Instructions.

My Dear Friend:

You must bear in mind that this medicine is not a poisonous tonic, nor a stimulant, nor a temporary relief, which you get from poisonous drugs, where the results are sure death sooner or later. Those poisons go in your bones and destroy the life of them and create all kinds of diseases, cancerous tumors, consumption, dropsy, bone diseases, etc. Do not blame the medicine when it takes an effect and stirs up the poisons or disease in the system. You must not expect to be cured in a few days, for your sickness or disease has seen a long time coming on, and it will take a long time to get it out of your system. It will take months or a year to build up a new body from the bones up. This is what the people do not understand.

They are used to being humbugged. My medicines are composed of nature's herbs—what the animals get sick they will help themselves to those herbs, for they have the instinct, and the people have not, so we have to make a study of it. It has been a life study with me. Do not get weary; this life is too short and too sweet to worry out of this world.

Dr. Cook cures all kinds of diseases. Dr. J. F. COOK, 301 Liberty St., Salem, Ore., is the man you ought to consult. He is a natural doctor. He is descended from a line of German herbals, the best physicians in the world.

This is his fourth year in Salem, and scores of patients and friends can testify to his skill in their cases.

THE DALLES CHRONICLE

Discusses the Next U. S. Senator from Oregon

Does Mitchell Really Want Scott or Fulton?

As the time approaches when the solons (that's a pretty big word in connection, but we must have it) will assemble at Salem for the purpose of doing, probably largely what the people of the state don't want, interest in the outcome is beginning to appear. Says the Dalles Chronicle. It is generally expected that in the matter of the similitude of its proceedings to the famous encounter of the money and the parrot session will not be one like that of some of its predecessors of the not far distant past, and at its conclusion the parrot will appear stripped of its feathers, and make its now historic declaration "we've had a h—l of a time." The chief question on the public tongue is, "who'll be senator?" and echo answers, "who." At the last session a law was passed providing for the expression of the sentiment of the voters on senator. Under this law Mr. C. E. S. Wood and Governor Geer went before the people and the governor received a large majority of the votes. That vote must be canvassed and announced before both houses of the legislative assembly in joint session. What will they do about it? Of course the law is not binding and the legislators can hear the vote announced and then do as they please which they probably will; but it will complicate the situation and the author and supporters of the act from the turn affairs have taken are now sorry that they spoke. In the meantime, we shall see what we shall see, but let us hope there will be no more holdups and deadlocks and no elections.

A Voice from Baker.

The election of a United States senator to succeed the Hon. Joseph Simon will be the work of the next Oregon legislature.

There are several candidates, avowed and in the background. The one who is the most conspicuous by his efforts is Hon. Chas. W. Fulton of Astoria, who is making his temporary headquarters in Portland, looking after his fences and making himself generally active during the week he was hobnobbing with Senator Mitchell and other whose support he would give his last plank to receive.

While C. W. Fulton, as has already been said, is the most conspicuous candidate for Simon's seat at Washington, there is not one in ten of the knowing ones who believe he will ever be chosen.

He is classed as a middleweight alongside such giants in intellect as Senator Mitchell, Harvey W. Scott and the late Senator Dolph, then, too, he hails from Astoria, and Multnomah country will not take kindly to the election of an Astoria man to the United States Senate.

The under current of political speculation indicates that Harvey W. Scott, editor of the Oregonian, is the most likely aspirant for senatorial honors, but Harvey is saying nothing in or outside of his paper; he is simply sawing wood, so they say.

The Evening Journal is trying hard to force Mr. Scott to come out in the open but he feints to hear not and keeps his peace.

That a warm fight will take place at Salem next winter is certain. There will be fun for all the politicians.—Baker City Democrat.

APPLE GROWERS

CONVENTION OF ORCHARDISTS TO BE HELD IN ST. LOUIS, NOVEMBER 18-19.

The first American Apple Growers' Congress will be held in St. Louis on November 18 and 19. This was the decision reached by the party of representative orchardists who met at the Southern Hotel yesterday afternoon and formed a temporary organization, which will be perfected at the time of the meeting of the congress. Eight of the principal apple-producing states of the Union were represented at the meeting by delegates, and many others have manifested an interest in the movement. One of the active members of the new organization said that the meeting was representative of at least 50,000,000 bearing apple trees. The banner states of Missouri, Illinois and Kansas, as well as the large producing states Iowa, Nebraska and Arkansas, had personal representatives, who took an active part in the proceedings.

"The object of the American Apple Growers' Congress shall be (1) to discuss proper cultural methods; (2) to determine the best methods of gathering all statistics pertaining to the extent and condition of the crop; (3) to secure expert opinion from competent authorities on methods of progress.

After selecting St. Louis as a place of meeting and settling the date the executive committee reported to the general meeting, and their action was accepted. They were then instructed to take entire charge of the preparations for the permanent organization of the congress, and to arrange for the first session. They were given full power to act, and the meeting then adjourned.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat comments on the above proposition as follows:

The apple growers of the Mississippi valley, the men who own the orchards from which the domestic and foreign markets are supplied, have wisely decided to form an association to protect their legitimate interests as the original producers. It is a well known fact that the apple growers, acting individually, are more or less at the mercy of apple buyers or jobbers who keep themselves closely informed as to stocks on hand and prospective crops, but do not share this knowledge with the public or those who cultivate the soil. On the contrary, the statements with which the apple growers are supplied suggest the interests of jobbers rather than a close adherence to the real situation. By a vigorous organization in behalf of their important and expanding business the commercial apple growers of the United States and Canada will keep themselves posted as to the true state of the market and otherwise improve their occupation and proper opportunities.

SPECIAL SESSION ARGUED

Tables Should Be Cleared for Regular

Would Be a Good Thing for the Whole State

USES OF A SPECIAL SESSION.

Portland Journal, August 17. The necessity for a special session of the legislature has been more or less discussed, particularly in respect to the matter of fixing salaries of the state officers-elect before they take office and the enactment of laws to make effective the initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution.

As to the first question, it would seem that the constitution is about as plain and mandatory in its declaration could be, and as to the second it could very well wait until the regular session. There are matters, however, of great importance to the city and county, and in which the whole state is interested, that might very well be the subject of a special session, if one is called.

The cost of a ten-day session would not be to exceed $10,000 or $12,000, but if the time were rightly and conscientiously put to use twenty times its cost would be saved. At the regular session a senator is to be elected, would have been asked. At a special session this would be impossible, and the saving would run into the thousands.

Then, too, the new charter should go into operation on the first of the year. The fiscal year of the city and the calendar year should be the same. If a special session were called for October, all old business under the present charter could be cleared up and a clean table and new broom go into use on January first. On the whole, the Journal believes that a special session called to consider the above questions would result in good to the whole state. It would certainly remove from the field the possibility of making either the fair or the charter a shuttlecock in the hands of rival senatorial aspirants, and leave the coast clear for the usual business of a regular session.

FAIR HEIRS REACH AGREEMENT.

Mrs. Fair's Relatives Relinquish All Claims to Her Husband's Estate.

Sau Francisco, Aug. 29.—Although the heirs of the late Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fair have reached an agreement, it will be six months or a year before all of the legal arrangements can be perfected. The wills left by the decedents will be filed in the near future for probate. Then executors will have to be appointed, and there are a number of minor heirs whose interests will have to be looked after. There will be no contest, however, over the estate, as the Fair children, Mrs. Hannah A. Nelson, Abraham Nelson, Charles Smith, and the other heirs, desire to avoid all litigation.

All the terms of the adjustment will not be made public, but the attorneys state that the relatives of Mrs. Fair will receive the full value of her es-

Baby Born in a Buggy

A girl was born in a buggy as it entered this city this forenoon, says the Albany Democrat of Thursday. The mother, an unmarried girl of about 19, and her sister, fled from Lebanon this morning, intending to take the afternoon train and go to Seattle, where the latter could be cared for, but the trip was stopped at this city by the birth of the unwelcome little one in the buggy. The child was taken to F. T. Blount's boarding house, and a physician hurriedly summoned. All are doing well. Names are withheld for obvious reasons.

The young woman formerly worked in Albany, and it is said the father resides in this city.

late, which has been estimated at $300,000. None of those interested will admit that they are to be given a lump sum in cash. The document by which the Nelsons relinquish all claims on the estate of Charles Fair is in the form of a quit claim, the consideration for which is to be $10 in gold coin. By it Mrs. Nelson and her two sons convey to Mrs. Gehrlich and Mrs. Vanderbilt all their rights, title and interest in 99 different pieces of Fair estate property in this city and county, together with 13 in San Mateo county, six in Napa and four in Yolo, and some holdings in Calaveras county.

This settlement will not affect the application of Public Administrator Farham to secure administration of the will, which is being opposed by the heirs.

S. Smead, the extensive Waterville hop grower, got the first Lane county 1902 hops in the warehouse at Eugene today—and the first for the state, so far as we have seen from exchanges, says the Eugene Guard. The lot consists of 37 bales of Early Fuggies. They are an excellent sample. The whole shipment of 38 bales of Early Fuggies was purchased by Frank Dunn for 25 cents per pound, the highest price for three cents paid for hops for years. Eighteen bales were delivered today. In previous years Mr. Smead has always shipped his early hops East.

VALUABLE PROPERTY ASSESSED

Has Escaped Taxation for Several Years

Will Increase Aggregate Valuation of Tax Roll

It is learned that County Assessor Charles Lembecke is this year assessing more or less valuable property that for years has escaped its share of the burden of taxation. In fact, some of the property that has been listed this year has never before been listed. The effect of placing this property on the assessment roll that is now being written will be to materially increase the aggregate of the property valuations of the roll. On this subject the Salem Sentinel, in its issue of Friday, had the following:

"The Sentinel learns in a roundabout way, and from sources the reliability of which is unquestioned, that County Assessor Lembecke has this year assessed some very valuable property that has for years and years been escaping taxation. It has yielded no quota toward the burden imposed by taxation for the purpose of maintaining state and county government.

"The property that Mr. Lembecke has listed this year for the first time is nothing less than the very valuable franchise, right of way and water ditch of the Salem Flouring Mills Company. The state granted the privilege along in the 60's, when the valuable rights of way for a ditch from the Santiam river near Stayton clear to Salem were acquired. This property was in a measure involved in the recent suit just decided adverse to the state for taking water from the ditch at the state prison for the purpose of supplying the asylum and penitentiary. In the complaint filed in this action the corporation owning and controlling this franchise and water ditch valued the same at about $350,000. And pending the termination of the suit, and until the state could make other arrangements for securing an adequate water supply for the state institutions, the mill company agreed with the state to permit the appropriation by the state of the requisite amount of water for an annual rental of $2000. This will give some idea of the value of the property in question.

"The property has been assessed for 1902 taxes by Mr. Lembecke as personal property, and he has listed it at the modest figure of $50,000. It seems there is a community of interest affected, as the Salem Woolen Mill Company comes in for a one-sixth interest in the property, the Salem Water Company for a one-sixth interest and the Salem Flouring Mills Company for four-sixths. The property will be listed under the heading of personal property, being assessed as 'franchise and right of way, water race and privileges.'

"Another item of importance that has been overlooked heretofore has been assessed this year at a modest valuation. This is the state printing office, which is owned by private parties, and has never contributed anything to taxation. It is understood the printing plant has been assessed to Frank C. Baker at about $3500. The facts of this ownership were fully brought out during the last campaign. Assessors in former years have evidently acted on the supposition that inasmuch as it was a state printing office, the printing plant was the property of the state, hence not taxable.

"Another item that will go far toward increasing the total of arable's roll of assessable property for 1902 taxes is found in the valuable timber lands of the county that have been steadily appreciating in value for several years. These lands have been generally assessed at from $1 to $1.25 per acre. But since so many tracts have recently changed ownership at figures far in advance of this the assessed valuation of timber lands known to be desirable and to possess a wealth of timber has been raised in general."

Assessor Lembecke was seen this morning, and says it is true that he has assessed the property indicated in the above, and also all such valuable franchises. He thinks the owners of such valuable properties should be obliged to contribute to the expenses of the state and county governments. It is Mr. Lembecke's intention to make complete an assessment roll this year as far as possible, and it is in carrying out this purpose that these heretofore untaxed properties are this year being placed on the assessment roll for the purpose of creating revenue."

Free Concert.

Saturday evening a free concert will be given in front of Geo. C. Will's music store on the very latest improved Victor talking machine. Any one can now have for a small sum band music, songs or recitations at their homes. The peculiar noise accompanying music boxes has now been overcome, and they are now easily understood in these late Victor talking machines. Come and hear them Saturday (tomorrow) evening. 8-29-02.
