No dealer will draw a purchaser's attention to the weak points of a bicycle, but there is nothing to prevent an intelligent buyer from discovering them for himself, if he will ask a few intelligent questions. I am going to give you a few questions to ask your dealer, and if he answers you to each, buy quick, but if he refuses to answer, gets mad or tells you it's all hot air, just remember that he owes the sound of his cash register bell and is afraid he won't get a chance to cross the keys. Every Racycle dealer will answer "Yes" to each question.

Questions.

1. Are you prepared to state positively that it will push easier when properly adjusted, than any other bicycle on the market?
2. Will it climb a steeper and longer hill than any other bicycle on the market?
3. Can you tell the number of pounds strain on the chain to every 150 exerted on the pedals?
4. Do you know the larger the front sprocket on a bicycle the less strain there is on the chain?
5. Have you ever tested the matter for yourself, or seen samples of such tests?
6. Would you know how to go about it to make such a test?
7. Isn't it a fact that the less strain there is on the chain the easier any wheel will push?
8. If the strain on the chain of the machine geared to 93 inches is less (by reason of larger sprockets) than the strain on the chain of a wheel geared 85, won't it push easier than the lower geared machine?
9. Has its hanger the widest spread of balls for the narrowest tread of any wheel on the market?
10. Does the chain pull on the shaft between the bearings?
11. Are the bearings in a direct line under the center of the cranks?
12. Is the sprocket so placed on the hanger as to prevent any side pull on the chain?
13. Is there over one-fourth less pressure on the bearings of its hanger than on the balls of any machine made?
14. Has its crank hanger a magazine self-oiler?
15. Are its crank bearings practically dust-proof?
16. Can you honestly recommend its hanger as being constructed on absolutely correct principles?
17. Isn't any piece of machinery that has its pull on the outside of its bearings a mechanical error?
18. Are its sprockets cut with flanges on either side the teeth to prevent the chain from jumping?
19. Are the front and rear hubs on the best and latest models of this machine equipped with dust-proof magazine self-oilers.
20. Are the spokes the best grade Diamond?
21. Is the fork crown a solid forging doubly reinforced?
22. Can your factory truthfully say that not one of their 1900 or 1901 forks went down or were broken?

COUNTY CANVASS GOING

T. B. Kay Shows He is a Debater.

E. M. Croisan Again Refutes Lawyer McMahan.

Wednesday the candidates took in Aumsville, Sublimity and Stayton. Good crowds greeted the speakers at each place, especially at Stayton, where a grand audience was present. Thursday McMahan and Gatos were made, which was a severe trip. At Aumsville the Democrats charged that the Republicans refused to pledge themselves for senator, and at the same time accused them of being promised to Senator Simon, or Gov. Geer or some one. This double-back action position brought out from Davey Kay and others of the Republican candidates the statement that they were pledged to no one, and would not be.

At Aumsville Mr. Kay made a good strike. He stated that if elected he would favor all bills of a reform nature that were genuine. He would oppose all grafts and extravagant measures. He took up the points advanced by the opposition, and point by point answered them. He showed that the Republican party would keep its pledges in the future, as it had in the past two years, when it reduced county expenses as promised. He showed that the present tax law was not a Republican measure, but that its good points should be perpetuated and the bad ones eliminated. He showed that it was no worse for Republicans to buy votes at $2.00 a head than it was for Democrats to sell their votes at that price.

He asserted that Mr. Dimmick had been absolutely consistent, inasmuch as he had four set stories which he tells at every place, taking up eight of his ten minutes with those stories. He showed that Mr. Furnish is as good a Republican as Dimmick is a Democrat, both having changed about the same time.

Croisan Replies to McMahan.

"As you are all aware, I am not a public speaker, but as I am before the people of Marion county as a candidate for state senator, it is only right and proper that I should state what I will do if elected to the legislature. I shall vote for a law placing all of our state officials upon reasonable flat salaries, and I am in favor of repealing all fees and perquisites pertaining to state officials.

"I am also in favor of a primary law for the registration of voters and direct nomination of officers. "The initiative and referendum amendment to our state constitution will be before the people at the coming election for adoption or rejection. I am in favor of adopting this amendment and shall vote for it myself because I believe it to be a good measure and I trust that every voter in Oregon will give it his support on election day. If we adopt this amendment it seems to me that it will certainly result in preventing bad legislation in the future.

"I am in favor of amending our present tax collection laws. I think that 12 per cent interest and a penalty of 10 per cent is too much. The present law does not give sufficient time to pay taxes before they become delinquent, and it enables a man with ready money to get 3 per cent discount, while others have to borrow or pay the penalty. No one should have a discount, and the rates of interest and penalty should be made less, and the time extended before the tax becomes delinquent."

Mr. Croisan proceeded in conclusion to deal with the circular letter sent out against him concerning his fees by his opponent, L. H. McMahan. He stated that he made his accounts out in detail and submitted them to the county court and commissioners. That he had an understanding with them that he was to receive 50 cents for taking hobs out to work and 50 cents for returning them to jail. He said that sometimes there would be two or three and a few more, perhaps six or seven occasionally, and the law provided that these warrants should be worked on the highway in charge of the sheriff, but it did not provide for furnishing guards, and so the court agreed to allow him 50 cents for discharging and 50 cents for recommitting each prisoner so worked by him on the highway, and he was himself to pay the guards.

He said his opponent had published about the largest one of the bills and that his opponent was seeking to take an unfair advantage of him before the people, inasmuch as he had submitted all of his bills in itemized form to the county court and commissioners and that body had the opportunity to investigate his accounts item by item, before approving them—that nothing was concealed.

Mr. Croisan referred to his emolument returns as filed with the secretary of state each six months of the four years that he was sheriff, and he stated that his opponent had not treated him fairly when he published his emolument returns and did not publish his expense accounts, which were reported at the same time.

Mr. Croisan showed from the record that he drew from the county during his two terms of office

$26,665.34; that his total expense account during the same period was $16,774.50, thus leaving him a net salary for the entire four years of $9,890.84, which is less than the present salary allowed to the sheriff's office under the salary law. That the remainder of the money he made was by fees paid him by litigants for serving and executing their papers, and did not cost Marion county a cent.

After fully explaining the charges in the circular letter to the apparent satisfaction of the audience, he concluded by saying that he thought Mr. McMahan could interest the voters of Marion county a great deal more than he had done by this circular letter, by explaining to them how he made the money on which he took his European tour in 1897, soon after the hold-up legislature of that year adjourned. He said this would be the more interesting because his opponent's name did not appear upon the tax roll for that year, and is not now upon the tax roll, and it certainly cost two or three thousand dollars to make that foreign trip through the European countries.

He said he had understood that his opponent claimed that he went on a fish hook expedition, but that he had never heard of his raising any money in Europe or of his raising any money on his fish hooks.

OREGON NURSERY COMPANY

Secure Men to Take Place of Strikers

There was not the slightest semblance of a strike at the yards of the Oregon Nursery Company this morning. The places of the workmen, who abandoned their jobs Thursday afternoon, were filled, and the work was continued without any serious interruption.

Of the 32 men in the employ of the company, 20 quit work and refused to return except their wages be increased from $1.50 to $1.75 per day of ten hours' work. A reporter saw a Nursery Company man, who said:

The company refused to grant the advance, and the men quit work. The strikers were replaced without any trouble, the only difficulty to the company being in the selection of the score of men that was required from the many applicants that responded to the advertisement that appeared in Thursday evening's Journal. The great majority of strikers were last night initiated to membership in the Salem Federal Labor Union.

This is the duller season of the year in the nursery business, and the strike would not have seriously crippled the company, had the management been unable to replace the men.

Speaking of the strike, M. McDonald, president of the company, said the relations between the men and the company had always been pleasant. "Our nursery has been paying better wages to laborers than any other nursery on the Pacific coast," said Mr. McDonald this morning, "and we could not afford to grant a further advance when we are compelled to sell our product in competition with firms that are employing cheaper labor. In the winter months, owing to the shortness of the days, our men are not required to work later than 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and we made no reduction in their wages. Should the other nurseries on the coast advance their wage schedule equal to or surpassing the wages paid by us we would willingly meet the advance, but we consider the demand that has been made on us for an advance in wages is an unjust one, when it is considered we are already paying the maximum wage schedule of all Pacific coast nurseries."

SOCIALIST PARTY GROWING

Rocky Rooster Ryan Would Win Out

He Says If He Had Another Month to Fight.

R. R. Ryan, Socialist candidate for governor, returned to the city today. He has been canvassing the state with the Wilson Brothers, and reports a growing interest in the cause he represents. He says if they had a month more they would carry the state. He left today for meetings in Linn and Benton counties.

A prominent Republican claims that a large vote for Ryan will help out Mr. Furnish, as the Socialist voters would largely go to Chamberlain if Mr. Ryan were not in the field. On the other hand it is claimed the strength of the Socialist vote would go to Mr. Furnish, if it were not cast for Ryan. It is to be regretted that the Socialists have put out candidates at Salem for justice of the peace and constable, as it complicates the political situation on those offices that are very important to the taxpayers.

An Advertising Artist.

Salem can now boast of having several of the best advertising artists in the West. They are the men who write the advertisements of the several department stores which appear in the Daily Journal and elsewhere. In this issue appears a cut made by one of these artists, which is as good as can be made anywhere, and it is, without a doubt, the best cut ever made in Salem, not excluding professionals. It is the work of D. A. Dinsmoor, and appears in the upper left hand corner of the large ad of Meyers & Sons on the first page of this paper. Mr. Dinsmoor is engaged at that establishment as salesman, window dresser, ad writer, buyer and man of all work. He has nothing else to do for 27 hours in the day, but manages to attract the attention of buyers by his artistic work in the ads and show windows. Del is a Salem boy, and has a large circle of friends who enjoy seeing him at the front.

Coos Bay News, (Dem.): Republican headquarters at Portland claim to be in possession of figures from all the counties in the state, which assure the election of Furnish by a handsome majority. If the figures received from other counties are not more reliable than the ones furnished by Coos, there will be great disappointment at headquarters in Portland after the election. Numbers of good Republicans in this section will prefer to vote for a straight Democrat, like Chamberlain, instead of supporting a flop-over like Furnish.

Senator Mitchell writes an endorsement of the constitutional amendment providing for initiative and referendum. While it is not likely to be used very often by the people it may be well to have it so that unwise or corrupt legislation can be defeated.—Cottage Grove Times.

There is plenty of Furnish money to bet, but this is a year when there is more in it for the taxpayer to vote independent than to be swayed by election bets.

LABOR UNION ACTIVE

Many New Members Are Instituted

The Salem Federal Labor Union held a largely attended meeting in Turner hall Thursday evening. Twenty-five new members, including a majority of the striking nurserymen, were initiated, increasing the total membership of the organization to about 125. The union will stand by the nurserymen in their demand for increased wages.

The union will hereafter hold its meetings in the Hurst hall, on State street, and will arrange for interesting sessions. A great number of committees were named last night, including one on non-union goods, press, program and music.

CIVIL SERVICE OPENINGS

Some Good-Paying Positions To Be Filled

The Salem civil service commission will on June 17th conduct an examination of applicants for appointment in the service as photographic assistant and record and identification clerk in (the United States penitentiary service. From the eligible resulting from the examination it is expected certificates will be made to the position of photographic assistant, male, at the Smithsonian Institution, at a salary of $70 per month.

The duties of the position of record and identification clerk in the United States penitentiary service are to prepare and keep accurate records of the prisoners, their conduct while in prison, their history, and such identification of them that their identity may be at all times clearly established. To successfully discharge the duties of this position requires peculiar qualifications in respect to the knowledge of the criminal classes and their history, also such professional and technical attainments as are necessary to secure the measurement and complete identification of criminals in a reliable manner. The system of measurements and identification as at present used in the penitentiary service is what is known as the Bertillon system of identification, and unless especially instructed in that system no officer is able to furnish complete records and history of prisoners under his charge to the satisfaction of the department. The person filling this position must also be an expert in the matter of photography of prisoners, as he is required to make use of photography in securing identification.

From the eligibles resulting from this examination it is expected that certification will be made to the position of record and identification clerk in the United States penitentiary service at Atlanta, Ga., at a salary of $1200 per annum, and to other similar vacancies as they may occur.

GODFREY HIGHLY ENDORSED

Salem's Candidate for State Printer Abroad

Portland, May 23.—Speaking of J. E. Godfrey, for state printer, the Portland Journal has this to say: Mr. Godfrey enjoys the distinction of having been the president of the first typographical union in Oregon, the one organized in Salem many years ago. He has been in the employ of the state printer's office for 25 years, having served under all administrations during the quarter of a century past.

Mr. Godfrey was endorsed by the Federated Trades at a recent meeting, with unanimity, the members of the federation taking considerable pride in having a man on the Democratic state ticket who represents union labor so efficiently as does Mr. Godfrey.

It is especially complimentary to Mr. Godfrey that the question as to his fitness and attributes of character has never been raised. His fellow-workmen and those of all branches of industry in the state of Oregon are supporting him with enthusiasm born of a pride in the recognition of union labor in the make-up of a state ticket. The election of Mr. Godfrey is essential to the carrying out of the reforms proposed at this time. He will be an efficient assistant to George E. Chamberlain, who is leading the fight for salary reform, and the conduct of state offices upon a legitimate basis, according to the constitutional provisions.
