race is not always to the swift.

Astoria Budget, Dem.: A Roseburg paper suggests that if Geer becomes tired of all that senatorial consolation coddling, he might emigrate to Ohio, where his speeches received such favorable notices last year. Perhaps the people of the buckeye state will give him a berth in the senate at the right hand of Marcus, the boss.

Albany Democrat: Mr. Geer is out of politics and thoroughly disgusted as he has reason to be with the wire pulling methods resorted to against him, but he will accept U. S. senator if thrown at him. Certainly, and so would any other Oregonian.

Astoria Budget: Undertaker Pohl has bought a new disinfectant that is, at the same time, a fruit sprayer. He is a farmer as well as an undertaker and kills two birds, if not two men, with one stone. He may take the double agency of the machine.

So far as the editor of this paper has light on the subject, he would rather hear one Oregon meadow lark's burst of song than all the "divas" and "prima donnas" this side of kingdom come.

Portland Journal: The state printing office ought to be owned by the state. That institution is the pivotal spot of the biggest graft in Oregon. It is time it was pulled down.

The Marion county ticket stands a very good show of being elected without the use of money, and is not that the way politics should be conducted if this is to remain a free country?

The following verse may be seen in a public place in Salem: "With a gall that never falls 'em, it's the politician of Salem."

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

It is announced that the promoters of the $750,000 ship subsidy bill will not attempt to press its immediate passage through the lower house of Congress. It has passed the Senate, and they will let it rest for awhile.

It is an exceedingly unpopular measure. The people of the country do not believe that they should be taxed beyond reason to swell the enormous profits of a few ship-building syndicates, having a joint capital of many hundreds of millions of dollars. Members of the House who will be candidates for reelection next fall appreciate this great fact. It will have an important effect on the campaign in every congressional district now represented by a Republican member.

With this understanding it is said that the bill will be held out until after the fall congressional elections. It will retain its life until the short session, which begins next December, and will close March 4, 1903.

The rich syndicates can afford to wait. They hope that the bill of boodle and fraud may not become an issue in the fall congressional elections.

Members of the House are already fighting shy of the subsidy scheme. Many members may favor it on principle, and for such of their interests as are not involved with their plans for a reelection. They believe that the passage of the bill by their votes would be fatal to them in their respective districts.

Those politicians may rest assured that the ship subsidy bill will be an issue in the congressional campaign, whether it passes now or is held out for passage at the second session of this congress, to meet after the elections. If the bill passes every member who voted for it will be called to account. If it is kept over until next session, every member will be required to pledge himself against it before his re-election is secured.

The voter should not take too much stock in the report that the subsidy bill cannot pass the House. This announcement is made to lull them into complacency, to restrain their watchfulness over their members, to get the subject out of the public mind before the next election.

But eternal vigilance is the price not only of liberty, but of our security against bad, corrupt, unequal legislation, such as the subsidy bill, which proposes to tax all the people for the benefit of a few syndicates.

Congressman Tongue has certainly done well by Salem to get us a federal postoffice building and many new brick buildings for the Salem Indian school.

Who can name the real leader of the Republican party in Oregon before the people.

A Umatilla Indian is said recently to have cast off his squaw, because she persisted in painting her face.

Salem should increase the Greater Salem Commercial club until it has a thousand members at two-bits a month. That would insure an income of $250 a month to be spent in advertising the city.

Harvey Scott says "there is nothing in it," but has already begun a desperate fight lost his statement should prove untrue.

SALT WATER BATHS.
Big Natatorium to Be Erected at Astoria.

Phil Condit is in town from Seaside. He reports that Mr. Zellar, the Chicago man, began work yesterday on the erection of a grand salt water swimming tank and baths at that place. It is located on the beach near to and a little north of the new Grimes' Seaside hotel. It will be completed in 50 days, and in ample time for the summer travel, to which it will add a great deal. The cold waters of the Pacific seashore resorts will be heated to suit the delicate people. It will also be most agreeable to many, who do not like to get into the surf. The largest tank will be 60x25 feet. Smaller ones will also be erected.—Astoria News.

A Good Growth.
The firm of McEvoy Bros., on Court street, who have been doing a thrifty business in dry goods, notions and furnishings, have had such a good business that they need more room, and are compelled to increase the size of their building. Work has begun to double the size of the room by building an extension at the rear. This will give them an opportunity to handle their growing trade.
