

Mrs. Laura S. Webb, Vice-President of Women's Democratic Clubs of Northern Ohio.

HERE ARE MANY sickly women between the ages of 45 and 55, but there are very few invalids over 55 and 60 years of age. The change of life coming to a woman near her forty-fourth year, either makes her an invalid or gives her a new lease on life.

the change of life which was fast approaching. While visiting with a friend I noticed that she was taking your Wine of Cardui, and she was so enthusiastic about it that I decided to try a bottle. I soon found that I was not the first to be benefited by it, for I had heard of it for three months and now I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax. I do not dread it now, as I am sure that your Wine of Cardui will be of great benefit at this time.

Wine of Cardui is the remedy to re-inforce a woman against the shock that comes with the change of life. It re-establishes healthy functions after years of suffering. In doing this it has saved thousands of sufferers just in time. Do not wait until suffering is upon you. Thorough preparations should be made in advance. Begin the Wine of Cardui treatment today.

A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

FURNISH AND THE PHILIPPINES.

And now the Corvallis Gazette manifests symptoms of mental derangement lest Oregon might elect Chamberlain governor, and thus lose the Philippines to our beloved country.

The only salvation of the policy of expansion must come through the election of Furnish to the governorship! Furnish! Oh, the witchery that charms the very atmosphere where the magic name is even whispered! Furnish! What would become of great national policies and the ambition of nations should't thou be returned permanently to the smiling slopes of the Umatilla reservation.

Furnish! What an inexpressible solace comes to the troubled mind when thou art near to instill courage and confidence where the disposition of great international questions is involved! Even now, with the Moros in armed insurrection, the American army, costing us millions per week, Cuban reciprocity brought to a standstill and the "open door" question undecided, the Congress of the United States has called a halt, and propose to do nothing more, expenses or no, expenses, until the 2d of June rolls around, and it is definitely known whether Oregon says "Furnish."

Day by day the Oregonian and a few other "furnished" papers screech in stentorian tones that the nation will be set back in the march of progress full fifty years if, by any shortsightedness, the voters of Oregon should show any lack of appreciation of this newly-discovered banker from Pendleton.

Experienced and accomplished business men, who lost their thousands during the period of hard times, frequently meet in the streets of Salem these days, and, in the frantic tones of frenzy itself, bitterly reproach themselves and each other, or the fates which kept this savior of the material world in the background during those troublous days.

"Listen," they say, "to the matchless words of his on the stump day after day, as he arouses the admiring hosts to a dangerous pitch of "quiet enthusiasm," and declaring his positive convictions on great national questions. Oh, if he could only have been governor of Oregon during those trying times, what an era of prosperity it would have assured the people of the whole United States!

Nations are waiting under the almost unbearable strain of breathless suspense, and the moon and stars are listlessly hanging in the heavens with noticeably diminished refulgence, fully determined to go permanently out of business, as a discouraging effort not worth the unappreciated struggle, unless Oregon unmistakably declares on the 2d of June in favor of the Fulton-Balch speech, Jack Matthews, Little Doc and Jim Kyle.

THE WORTH OF A MAN'S LIFE.

The New York Central railroad has just taken an appeal from a verdict granting no less than $60,000 damages to a wife for the loss of her husband who was killed in the Park avenue tunnel horror, where two trains came together at great speed while running into the city through a subway. This is said to be the largest amount ever awarded for the loss of a single life, and the decision of the higher courts will be watched with interest.

There is no doubt that the decision of the higher courts will be anxiously watched by the New York Central, for in case this verdict is allowed to stand it will form a most troublesome precedent and the road will have to pay over $1,000,000 on account of death claims, alone, from that one accident. There is no arbitrary limit to the amount of damages to be obtained in such cases as this in New York state, and the jury is simply left free to fix the damages in accordance with the loss actually suffered by the family of the deceased. The value of a man's life has been a topic of much discussion, and the decision of the New York supreme court may make the figure a high one.

In the case at bar the husband of the plaintiff was about 35 years old, and was earning about $4000 a year in an excellent position. He had nothing outside his income, but he was in excellent health, and, being a man of good habits, it was pointed out by the attorneys that his earning capacity in the next few years would have been increased, if anything. The sum of $60,000 damages awarded the wife was the equivalent of what would have been his minimum gross earnings for a period of fifteen years, and it is held that he would surely have lived and worked that long had not that terrible accident terminated his career. The jury did not think the $60,000 awarded any too much, and it will be interesting to hear from the supreme court on that point.

MR. ROOSEVELT TO THE RESCUE.

From the Washington Post.

The president's action in urging a prosecution of the so-called beef trust will receive the grateful plaudits of the country. The Post has on more than one occasion in the past pointed out certain conspicuous advantages which have been conferred upon the general public by the operation of these vast combinations of capital and industry, though it has never sought to deny or belittle their undesirable and often onerous effects. Much is to be said—much has been said, and will be said—on both sides of the question. In its character as an academic theme the controversy will doubtless last forever. But as regards the special development now before us—a development of what seems to be ruthless and intemperate rapacity—there can hardly be two opinions. It may, and of course it will, be urged on the part of the packers that there is a scarcity of the raw material, justifying the recent increase of prices. Philistines will tell us that we consume too much beef in any event, and that an emergency compelling us to practice self-restraint in that respect will be highly beneficial to us all. The fact remains, however, that public opinion condemns the action of the trust, and what is much more important—perceives in that action an exercise of power which is not consistent with the general welfare. Mr. Roosevelt, therefore, will establish a new claim upon the esteem and confidence of the American people by his efforts in their behalf. He will be regarded, and justly so, as the champion of the oppressed—as the one chief magistrate who, in the whole history of the anti-trust agitation, has substituted action for the old familiar hair-splitting platitudes of the past. He has infused a much-needed ingredient of ozone into an atmosphere hitherto unpleasantly lifeless and stagnant.

George Chamberlain has waged a clean campaign and has not deserved the black-guard cartoons that are sent broadcast over the state every day by a Portland paper. But the editor of that paper is insane to have a governor of his own for once, and as he can't own George he has to own the other fellow. These cartoons are making friends for Mr. Chamberlain and will add much in showing people that anyone need not be a good fellow in the estimation of Harvey Scott in order to be so in the estimation of the rest of the people of this state.

The Furnish men are going to make a spread for next Friday, but the public will also know that somebody has been in town after Chamberlain

On the 23d of last month the Oregonian said that "the Simon sub-bosses have for twenty years been stuffing the primaries in Multnomah county." And to think that during all that time Harvey Scott has been whooping them up as the personification of purity, and pouring hot shot into the "affiliated gang of grafters" which he is just now roasting. What a load of experience Harvey must have by this time!

The Journal trusts that Mr. Furnish's powers are not all diminishing. Never since the next day after the Republican state convention has the Oregonian described its earthly idol as a man with "unlimited capabilities." When we read that editorial we hoped mightily that at least the man had been discovered who could build that railroad to Mars.

A woman in tears, protesting against her name being voted upon for the office of "Madam President" of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, which occurred at Los Angeles yesterday, was truly feminine. We never see anything of that kind at masculine conventions.

The Boer war will have cost Great Britain, exclusive of interest on the war debt, something more than $250,000,000 before the close of the present fiscal year, even if peace be concluded at the earliest possible date, as a result of the present negotiations.

The Bank of Russia now holds a gold reserve of $250,000,000. The United States treasury contains about $200,000,000 more than that amount in actual gold coin or bullion.

King Leopold of Belgium wanted to yield to the strikers a few days ago, but was overruled by the cabinet. After all a king is nothing but a mere figure-head.

Butchers are organizing everywhere for local slaughter. There should be no middlemen between the butchers and the farmers.

Corvallis Times: George Chamberlain can travel and campaign without a chaperone.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
