W. Cavanagh, and will extend and furthermore in New York the hop crop is the lightest known in the his Miss Flo Hallock, of Pendieton, who tory of that state. It is estimated that the crop will not exceed 25,000 bales, Rose Bernardi, has gone to Portland against an average of 60,000 to 70,000

"As for England, cables report that vermin are still plentiful, and that the yield in that country will be less than 400,000 cwt., against a crop of 660,000 cwt. in 1901. So that from a statistic al point of view, there is nothing un usual in 20-cent hops."

The reporter asked Mr. Ottenbelme f there was any likelihood of his firm lumping their holdings on the market and foreing the prices down, or "bearng" the market, as the Eugene Guard outs it.

"In answer to that question I can only say," said Mr. Ottenhelmer, "that lost, except in extreme old age. What assuming the Guard's statement or prophecy to be correct, it would be a most silly thing for us to do. What object would swe have in depreciating aglow. It requires careful, scientific the value of our own holdings, to say amount as exported in 1901. Thus far nught our lane shoen the only lare get all we can for our hops, and that] ve intend to do

"Ever since last December the argument has been used with growers by in seeing lower prices, that Lillenthals for the United States have been: out as yet we have not done so, and I when we require every bale we have to the nervous system. According to to supply the wants of our customers. We are the only dealers in the busi ness who have not unloaded their sumply their trade. Growers need have no fear that we will dump our hops on the market, and thereby depress val ues, and they can rest assurred that every bale of hops of the 1901 eros will be wanted by the brewers before Asked as to his opinion of the prob ble value of the 1902 crop, Mr. Ot tenhelmer said that his firm is paying ing to buy the crop of any grower who has not the confidence in values to wait until the crop is in the bale. M: Ottenheimer said that he thought i half their crop at this figure, thereby This is the conservative course, and iminates, in a measure, the gambling the feature of hop buying," concluded Mr. Ottenheimer.

New York Crop.

Says the Waterville Times: "The varm weather of last week and part of this was broken by a cold wave on Wednesday and Thursday, which with the return of wet weather hecked the growth of the vines. oes not seem, therefore that the vine ossible amount to more than one hird of a crop, and there are some eards into which it will not pay to put

"For these reasons the offers for the 902 crop are very high. Several growrs claim that they have been offered to cents, though we have not heard of any one accepting even that flattering orice. It is believed the hops will tart as high as 36 cents. Those, herefore, who have fairly good yards re to be congratulated.

"A telegram received from Oregon day says that parts of the state were swept by a wind storm yesterday, and, that though the extent of the damage s not definitely known, the hop yards ire estimated to have been damaged the extent of 10 to 30 per cent."

THE HOP SITUATION.

What E. Clemens Horst Co. Have to Say in a Letter Dated July 1, 1902. We beg to submit to you the following statistics with reference to the hopsituation in the United States for the past ten years. The realization of these conditions is the cause of the present price of hops in the United States being about one hundred per cent high er than were the prices last fall.

During the past ten years the Paffic coast hops gained an immense hold on English and even the German markets. Last season notwithstand ing the enormous crop in England and the fact that American hops cost over fifty per cent mere than English hops, the exports from this country (over and above the imports to America) were 65,000 bales, and of the 1902 Pacific Coast crop heavy contracts for English browers' account have already been made, and are being made as fast as the growers will soil at reasonable figures.

The English crop this year will run much shorter than the 1901 crop, and indications are that their demand for 1902 American hops will be much greater than for the 1901 crop. In making up the estimate for exports of 1902 crop we have taken the same ount greatly exceed those for 190 ments abroad, the exports for 1902 articles, perfumery, brushes, etc., it will be seen from above figures that while the yearly production of on in the United States was about per cent more in the years 1893 94 and '95 than to any of the years folwing, the consumption of beer in eased by about fifty per cent during e same period.
