Our Woman's Department

The Journal's Weekly Budget of Club News and Items of Interest Pertaining to the Home.

The ladies of the Woman's Club who are interested in parliamentary law are requested to meet at the home of Mrs. Dodd, corner of Court and Cottage streets, Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Wilkinson, landscape gardener of the London Public Garden Association, has done noble work in establishing the parks in the crowded parts of that city. Gardening in all its branches, vegetable, floral and landscape, is an occupation in which women are remarkably successful.

Salem Leads the State.
After this Salem's women can take rank with the best parliamentarians in the state. This fact is assured by the ability displayed at the mock convention. It is gratifying to know that the embarrassing blunders, in respect to parliamentary laws, that have marked the proceedings in Portland, and at the State Federation, will be happily overcome by the drills that have been inaugurated under the auspices of the different local clubs of the state, and so efficiently carried on by Mrs. Cole Bethel, of Ohio.

State Board Committee.
Two well known Pendleton club women were chosen as chairman of important committees at the first meeting of the state board last week. Mrs. John Halsey, Jr., of the education committee, and Mrs. E. P. Marshall of the library committee. These ladies have proven their ability to do good work on these lines by their previous records as members of these committees.

Portland Club Journal.
The club journal of Portland comes out this month under new ownership and management. Mrs. Cleveland Rockwell, a well known and efficient club woman, is president of the board of directors. Mrs. J. B. Comstock and Mrs. Mabel Plowman are the editors. Mrs. Rockwell promises that the journal will be published in the interests of the club work of the state and woman's work in general.

The Mock Convention.
The parliamentary class drill, in the form of a mock convention, went off with great eclat last night. The ladies handled the various subjects on social and political reform with surprising ability, under a rapid fire of "motions put" and "amendments amended." Some of the resolutions presented were exceedingly funny, and the repartee of the various delegates in the discussion of them would have done credit to a Chauncey Depew. Altogether the drill has shown what our women have acquired in the way of parliamentary usage, in the class lessons given the last week, which knowledge will afford good service this winter in the sessions held during the anticipated visit of the Portland's Women's Club to this city.

Women Novelists.
The women novelists seem to be having strenuous times, according to Current Literature. Kate Douglas Wiggin is suffering from nervous prostration. Mrs. Catherine, author of "Lazarre," is in a hospital. Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett is in a sanitarium, having broken down physically. The writing of books may, after all, have something of work in it, and possess a nervous strain that few, who have not made the experiment of authorship, can guess.

Bird Study Club.
The Salem Bird Study Club last evening had its last session for the spring season, and adjourned to meet the first Friday in September. A number of interesting reports were given by members last night, and two reports of persons having killed birds were made. This club has now been in existence only about three months, and has a membership of about 80. Several instances of the wanton or ignorant killing of birds have been corrected without arrests, and much good has been accomplished among its members in the way of protecting birds, and assisting them in their mission to help the farmers and fruit growers.

A New British Fad.
A few women in very exclusive circles of society in New York have taken up the British fad of having the arm tattooed. Butterflies, lovers' knots and intricate Oriental outlines are stamped upon the flesh and all in tints in harmony with the pink and white of the flesh. The fad is a pretty one and most likely will be limited to the enjoyment of fashion's elect, as it is very expensive to have the work executed by skilled tattooists.

A clubwoman whose name is being very much mentioned just now by other clubwomen all over the country is Mrs. Caroline M. Severance of Los Angeles, who was made honorary vice-president for life of the general federation at the Los Angeles biennial.

While Mrs. Jennie C. Croly founded Sorosis, and was often called "the mother of woman's clubs," and while Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Mrs. Ednah D. Cheney and other notable women founded the New England Woman's Club at about the same time, it would appear that to Mrs. Severance really belongs the credit of the "club idea," and that more than fifty years ago she thought out the woman's club, so that her work antedates that of Sorosis and the New England Woman's Club, of which she was founder and first president.

Club Woman to Explore Africa.
Mrs. Emma Shaw Coleclough, a prominent club woman of Boston, who has attained considerable fame as a writer, will start June 16, alone on an exploring tour into the wilds of Central Africa. She will take along two large trunks, containing a wardrobe composed largely of pongee.

She will sail from Brooklyn for Genoa by the steamship Allen. After Genoa she goes to Marseilles, thence by steamer, to Zanzibar. From there she will go to Mambasa, and inland by the lately-completed Neganda railway to Victoria Nyanza. Several steamers run on this lake, so she will have no difficulty until she starts by caravan to penetrate the interior.

Mrs. Coleclough has traveled much, having been to the South Seas, Cuba, Australia, and the Klondike, although she has never before been to Africa. She is a member of the National Geographical Society and many women's clubs.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Women Suffragists Hope.
The national officers of the Woman's Suffrage Association who have been holding a business session at the home of the president, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, at Bensonhurst, L. I., to plan for the work of the coming year, have adopted resolutions expressive of rejoicing over the progress made recently in the legal rights of women in different parts of the world. Referring to the fact that national suffrage has just been granted to 765,407 women of Australia, by a practically unanimous vote of both houses of the Federal Parliament, the official board added:

"We believe the men of America are not inferior to those of Australia in justice and chivalry."
Further occasion for jubilation was found in the action of Massachusetts in making mothers equal guardians of their minor children with their fathers of Maryland, in admitting women to the bar, and in the recent passage by many other states of laws enlarging the personal and property rights of women.

Among those who attended the meeting were Susan B. Anthony, Laura Clay of Kentucky, Mrs. H. T. Upton of Ohio, Kate M. Gordon of Louisville, and Rev. Anna Shaw of Pennsylvania.

Woman's Advance.
In a general way we are all aware that woman has taken tremendous strides in advance in the past century; too tremendous, perhaps, to be entirely graceful. But it needs an occasional graphic statement to make us realize just what she has done.

In the days of Harriet Martineau there were but seven occupations for women; now there are but seven in which they are not engaged, said Mrs. Alice Palmer in her address on "Fields for Women," at the graduating exercises of the Y. W. C. A. school of domestic science and Christian work at Boston recently. Massachusetts alone in one generation has been completely made over, industrially, commercially and economically. Men can no longer carry on business as their fathers did, or even as their brothers did. Change, and change which has brought complexity, is the order everywhere, and those changes have had their effect upon the home and upon women, increasing the domestic problem.

There is nothing so interesting, nothing which requires so many sorts of education, Mrs. Palmer continued, as the management of the modern home. In fact, the test of education is getting to be how much one knows about living, the ability, as one philosopher puts it, to see large things large and small things small.

Mrs. Palmer told the girls that there exists for them if they will but take it a practically new profession, as the need for scientifically trained, far-sighted women,—women of experience and administrative ability, in the household department of schools, asylums, prisons, and institutions of every sort, was never so great as now. Trained nursing and superintendencies of training schools for nurses were other fields of work suggested as needing especially the services of trained women. When women have learned to apply scientific principles to their cooking, to sleep with fresh air in their rooms, and in general to cultivate for themselves and their families a sane mind in a sane body the land will cease to be dotted with sanitariums, and the 20th century woman will have met her opportunity.

An Outrageous Invitation.
Butte, Mont., is regarded by some persons as the most wicked city on earth. One peculiarity of the place is indicated by the following circular recently distributed to people there and especially to women:

"Ladies who gamble are welcome at 38 1/2 East Park street. Society ladies, white ladies, colored ladies, working women, all play ponies with us. No body barred. Gentlemen attendants. Come once and you will come again. All ladies like to make easy money, and our customers think us a good thing. First-class drinks served from Driscoll's bar, downstairs. We have assisted many a poor woman on the road to prosperity. Special attention given to widows. We are endorsed by the mayor, chief of police, city council, county attorney, sheriff, Butte Business Men's Association, ministerial association and all good citizens. Married ladies will be protected. Come when your husband is asleep or at work, and should he object we will furnish legal advices and money to procure a divorce. We furnish dream books and good dope. You can drop into our place without being seen. The M. & M. does not give the odds that we do. Keep away from the cellar under the Red Boot—they will skin you. Remember the place, 38 1/2 East Park street.

Every poolroom in Butte has accommodations for women bettors, but no other has gone to this limit before.

I have a second-hand engine and boiler for sale. The engine is a two-horse upright and the boiler a four-horse. It is in repair and ready for use. A bargain for someone. Call and see us.

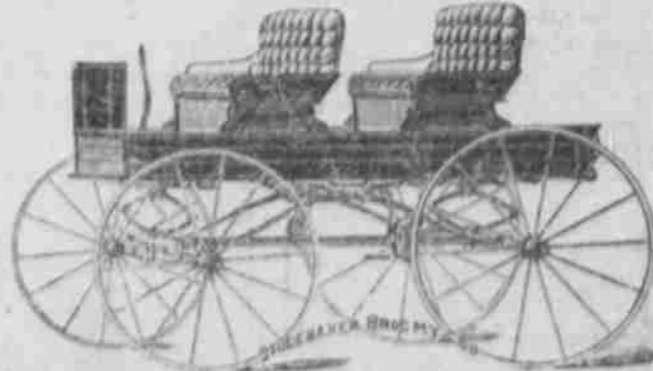

After the arguments are all in, after every salesman has had his say—standing over the machine of his choice and expounding its virtues—there's an argument that speaks in more certain tones than the voice of any salesman. The machine itself.

Take all the kinds of mowers on the market—in Salem or Oregon or the World—line them up alongside a field of the toughest, wiriest grass, nature or art can produce, and the old McCormick will cut more of it, with less work for the horses than any in the bunch, do it more hours in the day, more days in the week, more years, with less expense for repairs than any of them.

The reason lies in the frame, in the gears, in the weight, in the width, in the pitman, in the cutter bar, in the wearing plates, in the lever plates, in the draw cut, in the machine as a whole which combines more good points than any two machines in the field.

Call and see for yourself. If we can't sell you a mower we won't feel offended. It's up to you after you've been the rounds.

We've had a splendid sale this spring on Studebaker goods. More than double that of last spring, and what's more we have sent out a surprising number of our best buggies and hacks. The trade runs to better goods this year than last. It's a fact that the cheaper the first cost of goods, the higher the latter end of the service, and the trade that bought the cheap buggies of a few years since, is the very trade that now calls for the better goods. They've learned the lesson and are ready for promotion.

HOW ABOUT YOU?

We have some neat natty styles in the rubber tired rigs, both open and top buggies that you should have. We have also the best grade pneumatic tired vehicles—the swiftest goods on the market and the best—always on hand. All lighter spring goods second hand or.
