

Candidates Before the People of Oregon

"WHAT I SHALL DO WHEN GOVERNOR"

(From Portland Evening Journal)

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

BY W. J. FURNISH.

At the outset, I can promise the people of the state of Oregon that when I am elected governor their every right shall be deeply respected.

I believe that I can truthfully say that when my term shall have expired the people will have no cause for complaint against my administration.

My every act shall be in accord with the rights of the entire people. My administration of public affairs shall correspond to my administration of my private business—shall be conducted on a plane of economy commensurate with the best interests of a progressive commonwealth.

It shall be my ambition to serve the state as the trusted manager of a great private business would be required to serve those by whom he was employed.

There will be no unnecessary frills or furbelows about the gubernatorial office if I am chosen to fill it. I shall seriously contemplate the trust imposed in me, and shall aim to discharge it in the interest of all the people, as my best judgment shall dictate.

In my hands the office of governor shall conserve the entire state, preferring no one section to another section, nor one class of citizens to another class.

BY GEO. E. CHAMBERLAIN.

If elected governor, I will do whatever is necessary to correct abuses in the way of official extravagance which are recognized as existing.

I have no hesitancy in saying that whatever may be the political complexion of the legislature my first aim will be to scrutinize every act that comes to the executive for his approval and if vicious or extravagant, I will have no hesitancy in placing upon it the seal of my veto.

I believe that the officers of the state should be placed upon salaries, and the constant and repeated violations of the constitution with reference to increase of salary by the creation of useless commissions with salary attachments ought to be abolished, and I will do all in my power looking to the accomplishment of this result.

I promise, if elected, a business administration in every sense of the word, and a saving to the taxpayer for the state an amount as large in proportion as I have been enabled to save the taxpayers of Multnomah county in the administration of the affairs of the office which I now hold, and I appeal to my record in that respect as a guarantee of my good faith.

With reference to the management of the public lands of the state and the common school fund, and other matters connected with the fiscal affairs of the state, they will each and all have my undivided and careful attention.

Marion County Candidates for Oregon Legislature

E. M. CROISAN.

Hon. E. M. Croisan, the Republican nominee for senator from this county, is too well known to its voters to need much introduction at the hands of his newspaper friends. He was born March 27, 1855, at the pioneer home of his father, Henry Croisan, three miles southwest of Salem. He grew up on the farm and continued to make his home there until about thirty years of age, when he was appointed deputy sheriff of Marion county, serving in that capacity for four years. In 1888 he was nominated for sheriff on the Republican ticket and elected. After serving two years he was re-nominated and again elected, in June 1890.

After retiring from office in 1892 he engaged in the farm implement business in Salem, which he conducted until May, 1901, when he sold out in order to give more attention to hop raising, which business he is now extensively engaged in. He was chairman of the Marion county Republican Central Committee in 1894; superintendent of the state reform school from 1897 to 1899; member of the Republican State Central Committee for Marion county in 1896.

Mr. Croisan is an active citizen in the prime of his manhood. He has acquired some property, and takes pride in keeping up a fine home, as well as assisting in many public enterprises. He has the ability to represent his constituents ably in the Oregon senate, and will no doubt bend every energy to that end, and to make for himself a record as a good, careful business legislator.

FRANK DAVEY.

Frank Davey, born in Ireland in 1859, came to America in 1867, to Oregon in 1866, to Salem in 1887; newspaper man and lawyer; man of family and pretty home in this city; a ready, vigorous writer; an able orator and debater; entirely fearless and open in all his professions; loyal under all circumstances to his friends and to his principles; independent of factional influences, thoroughly versed, by theory and practical knowledge, in the affairs of the state—such a man ought and will make a useful and reliable legislator. He was nominated on his merits in answer to the desire of the people, and not because he was the choice of politicians, hence he may be depended on to keep a strict watch on the farm, and was educated at the Jefferson institute. Engaging in merchandising, he successfully conducted such business in Jefferson for 16 years, during which time he gained a wide acquaintance and a thorough knowledge of the people. In 1895 he retired from the mercantile business and moved to this city, where he now resides. He is engaged in the fire insurance and guarantee bond business, conducting it successfully at 299 Commercial street.

One of Mr. Roland's supporters well says that he will bring to the office qualifications that are needed there, and he will give to the people an administration that will be in all respects satisfactory.

JOHN W. ROLAND.

There is no candidate on the Republican ticket that commands more respect than does John W. Roland, the nominee of his party for the important position of county clerk. He is a clean, active young business man who is favorably known and possesses all the qualities to acceptably fill the position to which he aspires.

Mr. Roland was born in Danville, Illinois, September 1, 1848, and crossed the plains by ox team, with his parents, in 1852, locating on a farm one mile east of Jefferson, and he has thus been a resident of this county a half century. He grew to manhood

A GREAT NATIONAL PROBLEM.
In spite of the fact that there is practically no Democratic party in Multnomah county, and of the fact that the Republican and Democratic platforms are almost identical, the Oregonian refers to the coming state election as drawing the attention of the nation.

"As goes Oregon, so goes the world." The eyes of the nation are upon you! The retention of the Philippines depends on the coming election! That is the song sung to enable one faction to triumph over the people.

That has been used to carry every election for twenty years, with more or less force, and is the only hope for success of the Jack Matthews Republicans in this campaign.

So far as steadfast Republican principles go, the welfare of the Republican party will not be promoted by the success of the faction that run things

Politics of The State

The Citizens' movement composed of Democrats and dissatisfied Republicans in Clatsop county, held a mass meeting Wednesday at Astoria, and after adopting a lengthy platform, containing a plank opposed to fish traps in the Columbia, named the following ticket:

SQUIRE FARRAR

Squire Farrar, who heads the Marion county Republican ticket as candidate for state senator, is one of Salem's old and tried citizens whose life has largely been spent here, and who has been known as an active business man for a quarter of a century.

Mr. Farrar was born in England 62 years ago. At the early age of 8 years he came to the United States, locating with his parents in Massachusetts, and when he attained manhood's estate he came to Oregon, reaching here in 1862. He first stopped at Brownsville, where he secured employment in the woolen mills, but he soon came to Salem, accepting a position in the Wilamette Woolen Mills then running here.

In 1870 he started a grocery store, and most successfully conducted it until 1892, when he disposed of the then large business, engaging thereafter in the hop business, and his wide knowledge of the growers, together with his high standing as a business man and a citizen, has brought him into the front rank in the hop trade.

Mr. Farrar was always interested in securing manufacturing establishments for this city, and it was he who went to Brownsville and induced the late Mr. Thomas Kay to come to Salem and start the Salem Woolen Mills. Mr. Farrar took a generous block of stock in Mr. Kay's Salem company, and has stood loyally by the business until it is now a most prosperous one.

As his friends know, Mr. Farrar has always been a Republican, having voted for Abraham Lincoln twice, and every Republican president down to McKinley. He has at the same time been sufficiently independent to be always found among the better element of his party, and a hearty supporter of the best class of local government. He has several times served on the city board of aldermen, with great credit to himself and the city, and the broad knowledge of public affairs he has acquired will be of incalculable value to the people of the state in the important business matters that will come before the next legislature.

Mr. Farrar does not play the game of politics, but his nomination is the result of a demand on the part of all elements of the party in this county. It will give good men in all parties pleasure to vote for him.

Besides battling a few political parasites, what will Oregon get out of that appropriation that is being spent on the Charleston Midway? Nothing but whetting the appetite of the same parasites for another raid on the next legislature.

The Young Men's Democratic Club, of Baker county, have arranged for the opening of the campaign in Eastern Oregon at Baker City, April 25th, when George E. Chamberlain has accepted an invitation to be present.

Clayton county, Iowa. Mr. Clough lived in Iowa until the spring of 1876, when he came to Salem, where he has lived ever since. He has been in the undertaking business for 23 years. He is now at 107 State street, where he has had his business for 14 years of the time he has been in Salem.

Mr. Clough is a careful and honorable business man and a good citizen. He is ever faithful to duty, and he will attend to the work of the office of coroner of Marion county in a manner that will satisfy his friends and the public generally. He is in every way deserving of the place at the hands of the electors of this county.

THOS. B. KAY.

The Journal takes great pleasure in unqualifiedly commending Thos. B. Kay to the voters of Marion county as a candidate for representative. He is a good type of citizen to have put to the front, and with more such men in the halls of legislation the people of Oregon would be better served. He is a manager of one of the largest woolen mills on the Pacific coast. It has the largest payroll in Salem, and the employes get good pay. The mill is a good paying business to its projectors, and a credit to Oregon.

Mr. Kay was born in Trenton, New Jersey. He became an Oregonian before he was one year old, his parents landing in Salem 37 years ago, in 1855. He spent his early years in Brownsville, Oregon. He was literally brought up in the woolen mill business, his father being for many years manager of the factory at Brownsville. Mr. Kay spent three years in McMinnville college. After that he worked in a store in Portland for a year, beginning when he was 29 years old. For twelve years previous to coming to Salem Mr. Kay was engaged in business in McMinnville. He came to Salem in 1885, going into the service of the Thos. Kay Woolen Mills as assistant manager and salesman. He served in this capacity until the death of his father, Thos. Kay, in April, 1900. He was then chosen as manager of the mill and president of the company, which position he has since retained.

Mr. Kay was a member of the city council of McMinnville during his residence there, and also of the school board. He is prominent in the Masonic order and is also a Woodman.

A. M. CLOUGH.

A. M. Clough, candidate on the Republican ticket for coroner of Marion county, was born at St. Johns, Vermont, September 4, 1850. When he was six years old his parents removed to Buffalo, New York. After a residence there of a year they went to Signers to the Call.

There are a hundred or more signers to the Direct Nomination League, among them the names of the following well-known citizens of various parties:

T. Geer, Tilmon Ford, E. C. Squire Farrar, R. J. Hendricks.

Our Work For Cuba

In 1854 it was proposed at the Orleans conference that the United States should pay $120,000,000 for Cuba. For four years later we entered upon a war to free Cuba, which cost us $400,000,000. We compelled Spain to relinquish the sovereignty of the island, took possession of forts and harbors and all public property. We sent Spanish soldiers home at our own expense. We paid the Cuban troops out of our own treasury.

We rebuilt and constructed railroads, constructed hundreds of miles of wagon roads, brought order out of revolutionary chaos, reorganized the government, protected the Cubans in all their rights, maintained an army in Cuba to preserve peace and expended some millions of dollars in building up what Spaniards and Cubans had destroyed.

After all this expenditure of money, after three and a half years of reconstruction work, the United States on May 20th is to turn the island over, without money and without price, to the Cubans for local self-government.

No other nation ever did so much, spent so much for a struggling, aspir-
